ceal her name; besides, she knew not in cret samily tribunal whose sentence is irrevocable. More I cannot tell; I forgive

my enemies as I trust God will forgive me.

The minister of religion invoked the de-countenance after a time became com-ceived the sleeve of her robe was stained opened, and the bandage no doubt was

At these words a sudden thought struck

the priest. He unrolled the dressing, allowed the blood to flow on his handkerchief,

"Farewell, my daughter; take courage

The hour had expired, and the step of his terrible conductor was heard approaching. "I am ready," said the cure. And hav-the arm of the Duke de-, and left the Arriving at the foot of the staircase, the old man succeeded without his guide's

knowledge in slightly displacing the thick bandage so as to admit a partial ray of lamp-light. Finding himself in the carriage gateway, he managed to stumble and c -roer. The Duke hastened to raise him, and after repassing through the same cir-cuitous route, the core was set down in Without a moment's delay be called his

"Pierre," he said, "arm yourself with a stick and give me your support; I must in-

Soon afterwards the official gate was "Monseigneur," he said, addressing the minister, "a terrible deed will soon be ac-

opened to admit the well-known venerable stantly go to the minister of police."

safety at his own door.

I can only pray."

into tears.

which he stuffed within his vest, and whis-

what place she was.

Pray for me."

with blood.

pered:

awful room.

servant.

voice, "what is this?"

and have confidence in God!'

carelessiy put on."

AULADAM SAUMILIO

NUMBER 49.

The Pisburgh W: civ ... for 1877 will be found to be the largest, cheapest and best family and political journal published in the country, a position it has long held, and will be an improvement over former years in all respects.

The GREATEST POLITICAL CRISIS

ledge of men and current events, so essential to intellizent action on the part of free men, exercising the inestimable blessing of the electers of the world, by mail and telegraph, care fully condensed, arranged and edited.

II. Full reports of the proceedings of Congress, and elsewhere, on matters of local news and

Reports from all the commercial centres while a special feature will be made of the Live Stock Markets, in which every farmer is interested. Editorials on every subject of interest that may transpire, as well as many other features suggested by events as they occur.

IN ALL POLITICAL MATTERS THE POST will advocate the principles of the The Post will advocate the principles of the Bemocratic party, as the only means offered for genuine, thorough, perfect and lasting Reform. It will inculcate a stendast reliance upon the original principles of our political system as the only sound insis of all needed improvements therein; an unfattering devotion to the Constitution and the Union, a scrupulous fidelity to the spirit as well as the letter of our laws, and a sleepless vigilance in maintaining all the great safeguards of

CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY. It will seek to mitigate and not to aggravate the cylls inseparable from Party Government in a Free Country; to promove good and not ill feeling among our fellow-cidzens of all creeds and colors, all sections and sects; and to advance both by its precepts and by its pre-cepts and by its example the reign of Reason and of Law over Prejudice and Passion in all

The DAILY POST Is one of the best daily publications in Pitts-ourgh, and is the only Democratic daily pub-lished in Western Pennsylvania. It is a live

OUR TERMS.

A dressing

REDUCTION IN PRICE! CHEAPEST and BEST! The Harrisburg

The Daily Patriot

Will be sent at the following rates:

1 copy, I year, and I copy, I year, of cisace HARPER'S MONTALY OF HARPER'S BA-ZAR, postage paid on both.....

The Weekly Patriot

1 copy. I year, postage prepaid. 2.00
4 copies, 6.00
10 10 10.00
15 10 25 copies, 1 year, postage prepaid, and 1 copy to getter up of c'ub. 25.50
1 copy. 4 year, and 1 copy, 1 year, of either HARPER'S MONTHLY OF HARPER'S BAZAR, postage prepaid on both 4.50 parations dangerous and injuthe hair, the Vigor can only at not harm it. If wanted for either of Harper's publication.

All orders must be accompanied by the cash, either by check or post-office order.
Now is the time to subscribe. Get all the news and the best of reading outter at less cost than anywhere else by sending your subscriptions to the DAILY and WEEKLY PATRIOT. Address, PATRIOT PUBLISHING CO., [12-22, 41.] HALF SBUIG, PA.

to to common Pieas of Cambria County, to report of Common Pieas of Cambria County, to report distribution of the money in the hands of John A. Blair and John Lewis, acting Assignees of the "Ebensburg Mining and Manufacturing Company," (as shown by their first and partial account.) to and amongst the parties entitled to receive the same, notice is hereby given that I will attend to the duties of said appointment, at my office in Ebensburg, on Tuesday, January 16th, 1877, at 2 o'clock, P. M., when and where all parties interested must present their claims or be debarred from coming in on said find.

