-Theodore Ainsworth, an employee of the Pa. R. R. Co. and a resident of Logan town-There, and the Other Place, ship, Blair county, missed his footing while attempting to board a freight train, on Friday morning last, and falling under the wheels his right leg was so badly crushed that it had to be amputated at the knee, The great toe of his left foot was also crushed. The unfortunate man was said to have been intoxicated at the time of the accident. Sadie Fails, a lady residing with Mrs. Jack Patchin at Burnside, Clearfield county, not far from the Cambria county line, complained of feeling unwell while in the garden on Tuesday of last week, and before Mrs. Patchin could get her into the house she fell dead, or at least apparently died, although there were certain signs of life still visible on Friday last which deterred her friends from burying the body. Heart disease is the supposed cause of death, if really dead.

-President Lerdo de Tejada, of the Mexican Republic, accompanied by his suite, five in number, did Altoona the honor of a visit on Tuesday evening last. The next point to be taken in by the distinguished or extinguished party from our sister Republic is Johnstows and the mammoth steel works at that place. Won't the local editor of the Tribune spread himself prodigiously in telling all he knows and don't know about these foreign dignituries and their present and prospective movements.

-On Saturday evening last a man named Lahey Dirken, formerly employed at or near Lilly's station as a coal miner, jumped from a moving freight train, on which, tramp like, he was "bumping" his way, at the point above named, with the avowed intention of visiting some of his "old cronies" thereabouts, but instead of alighting on his feet he fell on his side and fractured his left shoulder very badly. He was sent on to Pittsburgh, where he said that he had friends iving who would take care of him.

-The local scribe of the Altoona Tribune witnesed a thrilling incident on Wednesday last, on the Bell's Gap Railroad. While the train was proceeding from Beil's Mills to element in convention at Harrisburg Lloydsville a little three year old child was discovered standing in the middle of the track opposite Root's barn. The train was stopped within a few feet of the child, when the conductor sprang forward, snatched up the little one and carried it to a place of safety. Had the train been going in the opposite direction the child would, in all probability have been killed.

-For a year or more past Mr. Wm. Bendon, of Gallitzin township, has been suffering with a cancer on one of his hands, the greater portion of which has been eaten away, and there is at present a strong probability that the disease will ere long prove fatal. Mr. Bendon, although 85 years of age, was up to the time of the attack a strong and hearty man, able and always willing to do a full day's work, and we sincerely hone that something may yet be done to arrest the progress of the terrible disease which now afflicts him and threatens to end his long and useful life. - We acknowledge with many thanks the receipt from the American Lead Pencil Co., whose manufactory is located at Hoboken, N. J., of a case containing three dozen of their pencils, marked hard, medium and soft. We profess to be a judge of such articles and are free to admit that the pencils manufacan shirting (7) hour by advertising rior in every respect to any others we have ever used. We earnestly commend them to dealers everywhere, and have no hesitation in believing that they will sell themselves. So, much, alas! for his inordinate love for no matter what other makes may be brought strong drink.

- We heard it mentioned on Monday last, but earnestly hope that there is no truth in the report, that our worthy old friend, John ! the report, that our worthy old friend, John be remembered as having spent some time Carney, sr., of Munster township, was severely burned a few days ago by fire communigaged in learning the telegraphing business, cated to his clothing from a brush heap the presence of mind and intrepidity of his daughter Rose the flames were specific sub-dued and the life of the old gentleman was by that means undoubtedly saved. All honor to the thoughtfulness and covered the flames were specifically saved. to the thoughtfulness and courage of Miss Rose, if the story be true as reported.

Hanlon, of Gallitzin township, set fire to some rubbish in a field he was engaged in plowing, and then went on with his work without paying further attention to the fire, which speedily communicated to the stubble and from thence to the fence, about forty rods of which was soon destroyed, the fire meantime making rapid progress in the direction of the house and other buildings, one or more of which would probably have failen and when we add that that impressible victims to the flames had not a little son of Mr. Hanlon discovered the fire and alarmed the neighbors just in the niche of time to evert the threatened disaster.

