We are sorry indeed to learn that three children of our friend and patron, Mr. Ehrhart Farbaugh, of Allegheny township, have died within less than three weeks, all victims of diphtheria, and that seven members of his brother Edward's family, living near him, are afflicted with the same terrible disease

-- The Altoona Globe establishment was bought at Sheriff's sale on Monday last by David Caldwell, Esq., of Huntingdon, for $320, the effects including, in addition to the material, nearly, $200 in book accounts. The purchaser subsequently leased the office and fixtures to the present management until April 1st, 1878.

-A farmer residing in the southern part of Clearfield township informed us this week that his expected late crop of potatoes turned out to be no crop at all, owing, as he alleges, to the early decay of the stalks. Whether this failure in late planting prevails in other sections of the county we are unable to say, but we certainly hope not.

- A horse owned or at least ridden to town by Luke A. Platt, of Susquehanna township, was taken from the Laterner House stable on Saturday night last, but was returned next day by a party who alleged that he had found the animal running loose about two miles this side of Wilmore. How he knew where the horse belonged the chap didn't wait long enough to explain.

-James and John Jackson and John Blain, all colored if we mistake not, were taken to the Penitentiary from Westmoreland county on Saturday last to serve a term of nine years each for burglary, and Wm. Ellis, for the larceny of goods from cars of the Pa. R. R. Co., was consigned to the same institution for a period of thirteen months. Four young men were sent to the Allegheny Workhouse from the same coun ty for larceny.

-The steep and stupendous lies indulged in by some of our exchanges in regard to the yield of wheat per acre in certain sections this season throws Baron Munchausen completely in the shade. The latest we have noticed is an item in a Somerset paper which calm and deliberately asserts that a farmer in that county raised ninety-three bushels by weight, or eighty-two bushels by measure, from one acre. The President of the Nevada Lying Society will now be prepared to send the belt for the championship, which he has worn so long, to the county of Somerset, where it will be likely to remain for many a day to come.

> -The nomination for District Attorney by the Republican county convention of a gentleman with the same initials, who subsequently declined the honor, if honor it can be called, may have given rise to the rumor which prevailed on Monday last that that jelly good fellow, George M. Riddle, of Philadelphia, had been chosen to fill a position which no Republican with more or less knowledge of the law could be prevailed upon or coerced into accepting. Be that, however, as it may, if Mr. Riddle was on the track at all, which we neither deny nor affirm, we are glad to say that he Rose from his slumbers next morning fully convinced that he wasn't the right iamb for the slaughter, in as much as he knew little or nothing about any law except the law of supply and among the "frosty sons of thunder."

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION. Seventy-eight Republican delegates out of ninety-four, the full complement, met in county convention at the Court House on Monday last, and as a matter of form but not of substance, nominated the following ticket: Prothonotary, Col. Wm. J. Mc Dermott, of Clearfield township; Poor House Director, Wm. Glass, of Munster township; Coroner, Joseph S. Strayer, of Johnstown. No Republican lawyer in the county was willing to incur the expense of getting tickets printed for District Attorney, and no nomination was therefore made for that office. The nominees are all respectable citizens. Col. McDermott was out through the Democratic flint mill of this county once before, as a candidate for Register and Recorder, and seems to be willing to go through the same rough process again. Mr. Glass deserved the empty honor of a nomination for having, almost since time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, represented in county conventions the baker's dozen of Republicans who are scattered around loose in Munster township. Squire Strayer has heretofore filled the high position of Lord Mayor of Johnstown, and richy merited a nomination for the important office of Coroner. The action of the convention has placed Mr. Horne, the independent candidate for Prothonotary, in the position assigned to Mahomet's coffin, and will compel as again in our next paper reluctantly to refer to the candidacy of that geutleman.