GEO, W. OATMAN, Auditor.

Ebensburg, Dec. 20, 1875.—3t.

Ebensburg, Dec. 20, 1876.-3t.

A UDITOR'S NOTICE.—The un-dersigned, having been appointed Audersigned, having been appointed Aucitor by the Orphans' fourt of Cambria jeounty, to report distribution of the fund in the hands of Joseph riste, administrator cum testamento annexo of Ann Kearney, tate of Munster township, dee'd, as shown by his first and final account, to and among the parties entitled to receive the same, hereby gives notice that he will sit at his office, in Ebensburg, on Friday, January 19th, 1876, at 2 o'clock, P. M., to attend to the duties of said appointment; when and where all persons interested may attend if they see proper.
Dec. 21, 1876, 38.* J. G. LAKE, Auditor.

EBENSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1877.

Oh! the snow, the horrible snow, Making my nose an emblem of woe;

Quite nice in its virgin purity-true! But it makes my face most awfully blue;

Light on the house-tops it settleth down, It's poetical to call it a diamond crown; But the house, if it leaks, its diamonds must

And, prosiest fact, they shovel it off, As fair as the corals of ocean now, It glimmers and gleams on crackling bough;

Our places, if changed, right soon you would know snow.

In this suffering world 'tis much out of place. Except as an ultimate means of grace A trial for Christians -yet really I doubt That they feel as they should, if the truth

And the shortness of petticoats causes :

blush, As slipping and sliding I harry on by, With a cold in my head and a girl in my eye Trusting to stand, in a duplicate sense, By Providence and a neighboring fence.

Fell with a vehemence words cannot tell; Made some remarks that when printed are Fell to be bruised, to be laughed at, and Temper, besides, I have lost by my fall. Even my futimate passes me by, Scorn on his brow and his nose to the sky.

That springs from the hoofs of our horses

But sweethearts turn false, and the bills come in-"Beautiful snow" wen't furnish the tin. How strange if under the veil of the snow

I should wander where punches enticingly tiow: Where minutes and dollars so rapidly flee

How queer it would seem when night comes again, And "one too many" has muddled my brain,

To lie in some dubions street down town, Discouraged because of the snow's coming Till a party of bummers stop as they go,

A STARTLING STORY.

and chief minister of police a man of rare talent and integrity. At the same period the parish of St. Germains, in the quarter of the Rue St. Antoine, had for its cure a venerable old man, whose life was spent in doing good to both the souls and booies of his fellow creatures, and whose consistency and dignified courage caused him to be loved by the good and respected by even the most abandoned characters. One cold dark winter's night the bell at the care's door was rang loudly, and he, although in bed, rose and opened the door, anticipating a summons to some sick or dying bed. A person richly dressed, with his features partially concealed by a large false beard. stood outside. Addressing the cure in a courtons and graceful manner, he apologized for his unseasonable visit, which as he said, the high reputation of monsieu:. had induced him to make.

done. Time presses, and the soul about to bandaged, ask no questions and consent to act simply as spiritual consoler of a dying woman. If you refuse to accompany me no other priest shall be admitted, and her

After a moment's secret prayer the cure answered, "I will go with you." Without asking any further explanation, ac allowed his eyes to be bandaged, and leaned on the arm of his suspicious visitor. They both got into a coach, the windows were immediately covered with wooden shutters, and they were driven off rapidly. They seemed to go a long way and make many doublings and turnings ere the coach drove un-exchanged between the travellers, and ere they got out the stranger assured himself that the bandage over his companion's eyes had not been displaced, and then, taking the old man by the hand, he assisted him to alight and ascend the wide steps of a staircase as far as the second story. A great door opened as if of itself, and several thickly carpeted rooms were traversed in silence. At length another door was opened by the guide, and the cure felt his bandage removed. They were in a solemn looking chamber. Near a bed, veiled by thick damask curtains was a small table supporting two wax lights, which feebly illuminated the cold, death-like apartment. The stranger [he was the Duke dethen bowing to the cure, led him towards the bed, drew back the curtains, and said who has betrayed the blood of her ancestors, and whose doom is irrevocably fixed. She knows on what conditions an interview with you has been granted her; she knows too that all supplications would be useless. You know your duty, M. le Cure. I leave

So saying, he departed and this agitab priest saw lying on a bed a beautiful girl said he, and a thousand little Cupids dimbathed in tears, battling in despair, and pled in his smile. calling in her bitter agony for the com-forts of religion. No investigation was you. I always knew you liked him, and I possible, for the unbappy creature declar- am taking them to his grave."-Raleigh ed herself bound by a terrible oath to con- Sentinel.

