-We learn by a letter received a few days ago from Hou. James J. Thomas, one of the members of Assembly from this county, that owing to sickness he was unable to attend the sessions of the House for two weeks previous to Monday, the 5th instant. This will account for any apparent neglect on the part of Mr. Thomas in attending to his official duties. He also informs us that both himself and his colleague, Mr. Downey, opposed and voted against the Purcon Digest swindie, which, we need scarcely say, redounds eatly to their credit. -The Osceola Receille says that while some men at Whitehead & Co.'s collieries, on Goss Run, were at work driving in a monkey drift the other day, they came upon an almost perfectly petrified stump having three distinct roots. All portions of the stump had been entirely changed to stone, except a small portion of the center, which still remained in its original state. This curiosity was found between five and six feet below the surface, and beneath the smut through which the men were working, and has, we are informed, been removed by Mr.

Whitehead to Huntingdon.

On Friday evening last, while several parties were engaged in making their purchases at the meat market of Mr. Jos. Gut-wald, in the basement of the Blair House, a bullet suddenly crashed through one of the panes of glass in the front window, and after passing in unpleasant proximity, indeed within three or four inches, of Mr. John Mc-Mullen's head, imbedded itself in the wall on the opposite side of the room. Whence the bullet came is a mystery, but as no report of a pistol or gun was heard at the time the presumption is that it was thrown from a gam sling and either by accident or design ook the course already indicated. Who did the mischief has not, we believe, and probably pever will be found out.

-Two gentlemen from the north of the county visited the new jail on Wednesday last, and while there concluded to try how it would look to sport a pair of handcuffs, and with this object in view each of them selected a set of "jewelry" and inserting their wrists therein the lock closed with a spring. So far so good, but when our friends essayed to get out of the oreaments they found to their great chargin that no one about the jail had a key with which to unlock the bracelets, and the result was that they had to march all the way to the Court House and into the Sheriff's office, a distance of two squares, before they could be relieved from their unpleasant predicament. We could give the names of the two gentlemen but don't propose to do so, as they no doubt feel cheap enough about it as it is.

-The Johnstown Daily Tribune recently entered on the fifth year of its existence, with every prospect we hope for a long con-tinuance. It is needless to say that on political and not a few other questions the Triand are likely to be in the future as far apart as the north and south poles, but that does not deter us from saying that the sprightly liftle sheet in question is always welcomed by us and the daily visitors to our office for its full telegraphic reports, as well as for its home and general news, which is at all times my, three years old, are as complete and satisfactory under the management of Geo. T. Swank, editor and proprietor, and Caspar W. Easly, local scribe, as it could well be made. There is no one more sincere than "calf" McPike in wishing the Tribune a long life and an exceedingly prosperous one.

The offence is alleged to have been committed on the night of the 25th ult., while Miss Bennett was on her way home from church, and it is alleged that five other parties not yet arrested were con-cerned in the hellish work. The outcries of their victim alarmed the young flends and brought other parties to her assistance in time we presume to save her from all the indignities that would otherwise have been visited upon her. The Indiana Messenger, from which we glean these facts, has been informed that Schrecongost was imprisoned in the Armstrong county jail not long since for a like offence, but how he escaped the penitentiary is more than we can tell. HISTORY OF A PICTURE.-Two of the most cerebrated artists the world has ever known dwelt in the same city. One delighted in delineating beauty in all its graces of tint, form, and motion. His portraits were instinct with the charm of physical vigor. The graceful, half-voluptuous outline of form and feature harmonized with delicately blended tints. On his canvas, the homeliest faces had an almost irresistible charm. The other found pleasure only in depicting weird and gloomy subjects. Above all, did he excel in painting the portraits of the dying. The agonizing death-throe, the ghastly face and form, were all depicted with marvelous fidelity. There existed between these artists the most intense dislike. At length this dislike culminated. The beauty-loving artist had been engaged in painting seurs pronounced it the most wonderful piece of art that had ever been produced.

His brother artist was jealous of his fame and sought revenge. By bribing the keeper each night. At first he was content to only deaden the brilliancy of the complexion and and paint a shadow on either cheek. Later, his strokes grew bolder and freer, and one morning the artist awoke to find the entire outline of the portrait changed. He could scarcely recognize in the emaciated form and haggard countenance the glowing conception he had embodied. The pallid face and expressionless eyes he had attributed to a lack of genuineness in his materials; but when the outlines were changed he suspested the cause and indignantly dismissed the keeper. What the revengeful artist marred by a few rapid strokes of his skillful brush was only restored by years of patient industry. Reader, need we name the artists,— Health, who paints the flowers and "grassy carpet" no less than the human form divine.