-A wayfaring man, more commonly known as a tramp, aged about twenty-one years and giving his name as Charles Boynon, from Reading, Pa., a shoemaker by trade, fell from a freight train in the vicinity of Lilly's station, on Friday night last, and had his left foot so badly crushed by several of the car wheels passing over it that it had to be amputated by the Pa. R. R. Co.'s physician at Altoona, who was promptly sum moned to the scene of the accident for that purpose. The unfortunate man also had his right foot somewhat injured and received a painful cut in the head. He was brought to he county almoshouse, near this place, on Saturday, and is new doing as well as could be expected. -Frank Kelley and Wm. Reasman were arrested the other day for stealing about two hundred pounds of flour, a lot of apple-butter and some other property from a Sinking Valley farmer named Hostler. The crime (God save the mark!) was committed because the accused were out of employment and their families were actually starving, officer Coho, of Altoona, who arrested the parties, declaring that he found an invalid in each house, the children clothed in rags. and nothing in shape of food except a few dry bread crusts and some dried apples --The accused will make no defense before Judge Dean, but will plead guilty to the charge against them. A distressing case inthe Opera House fire in that place, deed and one which should excite that kind of sympathy which induces a man to aid the unfortunate in a practical way.

-Mr. Daniel Park, a fireman on the Pa. R. R., was struck and killed instantly near Portage station, this county, by the locomotive of the Cincinnati Express east, at an early hour on Friday morning last. Mr. Parks was standing on the south track at the time, engaged in cleaning the ash-pan of his engine, which stood on the adjoining track, and it is presumed that the noise made by the blowing off of the steam prevented him from hearing the approach of the passenger train, which came upon him with the terrible result stated. The unfortunate young man bore an excellent character and enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. His lifeless remains were taken to East Conemangh, where he lived, and on Sunday afternoon following were interred in Sandy Vale Cemetery, Johnstown, whence they were accompanied by a large concourse of mourning relatives and sympathizing friends. -As the season has arrived for country merchants to pocket a clean shirt and slip down to Philadelphia for the purpose of laying in a stock of spring and summer goods, we earnestly and without solicitation or recompense commend our worthy friend Tom L. McNamara, of the extensive dry goods house of Jacob L. Reigel & Co., 333 Market street, to the kindly consideration of all retail dealers to whom these presents may come greeting. We have known Tom ever since he was big enough to know, and a better boy or more deserving man never got his "broughten up" in the good old town of Holfacturing and dealing in counterfeit coin.

SHOCKING AFFAIR IN ALTOONA .- A Temperance Lecture that Should be Heeded,-The Hollidarsburg Standard acknowledges ness all round. Here is the story, and a sad and shocking one it is indeed:

About eleven o'clock on Saturday morning a resident of Altoons, named John Courtney, was walking along Eleventh avenue, in the neighborhood of Olmes & Sink's meat market. when he was suddenly seized by an unknown man, who began to shower upon him blows from a knife. Courtney was thoroughly taken by surprise and before he could break loose had received five ugly and painful, though not dangerous, wounds - four in the breast and one Passing on down the avenue the unknown rassing on down the avenue the unknown maniac soon came in contact with a party of gentleman, and as he brandished his knife and gesticulated in a remarkably flerce manner, they began to get out of his way. Unfortunately for one of them, Mr. James G. Knepp, in attempting to turn he fell over a store box, and before he could recover himself the fatal knife had been plunged into his bowels. Mr. Knepp finally managed to get on his feet and Knepp finally managed to get on his feet and ran, the assassin following him for some dis-tance. The latter soon returned, however, to tance. The latter soon returned, however, to the Young America corner, where he was summoned to surrender by one Chas. Whittle, or Nagle. His reply was to rush at Nagle with his blood-stained weapon in his hand. Nagle ran, firing a revolver at intervals, the insane man still following. About this time George Metz hit him on the head with a stone, producing no apparent effect, and soon after James O'Neill felled him to the ground with a heavy club. From thence he was conveyed to the lock-up. From thence he was conveyed to the lock-up, where his wounds were properly dressed by Dr. Walter Bell. These consists of two or three gashes on the head, one pistol shot in the right breast, another in the neck, and a badly bruised