GROG OR NO GROG.

"I am," she said, "the victim of a se- THE ARCTIC EXPEDITION FURNISHING AN ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF TO-TAL ABSTINENCE.

Among other results of the Arctic expedition some curious statistics have been vine promises of the gospei to soothe her obtained with reference to the question of troubled soul, and he succeeded. Her total abstinence. The abstainers who went out with the expedition were six, viz: Wm. posed; she clasped her hands in fervent Mallay, Adam Ayles, William Gore, Joiner prayer, and then extended them toward and Self, of the Alert, and Henry Petty, of her consoler. As she did so, the cure per- the Discovery. There were two or three other seamen who joined the temperance cause during the commission, and it is "My child," he said with a trembling only fair to state that the novices suffered from the scurvy like the rest of the crew. "Father, it is the vein they have already Mailay was not employed on any long journeys, but was repeatedly out with support ing parties. He states that the sledging parties of the Alert suffered greater privations than those from the sister ship. They had pushed beyond the limit of animal life, and their supplies of reindeer and musk-ox were soon exhausted. They were consequently obliged to subsist entirely upon ship's stores, and this enforced abstinence from animal food made them in a special degree susceptible to scurvy. On the termination of the sledging duties, at the end of July, the abstainers found that | cast a rueful glance at the empty leg of his ing allowed his eyes to be covered, he took they had surpassed the remainder of the Alert's crew in the number of days' sledging performed. On this occasion Ayles had been out 110 days and Mallay 98, "and it is a remarkable fact," the latter remarks, "that neither of us was attacked with scurvy, but enjoyed good health, and were only weakened by our arduous duties in sledg-ing work." Adam Ayles is a believer in fall, with both hands forward, in a dark Adam's ale and a tectotaler of many years' standing. He was not only out for 110 both resumed their places in the carriage, days' sledging, but on one occasion he was out no less than 84 days from the ship at a time. On this occasion scurvy had at-tacked the party, and had gained on them so suddenly that, with the exception of Lieutenant Aldrich and Ayles, the whole of the men (seven in number) were in a helpless condition. Dodge and Mitchell still managed to struggle by the side of the sledge, but the other invalids, who had held out until the last moment, were obcomplished if you are not in time to prevent ic. Let your agents visit before day abstainer, was next door to one, diluting dreak, every carriage gateway in .'aris; in his rum more than any other member of a stained handkerchief. The blood is that sledge journeys Ayles are and slept well, of a young female whose murder, already began, has been miraculously suspended. Her family have condemned their victim to have her veius opened one by one, and already more than punished by her mortal deal, but for his part Ayles says he neither agony. Courage, my friend; you have aldrank nor smoked, and he took care that ready some nours. May God assist you his allowance of grog was stopped on joinhis allowance of grog was stopped on joining the ship. Twice a week there was The same morning, at eight o'clock the minister of police enered the cure's room. "My friend," he said, "I confess my inthe traveling. He was never in better feriority; you are able to instruct me in health in his life than at the present time. Henry Petty, a tectotaler of sixteen "Saved!" cried the old man, bursting years' standing, was the only total abstainer "Saved," said the minister, "and resented in the Discovery. He accompanied Cap tain Scephenson in all his sleaging excurfrom the power of her cinel relations. But sions, and as it fell to his lot to act as cook the next time, dear Abbe, that you want while they were away from the ship, and my assistance in a benevolent enterprise I he was thus obliged to get out in the cold wish you would give me more time to acfor an hour and a half in the morning, and for the same period in the evening, he was Within the next twenty four hours, by most exposed to the frost of any man in the an express order from the king, the Duke ship. He was sledging sixty days in all. de---- and his accomplices were secretly On one occasion he accompanied the capremoved from Paris, and conveyed out of tain to the Alert, a distance of some ninety the kingdom. The young woman received miles, doing the journey in four days and eight hours, and returning in three days and, when fully recovered, removed to a and a half. He had been medically exquiet country village, where the royal pro- amined on Tuesday by the doctor of the track."