-Disease, the dreaded artist who revels among the ruins both of nature and humanity,—and Carelessness, the keeper to whom Health often intrusts his portraits. And is it not the beauty of woman, the most admired of all the works which adorn the studio of Health, that Disease oftenest seeks to mar?

The slightest stroke of his brush upon the delicate organization leaves an imprint that requires much skill and patience to efface.

Restoration must be prompt. Carelessness must be dismissed. Let suffering women

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE .- On last Wednesday morning about 2 o'clock, as Mr. Michael Breckner, of this place was returning from New Germany on horseback and wastpass-ing down Main street opposite the extensive hardware store of George Huntley, he believed from a strong smell of smoke pervading the atmosphere, that there was a fire in the building. He dismounted, walked to the front door, and being satisfied that such was the case promptly gave the alarm. In a few minutes several of the residents in the neighborhood were on the ground and about the time of their arrival a small flame of fire was seen to burst through the weather-boarding next the alley way on the western side of the store room, only a short distance above the ground. In a few minutes hose was attached to the nearest plug. The source of the fire at that point was very dif-ficult to reach, and in a brief period the window in that part of the room was broken in, and through it the hose poured a constant stream of water. This was kept up for nearly an hour, when the fire was extinguished. The front door was then opened when the full extent of the damage could be seen. The destruction was complete, more so on the western side of the room than elsewhere. All the articles, many of much value, in two show cases on the counters were destroyed. In a word, for we cannot go into details, the room was a blackened, barred and total wreck, showing that the fire had been in progress a very considerable time before the alarm was given or the water applied. Of course all the hardware has been badly damaged and much of it totally destroyed. How the fire originated is a mystery. It is very certain that it was not from the stove, as Mr. Connell, the clerk, says there was scarcely any fire in it when he closed up and went home. If the alarm had not been given by Mr. Breckner just when it was, which brought the engine promptly to the spot, the destruction of property on that side of Main street would have been fearful. Mr. Huntley estimates his loss on store and building at from $16,000 to $18,000, which is fully covered by insurance. In his sudden misfortune Mr. H. has the sincere sympathy of our entire commu-

TURLOCK, Stanislaus Co., Cal. | March 5, 1877.

DEAR FREEMAN-I studied law once, but I never knew the meaning and import of the term grand larceny until the Republican party stole the highest office in the gift of the people. stole the highest office in the gift of the people.

Now I know what grand larceny means. If the people can stand this swindle I can, as I am out of politics at any rate.

In my two last letters I said something about sunrise and sunset in California. Now please give me space to say something about the grandest scene of all-mountight. There is moonlight all over the world, but not so much as we have here. In this part of the Golden State there are at least three hundred and fifty clear aights in one year, and three-fourths of these furnish moonlight. I do not hesitate to say that farming could be carried here entirely after night—half the time at any rate, if not more,

When John Milton spoke of the moon he put on airs and said, "Until the moon, rising in clouded unjesty, apparent queen of heaven, unveiled her peerless light, and o'er the dark, her silver mantle threw." Robert Burns merely says, "The rising moon began to glower." Both these remarks result from a stretch of the imagination, but what shall I say about a California full many, shaing down through California full moon, shining down through skies clearer than those of Italy, and fairly bloted with beauty? The moonlight here is indescribable, but I can try my band and pen in informing you how to make California moon-light. Indeed, I should bottle some up and send light. Indeed, I should bottle some up and send you a specimen, but the post-office laws do not allow the mail carriers to transportanything in glass-ware. Now to the receipe. Take a nine-pane sash, with a pane of clear glass in the center, and the other surrounding spaces flied with stained glass of red, orange, blue, green, violet, purple, chrome and pink, and set it up so that a clear noon-day sun can shine through, while all is darkened around with curtains, then mix in some odd ends of rainbows, and you will have a good imitation of our moonlight. It is, in fact a sombre light, mellowed by starlight, shaded by the pencil of Plutonian darkness, causing all surrounding objects to look sailow, wierd and bewitched—somewhat similar to the light that comes in through the stained glass windows of a deserted cathedral that was built on the Alps in the olden-time, where a brillent imagination can hear the call of departed spirits, and where the shadow of of departed spirits, and where the shadow of ry pillar seems a veritable ghost, sts we have not, but in their place we a dismal little owl, whose call is not unlike that of a panther, or a female voice subdued and mellowed by distance; and this is a good submellowed by distance; and this is a good substitute for the ghosts, that would otherwise be sine qua non. Hundreds of these owls call the live-long night, while the hundring moon rides the heavenly road above us, with a face swollen like a subject of a protracted toothache, or the cheeks if one over-fond of lager beer, and limberger cheese. Taken all in ail, a Colifornia moonlight is exqusite, though indescribable.
