THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN.

EBENSBURG, PA., Friday Morning, - - June 1, 1877.

THE Republican State committee met at Harrisburg, on Tuesday last, and decided to call the State convention at that place on Wednesday, the 29th of August. This will be three weeks after the time fixed upon for holding the Democratic conven-----

A SAN FRANCISCO paper advocates as the best solution of the Mormon problem the dividing up of Utah among the adjoining States and Territories. Even if practicable, the proposition is not original, as Stephen A. Douglas suggested the same plan in a speech which he delivered when he was a member of the United States Senate.

WITHIN the ten days preceding Tuesday last there was a decline on the best grades of flour in the Pittsburgh market of $1.25 per barrel, and during the same time a decline of 80 cents per bushel on wheat. On the strength of the war news the best grades of flour rose from $8 up to $11.50. It is now selling at from $10 to $10.25, and wheat that was up to $2.20 is now down to $1.90 for the best brands and $1.70 for lower grades. As a result of this decline those who speculated in these articles have met with rainous losses.

THE latest addition to the immunerable caravan of Ohio office-holders is James E. Anderson, who has just been appointed by Mr. Hayes United States consulto Funchal, Portugal. In noticing this appointment, the Laucaster Intelligencer avers that Auderson was an apprentice in the office of the Union newspaper in that city liftcen or twenty years ago -that while the Republican election ticket were being printed in the Union office he went to the Chairman of the Democratic county committee and offered to mix the Democratic with the Republican tickets before their distribution. and that for doing so, Mr. Cechran, the editor, discharged him, literally kicking him down the stairs-that he then started for Baltimore and last year turned up as Register of Election in East Februara parish, Louisiana. The Intelligencer further states that he was in Lancaster a short time ago, and made no secret of his belief gaging in war. It is this: The present that Tilden had fairly carried Louisianathat he was going to Washington to demand a consulate, and boasted that he had documents and information which would compel the administration to recognize his claims. Why Anderson's appointment is credited to Ohio and not to Louisiana, his gave to them a right to the proprietorship Democratic and Republican tickets, the connection with the election in East Feliciana parish last November, will sufficiently explain. The Ohio dodge shows that James E. Anderson is a man of unbounded political resources and knows in an emergency how to procure an office.

On last Saturday week a colored man named James Laws was killed in East Feliciana parish, Louisiana. Packard, who knew Laws, at once declared that it was a political murder, Laws having been an active Republican. It seems, however, that the killing of Laws grew out of domestic difficulties and not out of politics. A suit for divorce brought by Laws against his wife for adultery had been pending for some time in the Parish Court, and letters from the wife acknowledging her guilt had come into her husband's possession. From this tory and the consequent increase in the fact it is believed that she instigated the murder, and that her paramour committed the crime. The mother of Laws testified before the coroner's jury that the assassing was a negro. In addition to all this, the Parish Judge and the District Attorney, who were present at the coroner's inquest, Laws was killed by one man and not by a was then in fail, and that a family fend. growing out of a divorce suit, led to his death. The whole case resolves itself into this: One black man who had been too mimate with the wife of another black wills the latter. The Russo-Turkish War.

The war between Russia and Turkey is now the great topic of the day and the subject of deepest interest to the nations of Danube, and at the head-waters of the Euphrates, under the opposing standards of the Cross and Crescent, are inaugurating a war which promises to be the most momentous conflict of the present century.

confusion, people are speculating and theorizing as to the causes which have led to this appeal to the sword. The Czar, in his manifesto declaring war, alleges, in extennation of his course, the sympathy he feels for the sufferings of the Christian subjects of the Porte; the refusal of the Turkish government, in the rejection of the Protocol, to redress the wrongs of a long persecuted people, to panish the perpetrators of the foul massacres in Bulgaria last year and to prevent the repetition of these outrages; and he says something about the vindication of the honor of Russia, insulted by the refusal of the Turks to listen to the suggestion of the Conference of Constantinople. As a supplement to this declaration comes the address of Grand Duke Nicholas to the army, in the course of which be says: "We do not march to make conquests, but to defend our brechern oppressed for

Christ's sake." These enunciations are exceedingly philanthropic on paper, but no one who is familiar with duplicity of kings and emperors believes a word of them. In fact, these manifestoes have ever been regarded bank, and will make a desperate struggle as to their real motives and designs. Hence it is that a meaning directly opposite to that conveyed by the phraseology is taken universally believed to be the paramount object of the invasion of the Ottoman Empire. For this Russia has many reasons, the first of which is, that with the Black Sea and the passage from it to the Mediterranean, the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, in the hands of the Turks, who are ever hos-LAST WEEK WE gave the Beaver Badical | tile to her interests, Russia is deprived of the Senate to being nominated for Anditor | which paralyzes her industries and retards tion. Besides this, Russia has an eye to the further extension of her Asiatic territory, and it is this phase of the case that particularly alarms England for he safety of her Indian possessions, which s not the only interest she has at stake, as On the plea of the necessity of the "balance Turkish bonds which represent hundreds of power' they have sustained Turkey of millions of pounds are held by English

To protect these interests England would go to war to-morrow if she could find an ally in Europe to fight her battles, and had she not the wholesome fear that Ireland, in the language of Wendell Phillips, would stab her in the back. The Muscovite has yet another reason for en-Emperor, shortly after the war of the Crimea, seeing the discontent of the serfs to be an element of weakness in the emsubjects from the level of the beast of burden to something approaching to the dignity of freemen. satisfy the people and divert attention from the shortcomings of monarchy, and the comparative perfections of the Republic. We will now consider the Czar's pretenions as a champion of Religious Liber-TY. The protestations of the declaration of war against Turkish intolerance strongly resembles the cry of "stop thief?" in the have telegraphed to Gov. Nicholls that month of the robber. Even those whom he professes to liberate will not enjoy liberty of conscience under the spiritual direction of this holy Czar, for, although they apparently belong to the same faith, they do not acknowledge Alexander to be the head of their Church, which they will have to do if he succeeds. What a consistent enthusiast is this Emperor who denies liberty of conscience to those under his own sway and pretends to go to war to secure it for the subjects of the Sultan.