all the care her precarious state required, tection assured her safety. It is scarcely ship, with the rest of the crew, and be needed to say that, pext to her Maker, the learned that he had never been treated for deepest love and gratitude. During fifteen in the hand. He believed that his immunity cure of St. Germains was the object of her years the holy man received from time to from disease was emirely owing to his tee time the expression of her grateful affectotalism. He had slept well throughout the campaign, and had relished his food. tion, and at length, when, from extreme old age, he was on the brink of the grave, He had also escaped frost bite. he received the intelligence that she had Gore, it seems, had beenean abstainer departed in peace. Never until then had a word of the mysterious adventure passed from the good cure's lips. On his death

until he was twenty-one years old, but in an auguarded moment, while on the sledge journeys, he succumbed to the temptation bed, however, he confided the recital to a and persuasion of his companions, and took the grog. Previous to breaking his pledge Gore states that he could eat as well as any NEVER TOO LATE TO LEARN. -Socrates, be was in the habit of looking about for at an extreme old age learned to play on more; but no sooner had he taken to grog drinking than he found his appetite to fail, and he was deprived of the refreshing sleep which he had formerly enjoyed. He was the only Good Templar who joined the ex pedition that was attacked with scurvy, and for this he was no doubt incebted to his | bald and beetling pate if she hadn't ! unfaithfulness. He gave stimulants, he remarks, a fair trial, and he is now conwhen he commenced his studies in light literature; yet he became one of the greatvinced that it was the grog which did the mischief. It may be noticed that the testimony of the whole ships' companies-doctors and officers included-is manimous them when he was between fifty and sixty and conclusive against the serving out of years of age. After this time he became a stimulants during the day. They emphatically state that no work can be done upon

Dr. Colan, the senior medical officer on Ogilby, the translator of Homer and board the Alert, speaks very favorably of Virgil, was not acquainted with Latin and total abstinence as exhibited during the expedition, and his forthcoming report will possess much interest. - London Times. philosophical pursuits till he had reached > NATURAL CURIOSITY. - In the great valwill never be ascertained, unless by some terrible convulsion of nature, they should be precipitated into the tremendous abyss.

ROMANCE OF A BOOT HEEL.

THE PERILS OF FROOS IN THE TRACK.

While two men, employees of the Ohio and Mississippi railroad company, were on their way to their work in the car shops of the company at Aurora, Indiana, their attention was attracted by a boot heel, freshly torn off, sticking in the "frog" of the rail-road track, a short distance from the shops. They stopped a moment to examine it, and found that the heel was so sequired a smart blow with a crutch-one of the men had lost a leg-to remove it. Long nails protruded from the beel, and all the evidence went to show that it had or else he has been badly frightened and wrenched his boot heel off when there was no occasion for it." "It reminds me," a little adventure that happened to me several years ago up on the Pan Handle road. I was then a young man, but it isn't likely that I'll ever forget it," and he pants. "The stay is son told," he went if to find inscribed upon it a story similar heavy snow storm was prevailing at the time. The snow and wind beating into my face was almost sufficient to have I was walking briskly along, not dreaming of any harm-in fact, sir, I was then returning from a visit to my sweetheart, who had that evening promised to be my wife —when suddenly I found my foot fastened between two rails where a side track joined the main track, just as this beel was fastened here in the frog at our feet. At that moment I heard the shrill whistle of a ocomotive, and looking up the track I saw, through the blinding snow, a light bearing down upon me. I had passed the depot a few minutes previous and had noliged to be carried. We have aheady stated siced several persons standing on the platthat of the two who were free from scurvy Adam Ayles was one. The other was Lieutenant Aldrich, who although not an | train, and here was one coming! It was an unusual hour for a train and the idea of meeting one had not occurred to me bethe inner angle of one of them will be found the expedition. During the whole of his fore, but now the awful truth flashed upon from the tumultuous Atlantic. The wind me. I made a desperate effort to release . and bore the cold even better than those my foot, and the horror of the situation who were accustomed to take stimulants. was increased a hundred fold when I The rest of the party had a double allow- found that it was securely fastened between ance of grog, forty-five above proof, before the rails. The light was so close that its thus to perish slowly in expiation of a fault | turning in. They also smoked a great | reflection upon the new fallen snow blinded me. As a man will in a like signation, I thought of a thousand things in an instant, I thought of my aged parents, of evenis of my past life, of my promised beer served out, which was considered a bride; and the thought that I should be great loxary, as it occupied much room in torn from her, or what was worse, to be maimed for life, was infinitely more dreadful than the thought of death. But I'll not trouble you with these painful details. What I supposed to be the headlight of a locomotive was blazing right in my face. It was this leg that was fastened," he said. swinging his stump back and forth," and I just threw myself-" "Yes, yes," interrupted his companion, with blanched cheeks, "you threw yourself to one side and the engine severed your leg from your body "

