

CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.

Dr. G. F. J. Colburn, a physician of Washington, has enough faith in the cure for hydrophobia, given below to induce him to print the statement on a postal card and circulate it at his own cost.

The SCIENCE OF LIFE; Or, Self-Preservation.

More than One Million Copies Sold.

Gold Medal Awarded to the Author by the National Medical Association, March 21st, 1876.

First published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Boston, Mass., in 1865, this work has been the subject of the most extensive and successful circulation of any medical treatise ever published.

It is a complete and practical treatise on the science of life, and is the only one of its kind that has been published in this country.

The author has been successful in his efforts to induce the public to take a more intelligent and practical interest in the science of life.

When the bath was at fifty-two centigrade (93.5 Fahrenheit), all the symptoms disappeared as if by magic, and since then I have never felt anything more of them.

When the disease is declared it only requires one vapor bath, rapidly increasing to thirty-seven centigrades, then slowly to fifty-three, and the patient must strictly confine himself to his chamber until the cure is complete.

On searching for the cause, the writer saw from afar a venerable and ancient baboon busily engaged in throwing infant monkeys at the trees.

A USEFUL TREE.—Mr. Morgan, an English consul resident in Brazil, cites in a recent report to his government, the carouba tree, a species of palm (caperua cerifera) as one of the most valuable vegetable productions of the country.

It flourishes without culture at Bahia, Rio Grande de Norte, and other well known localities, resists drought, and always appears green and luxuriant.

Its roots possess properties similar to those of the sarsaparilla. The trunk furnishes a superior fiber.

When the tree is young, it yields wine, vinegar, a saccharine matter, and a species of gum closely resembling sago.

Its wood is excellently suited for the manufacture of musical instruments, as well as for tubes and conduits for water.

Life, GROWTH, Beauty.

LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER.

LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER.

Not a Dye: makes harsh hair soft and silky; cleanses the scalp from all impurities, causing the hair to grow where it has fallen off or become thin.

Can be applied by the hand, as it does not stain the skin or soil the finest linen. As Hair Dressing it is the most perfect the world has ever produced.

Since the introduction of this truly valuable medicine into the world, it has been the wonder and admiration of all classes, as it has proved to be the only article that will restore the original color, health, softness, lustre and beauty, and produce hair on bald heads of its original growth.

Read this Home Certificate, testified to by Edward H. Gray, one of the most competent and reliable of our countrymen.

I am happy to add my testimony to the great value of the "London Hair Color Restorer," which restored my hair to its original color, and the hue appears to be permanent.

I purchased the first bottle from Ed. Swayne & Son, Druggists, 330 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.

Respectfully yours, A. BAKER, No. 50 Randa Square.

DR. SWAYNE & SON—Respected Friends: I have the honor to inform you of the success of your "London Hair Color Restorer."

The color has been restored, the falling off entirely stopped, and a new growth of hair is the result.

Respectfully yours, DR. DATTON, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE JUGGLERS OF MADRAS.

In a city so famous for jugglers, snake charmers, acrobats, and charlatans d'industrie generally.

And gentlemen who live by their wits, in the most proper sense of the word, and who, apparently make a very good living, it was scarcely likely that the Prince of Wales would be permitted to stay long without witnessing the feats of skill for which these wandering Madrasites are celebrated.

Thursday being a comparatively open day, therefore, the morning was selected for an al fresco exhibition of this kind.

The town lost the nomads, Government House gardens received them. Let us look at the savage who appears to make the dried skin of a cobra live.

It is a favorite trick—you may see it done twenty times a day in the streets of Madras. You may examine the apparatus closely every time and, watch the operation as carefully as you please, yet you cannot detect the modus operandi.

The performer hands you a little flat wicker basket, some eight inches in diameter, and asks you to inspect it, while he folds the cobra skin, which you have previously well examined, into a square, leaving only the tail unfolded.

So soon as you have given the basket back the juggler places it on the ground in full view, and under the lid puts the folded part of the serpent's skin, the tail being in your sight all the while.

You may, at this stage, lift the lid once more to see that nothing but the serpent's skin is in the basket, after which you must rest content. A white cloth is taken by the man and placed over the basket, after having been well shaken so that you may be assured nothing is in it.

A pipe is produced, and with it a horrible noise, similar to that always made by snake charmers, and not unlike the sound a cracked and badly made bag pipe would emit, is made.

No one goes near the cloth or basket, except the almost naked man, who cannot possibly hide any live snake in his clothes, for the simple and sufficient reason that he has neither sleeves nor jacket, nor, indeed, any other kind of clothing than a small waist cloth, which would certainly be a most inconvenient hiding place for a lively young cobra.

The sheet is lifted, you look at the basket and see the tail of a living snake being gradually drawn into it, and on the lid being opened a most distinctly energetic serpent is discovered.

No sooner is it stirred than it rises on its tail, spreads out its hood, and strikes with its fangs and tongue at the charmer. No one would care to examine that basket now, with a cobra four feet long making vicious snags at the juggler.

The charmer takes in his gloves, for the simple and sufficient reason that he has neither sleeves nor jacket, nor, indeed, any other kind of clothing than a small waist cloth, which would certainly be a most inconvenient hiding place for a lively young cobra.
