NORTH EBENSBURG, May 2, 1877. Mr. Editor-On the evening of the above date the Bethesda Baptist church was well filled by what the leader of the society called Christians. These were made so by different means, some being brought into the fold through the door of one of the ordinances of the church-"this or one of the ordinances of the church - this occurring while in a state of unconsciousness" -others, Lydia like, "whose heart the Lord opened:" and still others by means of temper-ance. At the clo e of the meeting, however, yet another class were mentioned and definiteyet another class were mentioned and definite-ly referred to as those going to nestruction be-cause they did not sign the pledge. They are like those whom the Apostle Paul speaks of as "too carnally minded to be subject to the will of the leader of the society." But a word of explanation before we go further. Be it known then that we of the present day find two kinds then that we of the present day find two kinds of temperance societies, the Christly and the Christless. The former we adhere to, but the latter contains so much of the human element that it is worth while to do what is advised in one of the Epistles. "try every spirit." Hence the difference between these two societies may be summed up in these words: The former has a human element controlled by a Divine element, while the latter is uncontrolled by any other elwhile the latter is uncontrolled by any other elment than the one which composes it. No per-son therefore can blame this society for being influenced by animal excitement. Now we will give you a few of the confused ideas advanced by the two last speakers, which ideas advanced by the two hist speakers, which ought to corvince any candid person that the guidance of the Holy Spirit was not present in their minds, moulding their thoughts. The two first speakers did well. They appeared to an-derstand what Mr. Murphy's temperance creed required, and had no hesitation in saying that its influence over mankind was limited. But others who spoke after them, being pioneers and holding honorable positions, departed very considerably from the idea of temperance first fast, the night being, as we have said, extremely cold, to the remnant of dry goods within his grasp. Meantime the wife of his bosom, with that presence of mind which considerably the founder of the new crussed —so far indeed that the writer was led to con-clude that it was high time for Mr. Murphy to call in some of his disciples and question them in fogard to their mission and reordain them, as they are likely to confuse by their wavering characterizes so many of her sex, severed the ties which bound her to her worser half by simply undoing the buttons of her dress and quietly slipping out of the gaament, af-ter which she speedily wended her way in her underclothing to the residence of a sisminds the doctrine of temperance as first pro-mulgated by thealeader of this praiseworthy movement. This was fully exemplified by two prominent characters at the meeting referred to. These gentlemen are both honorable so far to. These gentiemen are both honorable so far as the writer is aware, but as to their spiritual-ity God must be the judge. Before I proceed further, however, let mequote a sentiment ex-pressed at the beginning of the meeting: "The oprit of God is always in these meetings." Now if this be true, and we hope it is, let us note a few things which could not have been promot-ed by that spirit. The first of the two speakers to whom reference is made announced that the last meeting was one of energy and success, and yet by the mouths of two or three witnesses. saith not, but it is to be hoped that the husband, having no doubt recovered his sober 'biter (frost) bitten" to keep it all to himyet by the mouths of two or three witnesses-aye, from more than that, as we have learnedself, and hence it finally got out and now the very contrary has been established. It don't of course militale against a cociety to have a failure, but it does speak ill for both the society and the person to break the cord of HONORABLY ACQUITTED .- In January last we mentioned the fact that A. C. Mullin, truth in order to stimulate the people. And now let me say that the milk and water question was well gotten up, albeit the analogy Esq., a former citizen of this place, had been arrested in Philadelphia on a warrant was not as good as if it had been confined to one vessel, alono we take it for granted that be wished us to understand that we could not charging him and three of the directors with conspiracy to defraud the creditors of the be for and against temperance. Admitting this to be true, let us use the honorable gentleman as a proof. We are well aware that all societies have some good principles, while the greater mass may not be worthy of such distinction. pearance at the next Court, Philip Collins, Thus these good principles may be thought such Esq., becoming his surety. We stated at the by us thus thinking, and may find lodgment in our approbation. Now the honorable gentle-man is a firm denouncer of Catholicism and yet time that from our personal acquaintance with Mr. Mullin, as well as from his intega willing practitioner of some of its fundament at ordinances. Thus his an dogy falls by him rity and correct business habits, we could not and would not believe him guilty of the self, he being the example practical. The next honorable and Rev. gentleman, who, on account of his great desire to see the enuse advanced, put for thall his power, though charge until so pronounced by the verdict of a jury. The case was tried last week at Pottsville, and after the evidence for the humanly, to accomplish it, made two+xcellent addresses on the subject, but the first was des-troyed by the second in a few sentences he gave prosecution closed on Friday evening, one witness only being called by the defense, the atterance to. Still the continuance of the meet-Court stated that the Commonwealth had ing and his great zeal for the cause led him to this, and no one can censure him for the mis-take. We certainly feel much less disposed to failed to prove the charge, and that the only do so, it being the impulse of the Holy Spirit. Well, the metaphor by which this honorable gentleman represented intemperance was very good, but the question arises, What part of inremperance must you move first in order to set the rest in motion? As the earth is a solid mass, and intemperance equally so, to move the mass of both you must start a special parti-

the pledge will go to destruction is of man's work, and therefore he has somewhat to boast of. Again, if this be so, let us then, for convenience, reverse the language of Paul recorded in Romans, chapter vill., verses 1, 2.3, 4 and 5:

"There is therefore now no condomnation to there who are not in temperance, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit of temper-ance. (2) For the law of the spirit of life in (Christ) temperance bath made me free from the law of sin and death. 3) For what the law could not do in that it was weak. God sending

..... -A young man named Charles T. Cook was knocked down, run over and instantly killed by the National Line freight at the east end of the Altoona depot at a very early hour on Saturday morning last. The unfortunate victim had been "dead-heading" on the Fast Line west, and had been put off at several points, but always managed to get on again as soon as the train started and in that way finally succeeded in reaching Tyrone, from whence he made his way to Altoona on the Pittsburgh Express, where it is presumed he got off to avoid detection and intended to board the train again as soon as it moved out of the depot. While thus waiting he was run over, as already stated, and had his left hand cut off at the wrist, his right arm torn from the socket. both legs severed from the body, and his head considerably bruised and cut. The remains were gathered up and on Monday last forwarded to 38 West street, New York, where it was ascertained that his mother resided.