"Not exactly," returned the story teller, smiling blandly upon his victim. truth is, sir, I am almost ashamed to say that the light did not proceed from a locomotive, but from the lantern of a watchman who happened to be coming down the

"And the shrill whistle that you heard?" "That, I presume, came from a oneorse sawmill not far off."

"But your leg-how did you lose that?" "As many another brave man has lost is," came the answer, accompanied by a heavy sigh, and a far-away look as if to recall the scenes of some field of battle; "I fell under a mowing machine and had it chapped off."

"Well, all I have to say," replied his companion, somewhat disgusted at the turn the romance had taken against him, "all I have to say is that I hope your girl went back on you and married an ax handle maker or some one else who could make her happy." "She stuck to me," said the romancer, "stuck to methrough good and evil report, and married me-married me one rapturous evening in the merry month of May, and now," and his voice grew hasky with emotion, 'and now I'd give the top of this

HE PUT STRENGTH IN IT. - An Indianan went into a Chicago saloon, and asked for "a gin cocktail with some strength into The barkeeper made a mixture of alcohol, pepper sauce, absinthe, lime, and painkiller. "The Indianian drank it," says the Chicago Tribune, "and about a quart of tears came to his eyes, his mouth outracted to about the size of a safe key hole, and when he had sufficiently mastered his emotion to speak he said, 'How much's that?' 'Fifteen cents,' responded the barkeeper. The customer put down a quarter and said, 'Keep the change-have something yourself,' then, wringing the barkeeper's hand, be added, 'That's the first good gin I've tasted since I left home -something like liquor; it's sort of quick in taking hold and slow in letting go.-Come and see me, and I'll give you some an hour later, asked the patrolman if he had heard of an old man being found dead on the sidewalk, and the officer said no, he danced a few jig steps, and cried, 'Hurrah he's gone somewhere else to die !

How THEY TRIED HIM. - A Massachusetts young man went to visit his true-love the other evening, and his friends at the house where he boarded resolved to ascertain what "time of night" he got home, So they put a tin pan on each of the stairs in the ballway and tied them all together by a string leading from top to bottom, and fixed them so that when he softly opened the front door and sneaked in the pans would descend and meet him. And a little while before daylight those in that house who were not in the trick covered up their heads and softly prayed under the mistaken impression that an earthquake had arrived h's girl to accept a "bucket" of flowers and it was time to get read;. But it wasn't. b came a little pail when she said she wood- 'Twas nothing but "them paus" heralding the young man's approach.

AN OLD RAILROADER'S THRILLING STOWY -

Not far from Drury Lane, London, is a street called Wild street, in which there has long stood a Baptist chapel. This institution has for 173 years been remarkable for a sermon annually preached there in commemoration of the greatest storm that has occurred in England in modern times. Robert Taylor, who survived this fearful visitation after having been exposed to awful peril, placed a small sum of money in the public tunds to pay for an annual sermon which never fails to excite extraordicurely fastened in the "frog" that it re- nary interest. This storm, for several years afterward mentioned not as a storm, but as the storm, was comparable, says Lord Stanhope, in his history of Queen Anne's reign, to the worst in tropical climes. Its chief taken considerable effort to tear it from the force was spent in the south and southwest boot. "It appears to me," said one of the of England. The Queen was aroused from men, "that some fellow has had a narrow her bed in St. James' palace by part of that escape from being run down by a train, venerable structure being blown down, and the Bishop of Bath and Wells and his wife were killed by the fall of a chimney stack. The Registrar of Eton College was blown replied his companion, in a low tone, "of from his room into the street near Ludgate Hill, London. The damage done at Bristol was computed at £150,000, "Portsmonth," says a writer of the time, "looks like a city bombarded." The Eddystone Lighthouse was swept into the sea. The whole country was strewn with giant trees, on, turning the best beel over in his hand as torn from the roots by a wind such as had never been known before. Curiosity led to his own. "I was walking on the track Defoe to count them in a ride around Lonpear Cadiz Junction, in Ohio It was one don. He counted 17,000, and then got dark and blustry night in February, and a | tired. But the most terrible disasters were at sea, Fifteen sail of the line, including Admiral Bowater and the whole of his crew, together with several hundred merblinded one had it been in broad daylight, chantmen and a sixty-four gan ship, with