We know the Dr.'s work to be first-class in every particular, and that he is a reliable gentle. his request we extend a cordial invitation to all, dentists included, to visit the largest Steam Dental Establishment in the U.S. located at 278 Penn Avenue, where the Dr. takes great pleasure in describing his methods of work, and the many appliances and advantages he possesses for performing the most skillful operations at prices within the reach of all. He also gives instructions to dentists on different styles of filling natural teeth, manufacturing artificial teeth, on the principles of applying the great Atmospheric Disk for retaining teeth firmly in the mouth, and on his absolutely safe anzethetics, and his successful method of extracting teeth without pain. Go and see him if you have time. The Dr.'s exhibit will be on the corner opposite the entrance to the Art Gallery.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.-The September term of the Court of Quarter Sessions convened at 10.50 on Monday morning last, with Judge Dean and Associates Flanagan and Thomas on the Bench. The Grand Jury was then qualified according to law and Mr. Wm. J. Dawson, of Gallitzin township, appointed foreman, after which the names of the Traverse Jurors were announced, the several constables of the county made oath to their quarterly returns, and the Bar list was called for the purpose of having the usual motions, petitions, etc., presented. -These preliminary proceedings occupied the attention of Court until half-past 12 o'clock, when, on the principle that a short horse is easily curried, it adjourned until 3 o'clock, P. M., in order to afford the Republican county convention the use of the Court room for the purpose of going through the motions of setting up a ticket to be knocked down at the November election.

In pursuance of adjournment, Court reassembled at 3 o'clock and proceeded with business in the following order: Com'th vs. Reuben Boring-maintaining a nuisance in the erection of fences across a pub-lic road in Biacklick township, and obstructing the highway. Jury find defendant guilty. Sentence deferred until Argument Court. Com'th vs. John Hunter-first court, pointing a pistol; second count, assault and battery. The accused having established a reputation for previous good conduct, the Court permitted a nel, press to be entered on payment of costs and the furnishing of a bond in the sum of $500 for the keeping of the peace on part of the for the keeping of the peace on part of the defendant for one year, especially lowards the prosecutor, Valentine Bitner. A HUNTINGDON COUNTY BIGAMY CASE. -The scene of the following rural formance, the details of which we find in the editorial columns of a recent issue of the Philadelphia Times, is not so far distant but what it may very appropriately be given a place in our local department :

Outside the dominions of the late Mr. Brigham Young there is a popular beilef that one wife is as much of a luxury as the law allows to any one man, and very often that is a greater luxury than one man can decently and adequately sustain. Those good people of various nationalities who settled this country started out with the managemic system and others to out with the monogamic system and adhered to It with such tenacity of purpose that in our civ-ilization it became one of our institutions, and while a few ambitious men have sometimes sought to enhance domestic bliss with an addi-tional wife, they have not only invaded the law and generally been pursued by it, but they have and generally been pursued by it, but they not outraged society, and merited, if they have not the severest nunishment. The always received, the severest punishment. The careful reader of the daily papers has doubtless observed that of late man's discontent with one wife is apparently on the increase, particularly in Penesylvania, where levely woman is much more lovely than in general and therefore more than ordinarily interesting.

Reflecting upon these facts is probably what led Mr. John J. Wilson some time since to institute some proceedings in the Hantingdon county court which have developed father singularily. It the markway to not the some proceedings in the some proceedings in the Hantingdon county court which have developed father singularily.

ly. In the northwestern portion of the county are several families of the name of Randolph, said to be more or less descended from the fa-mous John Randolph of Rosneke, but whether story. In August, 18:6, a young member of one of these families, named John A. Randolph after his musirious ancestor, no doubt-mar-ried Belinda Fetterman. In February of this year a young woman of good, but possibly not eminent family, named Pamelia Crownover, was married to John A. Randolph. It will appear very evident to even the casual observer that there must have been two John A. Randelphs, which is a not impossible thing, or that the one John A. Randolph had married two women within the brief period of whileh is also not impossible. Mr. Wilson, who lives in the neighborhood, took the latter view of the case, and procured the indictment of John A. Randolph for bigamy. The case went to trial last week, and at the outset the defend. ant admitted his marriage to Belinda Fetter-man. The justice who performed the wedding ceremony for John A. Randolph and Pamelia Crownover then testified that he recognized the defendant as the party who had married Pamelia. He was certain he could not be mistaken, and he was the more positive because the young lady had once been a pupil of his. The counsel for the defendant at this point admitted the identity of the lady; that she was Pamella Crownover and is now Mrs. John A. Randolph, and that the justice performed the marriage ceremony as he had detailed. The admissions of the attorney for the defense, and of the defendant himself, seemed to establish the case for the Commonwealth, but it really only had the effect to thrown the prosecution off guard. The defense called first Pamelia Crownover, who testified to her marriage with John A. Randolph, but when asked it defendant was her husband said with empha is:
"No, sir; he is not the man." She insisted that her husband was another Randolph, who had deserted her and of whose whereabouts she was not informed. The decendant on the stand acknowledged having married Belinda Fetterman, but denied that Pamelia was his wife; be further said be did not know the justice who had performed the marriage service for Pamelia and John A. Randelph, and had never spoken to him. At this juncture Mr. Wilson, who had brought the prosecution, was put upon the stand to expain why he had done so. His story was that Pamelia had told him that she bad married the defendant, and "she didn't care who knew it." Mr. Wilson being a good man, to use his own words, "it just came into my mind that no man ought to have two wo-men; no man, and that's just my mind exactly; two women are too much for any one man and I wouldn't allow it." The only thing that it was possible to go under the circumstances was just what was done: Randolph and Pamelia were informed against for perjury and the matter will be proceeded with at the next term of the Huntingdon county court.