Our readers must not suppose that because we have no faith in the professions of Russia that we sympathize with Turkey. An empire or kingdom founded by violence and bloodshed will fall by the same means, and we think the time of the disruption of this Mohammedan empire is at hand, and that Russia is the instrument to be used by an angry God for this purpose. And it is a singular coincidence that the peril of Turkey is also that of England-a nation which has been the cause of more human misery than any other despotism that ever existed, and which the New York Herald not inaptly calls the greatest Mohammedan nation in the world. It would be infinitely proper that these two freebooting monstrosities, that have been companious and allies in life, should not be separated in death. The Almighty is long suffering and patient, but there is an end to his forbearance, and the cups of iniquity of these two nations are now full to overflowing. From the time that the followers of Mahomet first went forth to make conquests their history has been one of rapine and murder. First the conquerors of a great part of western Asia, including Palestine, they were the objects against whom the Crusades were directed. Eubsequently they became more powerful, and invaded Europe and Adrianople in 1356 and Constantinople almost a century later, Constantine the last Emperor of the Greeks Kerrigan, who expessed the murderous exhaving fallen on the steps of St. Sophia, then a Christian church, now a Mohammedan mosque. According to the command of the Propher they are to kill all who are not true "be lievers." It is this injunction which has caused the perpetration of untold massacres of Christia: s by the Moslems. Under the shadow of the slightest pretext the August, Turks have slanghtered those who opposed them, outraged their wives and daughters, or, still worse, carried them off to be consigned to a life of shame in the harems of their captors. It is no wonder, then, that the Christian subjects of the misuamed Sublime Porte should be tired of their rulers. In fact, the only reason that they have had to endure the miscule of the Tuck so long is found in the jealousy and apprehension of the Great Powers lest Russia should become too powerful for neighbors which would long ago have gone to pieces if left to itself as a barrier to the natural industrial development of Russia, but now they have not the ability to do so any longer; so we may expect to see he Ottoman Empire fall before the lapse of many months, never to rise again.

The Directors say a reduction of expenditures is rendered necessary by the fact that the depression in all business interests of the country continues, thus affecting the usual revenues of railway companies. In his circular, referring to the matter, President Scott says: "But one reduction in compensation has been made by the company since the panic of 1873, and it was hoped that a revival of business would avoid the necessity of making any further abatement in the compensation of all persons in the service. The execution of Thomas Duffy, who took county boasts of a skin which resembles an active and prominent part in securing men to murder Yost, in return for an indignity offered him by the policeman while in the performance of his duties, will probably also come off on the 21st of June.

Alexander Campbell, who is to be hanged on the 21st, with Michael Doyle and Edw. Kelly, was concerned in the murder of John P. Jones, a boss miner. Doyle and Kelly did the actual killing, but Campbell was a plainly proved accessory. Jones was murdered on September 3, 1875. "on a trade" entered into between Mollie Maguires of Schuylkill and Carbon counties, both crimes having been committed by strangers to the victims in order to more readily escape detection, but the testimony of McParlan, the detective, and Jimmy ploits of his accomplices, wove a network of guilt around them from which they could not extricate themselves. As the hanging on June 21, there will be four executions at Manch Chunk on that day. At Pottsville there will be five, and at Wilkesbarre one, making eleven persons to be executed in one day.

THE POPE AND AMERICA.-The Pope received 300 American pilgrims at noon on Thursday. He was accompanied by the cardinals and remained sitting on a partable chair on the dais of the pontifical throne. He looked well, but coughed at intervals. Archbishop Wood read an address in Italian, expressing the good wishes of Philadelphia and conmercing the benefits conferred by the Pope on the Church in the United States. Father Kearney read the Latin address from the clergy of New York congratulating the Pope on his advanced age and his prolonged pontificate. The gifts of American Catholies were then presented.

In reply to the American a ldresses be thanked God for the affectionate manifestation of his children from the far-off land, and said that even at the beginning of the troubles of his pontificate a cardinal in the college of Propaganda had forefold that aid and consolation would come to the Holy See from the faithful children of the American Church, and thirty years' experience has confirmed the truth of this prophecy. He dwelt at length on the wonderful progress which the Catholic Church in America had made. He spoke in great praise of the American nation, the great things it had accomplished, and how in the flower of its youth it had acquired strength sufficient to arouse the jealousy of European nations. But there were errors of youth in nations as in men, and he would remind them of two he had noticed in them : Precipitancy in pursuit of material things and a too proudleeling of independence. They prided them selves on being republicans. [here there was a laugh, in which the cardinals joined] but they must remember that all must bow the head to enter Paradise. They must be humble and not let material things interfere with their prayers. He blessed all American people-Catholics that they might continue firm in the faith; Protestants that they might be illuminated-and prayed that good might descend in abundance on all of them.