Admira! Beaumont on board, perished, the latter in full view of Deal. Of 269 men but one was saved-cast by a wave to shore. It has been computed that 8,000 people were lost. The House of Commons presented an address to the Queen deploring the loss to the navy, and suggesting the building of new ships, this being, says Lord Macaulay. the only occasion in England when a tempest evoked a public address, or the national fast which followed it. During Queen Anne's reign the day of the storm continued, in obedience to her proclamation, to be solemnly observed. The worst form. The persons were waiting for a year in England since then was 1814. In its autumn and winter the sea was covered with wrecks and the coast with corpses, On Nov. 29th a fearful tempest swept up raged for three days with appalling fury. The year closed with a long remembered snow storm which paralyzed locomotion throughout the kingdom for nearly a week. The foreign mails were sent by sea from London to the Continent, because the road through Kent, despite the efforts of the immense crowd set to clear it, continued impassable. "Perhaps," observes a writer, referring to it some years later, "no act of nature gives so high a conception of a more than mortal hand—the rapidity of its effect, the subtle but resistless chemistry by which the impalpable element was turned into a material of a totally different form and qualities sufficient to sheet millions of miles." What a myriad of human hopes must have been suddenly thwarted or defeated by this visitation, which probably in some indirect manner affected the course of as many careers !- N. F. Sun.

> A Dream -A certain good man, in the days of old, had a dream, and lo ! be came before the king to relate it. "What didst thou see?" questioned the monarch.

"Your gracious majesty," responded the good man, "I saw a throne from which a bright gold light issued, and on each side of it ranged the transparent spirits of the good men who have gone before us. "What was the most wonderfulthing you saw or heard?" asked the ruler. "Oh, your majesty, I saw on the left of the threne a rew of forms across whose breasts were black bars. On the right the spirits were crowns of light and their forms were transparent as the sun's rays. And I was filled with wonder, and I asked :-"Why this distinction?" And a voice from behind the throne made answer and said : "Lo! the forms on the right are those of true and conscientions men who invariably paid for their newspaper in nuvance.-Those on the left are those who promised to pay but were crossed off the list in time to avoid the punishment which would otherwise have been theirs." And I marveled much and said : "And the others, O Powers, where are they?" And once again the voice spake, "O human, listen!" and I listened and heard the shouting of many agonized voices and the words were these : "I'll be hanged if I pay in advance," and again, "I never ordered that paper." And when the good man had fluished, the king was in deep thought, and he ordered that the dreamer be clothed and fed, while a page was dispatched to the office of the local paper to pay up arrearnges and prepay for two years. - Rhinebeek Gazette,

THE discovery on the 15th ult., near one of the ever-shifting sand banks of Sable Island, of a portion of the Italian bark Orvieto, wrecked there many years ago, has recalled to the old keeper of the bospital in in that gloomy region the incidents connected with the Orvieto's loss, and which he less recently repeated to the Cartain of the Lady Head, a little steamer that plies between Halifax and Sable Island with supplies. The night the Orvieto was wrecked the watches on the east bar of the island were alarmed by the incessant howling of guarding a woman and child. The usual restoratives were instantly applied, and the helpless sufferers removed on the canvas stretchers, which the watches always carry. On reaching the hospital the woman's senses could not be revived sufficiently long to glean from her any particulars of the wreck. The faithful dog, who had doubtless dragged mother and babe ashore, could with great difficulty be kept away from the bedside. The mother died the night of her rescue, but the infant survived, and is probably now living with its grandparents in Palermo, Italy. The woman had the miniature of her husband in a brooch, and a letter in her pocket, received at Oueens. town, and dated at Palermo, giving the name of the lost vessel and an address in that city. Hardly any trace of the ill-fated pletely wrecked and buried in the sands had she become.