It is a very interesting case which will attract more than local attention, but it will probably not be a difficult matter to develop the facts,

SATURDAY'S SOCIABLE. - That the picnic in aid of the Church of the Holy Name in this place would have been a grand affair had the weather proved propitious, there is no reason to doubt, and even as it was, thanks to F. A. Shoemaker, Esq., and his thanks to F. A. Sheemaker, Esq., and his estimable lady, who kindly three open the doors of Belmont and permitted the pleasure seekers to take possession for the time being, it proved a most enjoyable and really reinsurance of unsuccessful companies. It unexpected success. It was participated in by many ladies and gentlemen of this and other localities, even Altoona sending a very respectable delegation, which would have been largely increased had not the lowering clouds of the morning bespoke a wet day and very naturally suggested a damper upon the festivities. Excellent music was furnished by the Carrolltown and Ebensburg cornet bands, both of which organizations deserve the sincere thanks of all concerned for their welcome and enjoythat Mrs. S., the prosecutrix, had given the destendant a note against Mr. Ed. Meldron and took defendant's note in return. The defendant collected the money from Mr. Meldron but failed to pay it to the prosecutrix. Hence the suit. Under instructions of the Court, the jury found for the defendant in smuch as the inable efforts, and the dancing music was nnexextent as we have seldom if ever seen equalied at any picnic outside of Ebensburg, and the universal sentiment of all who partock of the good things was that they had never sat down to more sumptuous feasts or a greater abundance of rich edfbles. THE WASHINGTON LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY. - The following, copied from a recent issue of the Pittsburgh Commercial-Guiztte, relates to a life insurance company which, as the Uniontown Genius of Liberty remarks, is favorably known in Fayette and adjoining counties through baving paid on its endowment policies large sums of money to some of the citizens of that county many months before they were due, and of which Robert H. Brown, of Pittsburgh, a gentle man who will be recognized as a former Cambrian of good repute, is the General Agent for Western Pennsylvania. The Com.-Gaz. say : The ordeal through which the life insurance business has passed during the current year, though so destructive to infirm companies, has brought great benefits to companies based sound principles and honestly managed. The list of companies heretofore so long, shows a very few of known solveney. Only such can now expect new business. Irresponsible and reckless agents such as only poor companies employ, are leaving the field, and the result seen in a largely increased number of applican't at the offices of our well established com-panies. In taking up the is we see none that has come through the trial more satisfactordy than the Washington, which has its office at 6 Wood street. The career of this company since its organization, seventeen years ago, has al-ways been honorable and emissionitive. Is re-stricted by its charter to safe investmentsconflues its business to the simple forms of in does not practice nor believe in amalgamation The value of a record like this is never properly estimated, until a time of doubt and suspense like the present. Then its true worth comes to be appreciated. The report of the Hom John A McCall, Jr., to which our attention is called, made to the insurance acpartment after a thought ment after a thorough examination of the company tells the whole secret. More deserving words of praise were never bestowed an any life company by a competent and conscientious critic, and we must congratulate all concerned in the Washington Lite Insurance entious critic, and we must congratulate all concerned in the Washington Life Insurance Company.

It is proper to add in this connection that Robert, who has long been a favorite son of Cambria county, is a man of well known energy intelligence and integrity, and hence energy, intelligence and integrity, and hence it is that we take pleasure in congratulating him on his connection with so reliable a company as the old "Washington Life," which we cannot too earnestly commend to the favorable consideration of our readers.