Investigation disclosed the fact that the man was James Harkins, a miner, formerly em-ployed in the mines near Houtzdale; that when ployed in the mines near Houtzdale; that when sober he was a very quiet, decent citizen; that some three weeks are he had quarreled with his "chum" and had quit work, and that for the two werks immediately preceding he had been on a drunken bout. He made his appearance at the Brant House on Friday, where he registered and obtained a room, for which he paid in advance. Some time during the night he escaped from his room by opening the window and jumping to the roof of a small shed and from thence to the ground. On Saturday morning he attended Mass at St. John's (Catholic) church, and after the services were over atchurch, and after the services were over at-tempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. This he was prevented from do-ing by Father Caidwell, to whom be gave the razor as well as a prayer book and a photograph of his sister, declaring that he would be a dead man before night. During the day he wan-dered about town, the victim of delirium, the dered about town, the victim of delirium, the last place which he visited previous to his murder succeeding a barber shop, where he was shaved, the proprietor of the shop advising him to by his grievances before the Mayor. At this writing Harkins is conscious and has a fair prospect of recovery. Of course he knows nothing of the blood that is on his hands. Courtney is not dangerously wounded, and unless something extraordinary should intervene will soon be restored to health. Mr. Knepp is certainly fatally wounded and will probably be dead by the time this article is written.

We might add a column of comment. All We might add a column of comment. All recognize that whiskey was at the bottom of the terrible business. A man who has a pleas-ant look and is a gentleman when sober is trans-formed into a demon under the influence of this emissary from hell, and in the grasp of de-limum he takes the life of a man who never did him any harm, whose face he never saw before, and whose injury would be farthest from his thoughts when sober. It is all of a piece. Whiskey is the devit's own child and it does its parent's work. The man or men who furnished liquor to make Harkins mad must have pleasant reflections. Since the above was put in type we learn that there is every prospect that Harkins and his victims will all recover, and that the and his victims will all recover, and that the terrible tragedly is not to have so sad an ending as there was every reason to anticipate Harkins is now in the Holliday large. pate. Harkins is now in the Hollidaysburg above stated. jail, where he will in all probability remain, if his life is spared, until called upon to answer for the fearful crime which there is no reason to believe he would have ever committed had he been in his right mind.

-Miss Annie Overfield, a lady who will was arrested on Sunday afternoon, at the "sweet" on Miss Overfield. Twenty-five dollars is the amount alleged to have been -On Thursday of last week Mr. Neal stolen by the accused, who, the complainant avers, purioined the money from his bed-It is, however, a question whether the law would have been invoked had not Miss Overfield taken kindly to a Baltimore "drummer" named L. E. Bond, a brief sojourner at the hotel above named, thus getting out of the web into the bond of love, so to speak. The whole business looks very much like " 'free and easy" affair all around youth (?) with an irrepressible longing for the fair sex, Mr. Jos. Heslop, of Consmangh borough, is one of two on a $300 bond for Miss Overfield's appearance to answer at the next term of Court, the reader can look over (the) field and draw his own inferences. By the way, we may as well remark just here that T. Wales Webb is employed by the C. I. Co. to transmogrify a brick tannery into a screw manufactory, and, as the Johnstown Democrat facetionsly remarks, it would have been better for him if he had stuck to his business in a legitimate way.

WILLIAMS.—Died, at his residence in this place, on Tuesday last, Mr. John Williams, in the 79th year of his age. place, on Tuesday last, Mr. John williams, in the 79th year of his age.

The parents of Mr. Williams came from Wales to this neighborhood soon after Rev. George Roberts, deceased, also a native of Wales, settled on what is now Sheriff Myers' farm, a short distance south of town, in 1797. Mr. W. was born in November, 1799, and was the oldest living person born within the present limits of Cambria township. He learned the black-smitning trade and for many years carried on the business in a shop immediately east of his late residence. After he ceased working at his trade he was elected a Justice of the Peace, and held the office for two terms, if we are not mistaken. He was of a studious turn and his knowledge of history was quite extensive. His life, which was peaceable and quiet, was seldom, if over, disturbed by disputes or controversies with his neighbors. His personal integrity was beyond reproach and he passed away from all earthly things enjoying to the fullest extent the respect and confidence of the entire community. He leaves a widow, but no child having ever been born to him, of course none survive him. Peace to his honored ashes.