Woman's favorite noose-paper-a marriage certificate.

THE X. ONLY REMEDY 1877:

of the VINE, where it is an a said pays Lange Profit, and to the growth of Peachsmall trults; also, Grains, eres dent VINEYARDS, ORa med, delightful LARGE, SUCCESS-Churches, Schools, already established, family can procure employ. g from pulmonary affec-gue and debility, many controly recovered. as just been completed. ildings, four stories poof, and all modern

BELAND, 823.00 PER ACRE is, within the period of of with Fruit Growing s with it in a short time on EACHE, and TOWN LOTS, and time and Vincland, also ries Contennial Exposition conseque Bame ta let or full information will be tion to CHARLES against from a descripthen by the well-known were of the "well to do" sort. gar ening, have grown rich. hard wet meadows in or panck are stored, suffimost extensive trac's, in hat me know of this side of We found some of the o'd-

The thole country is a much the soil we found elou, in a very comminuted

Ayer's air Vigor natoring to Gray Hair it

tral Vitality and Color.

which is at once agreeable healthy, an effectual fo preserving th hair. It soo restores fade or gray har to its origino color, with the freshness of youth. Thir kened, falling hair checked, thes often, though not always, its use. Nothing can restore where the follicles are deor the glands atrophied and that such as remain can be this application, and stimuit activity, so that a new of hair is produced. Instead of the hair with a pasty sedielkeep it clean and vigorous. sal use will prevent the hair of gray or falling off, and prevent baldness. The of vitality it gives to the ests and prevents the formahadruff, which is ofter, so untal offensive. Free from those on substances which make

A HAIR DRESSING, e can be found so desirable. gneither oil nor dye, it does me cambric, and yet lasts he hair, giving it a rich, glossy ad a grateful perfume. and by Dr. J. C. Aver & Co. sical and Analytical Chemists. LOWELL, MASS-

DISPLAY OF ELEGANT HOAY GOODS -AT-

lles & Sheafer's, ligh Ar., near Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The ROLIDAYS the most combiamonds, Pearls, Opals, te Cameos, Onyx and Pearl Goods.

AND CHAINS,
136 SHAYER WARE,
RENCH AND VIENNA
PANCY GOODS, BRONZES, &C. the BIG CLOCK on the sidewalk. cat direct from manufacturers at McLAUGHLIN, Attorney-January, Pa. Office in the old schipz. (up stairs.) corner of Clip-Will attend to all bute of with his profession.

SECHLER, Attorney at Elensburg, Pa. Office in Coltotly occupied by Wm, Kittell, [1-21, 78,-tf.]

That ever threatened our institutions is now upon us, and as the liberties of the people de-pend upon a free, increammeled and outspoken Newspaper Press, it is to the interest of all that they sustain and support it and at the same time put themselves in possession of that know-

AMONG THE LEADING FEATURES That it will lay before its readers may be enum-

I. All the current news of the day from all quar-Full reports of the proceedings of Congress, with Special Correspondence from the National Capital full Legislative Reports, and the most complete presentation of all the current events in connection with the great Presidential scruggle which has been transferred to the halfs of Congress.

Correspondence from various points, and from Local Correspondents in Penusylvania, Ohio.

Choice Literary matter for the home circle and fires de, and all that class of lopies so es-sential to the instruction and amusement of the home but The latest, fullest and most reliable Market

all the great safeguards of our public action and in the discussion of all paper and contains all the latest news from every quarter of the Globe.

(WITH POSTAGE PAID.) Money may be sent by Dratts, Post-office Orders, or by Registered Letter.

JAS. P. BARR & CO.,

DAILY AND WEEKLY PATRIOT To all new subscribers and to all present sub-

Leopy during the session of the Legisla-

Will be sent at the following rates: l copy. I year, postage prepaid $ 2.60

The subscription price of HARPER'S MONTHLY and HARPER'S BAZAR is $4.00 each, thus securing the subscriber a copy of the WEEKLY PAT: for for 50 cents in addition to what he would have so pay

A UDITOR'S NOTICE.—Having been appointed Auditor by the Court

A UDITOR'S NOTICE.—The understanding of the dersigned Auditor, appointed by the Orphans' Court of Cambria county to report distribution of the funds in the hands of Charles Buxton, administrator of Israel Goughnour, dee'd, as shown by his first and partial account, hereby notifies all persons interested that he will attend to the duties of said appointment at his office in Ebeusburg, on Friday, the 19th dry of Jang.

ALVIN EVANS, Auditor.

Ebeusburg, Dec. 18, 1876.—3t.

too that all sury you know you to fulfill it in an hour."
So saying, he priest saw lyi bathed in tea calling in he forts of religions of the county of the co UDITOR'S NOTICE .- The un-

THE HORRIBLE SNOW. Piling up snow-drifts over my ears, Filling my eyes to overflowing with fears. If we must have it, why couldn't it grow? Twould be more acceptable then, I know.

The way it goes "floating and skimming" along, In a virgin snow is decidedly wrong.

doff. But snow-laden boughs, it they chance to be

Are remarkably apt to fail on your head. Oh! the snow, the horrible snow! It's all very nice to took at, I know, As you sit by your fire and toast your shin, While all is comfort and warmth within, Walching the sparks up the chimney fly-Watching the glow of the coals as they die

'Tis distance lends charms to "beautiful were out, For precarious quite is "beautiful snow" To morals and standing, as all may know. The pavements are nought but puddles of

Once I was clean, like the snow, but I fell spiashed Into the filth of the horrible street." Draggied and wet the suit once so neat; Pencils, cigars, eye-glasses, ail-

One pleasure redeeming comes with the The minutes fly by with a sparkle and glow, As we dash away gaily, light as a feather, I and my bonny sweetheart together; Our hearts as light as the crystaline spray

That frequent indulgence is forbidden to

And roll me around in the horrible slow.

Previous to the year 1789 the city of Paris possessed as a guardian of its safety

"A great and terrible, but necessary and inevitable deed," he continued, "is to be pass into eternity implores your ministry. If you come you must allow your eyes to be spirit must pass alone."

der a wide archway and then stopped. During this time not a word had been iu a solemu tone:

"Minister of God, before you is a woman you to fulfill it, and will return to seek you

A PRETTY WIDOW, whose husband has been dead for several years, received a handsome bouquet the other day. The man who sent it had been flying around her with an earnestness worthy of a dry goods clerk, and it was with an extra delight he saw her pass his store that evening with the bouquet of flowers in her bishop, one of his particular friends.

Cato, at eighty years of age, learned the Plutarch, when between seventy and Boccacio was thirty-five years of age

est masters of the Tuscan Dialect-Dante

Sir Henry Spelman neglected the sciences

in his youth, but commenced the study of Franklin did not fully commence his

Dryden, in his sixty-eighth year, commenced the translation of the Illiad, his

We could go on and cite thousands of examples of men who commenced a new study, either for livelihood or amusements,

at an advanced age. But every one familiar with the biography of distinguished men will recollect individual cases enough to convince him that none but the sick and and Plutarch being the other two.

most learned antiquarian and lawyer.

eighty, commenced the study of Latin.

This is the exact truth.

musical instruments.

Greek language.

of his own times.

his fiftieth year.

Greek till he was past fifty.

most pleasing production.

Dr. Johnson applied himself to the Dutch grog, but many of them seem to cling to language but a few years before his death. the belief that a glass at night was a sov-Ludovico Monaldesco, at the great age of ereign recuperative agent, and fitted them one hundred and fifteen, wrote the memoirs | for the fatigues of the morning.

ley between the north and south mountains in Pennsylvania, commonly called the Eastern ridges, a well was dug some years that's like swallowing a circular saw whole terns revealed a huge Newfoundland dog since in Franklin, and another in Cumber- and pulling it up again.' The barkeeper, land county, thirty or forty miles from the former, which led to a discovery affording a subject for interesting speculation. After proceeding in each instance to the depth of about thirty-six feet, the bottom of these wells suddenly gave away, (but indolent will ever say, I am too old to fortunately when the workmen had re-tired,) and a torrent of water gushed up. A lead was sunk with fifty fathoms of line without finding the least obstruction,-They remain at this time untouched and of unknown depth. The presumption is, that there is a subterranean lake in that quarter. and how far it extends under the base of the vast primitive mountains, situated between the Susquehanna and Pittsburgh,

> THE young man who wrote and asked en ware it.