First, That in consequence of the neglect of the interests of the laboring classes by the two great political parties of the country, we, the workingmen of Cambria county, feel compelled water plug and placed across the track. It was intended to wreck the Pacific Express by a sense of duty and a due regard for the welfare of ourselves and families, to organize for the advancement of the interests of labor ; and we call upon workingmen everywhere to forsake their former political allegiances and coming west struck the end of the loose rail,

Sr. BONIFACE, Sept. 25th, 1877. DEAR FREEMAN--Philip Miller, constable of Chest township, has made some additional dis-coveries of the thieving operations of Wilson and Ashcraft, the two men charged with steal-ing belting from Mr. John Lantzy. On Mon-day last he went to the residence of Wilson and made an additional search, which resulted in finding a portion of the mill belting, butcher knives, cant books marked J. J., and grabs marked W. L. H.; and in a field a short distance from the bouse he uncarthed a large crock con-taining butter, nicely covered up with weeds, and on a closer search came upon a hollow log completely filled with chicken teathers in quantity sufficient to fill; a good sized feather tick. The citizens of Susquehanna and Chest townships have been annoyed for some time past by these midnight marauders engaged in robbing spring houses and chicken coops. Too DEAR FREEMAN -Philip Miller, constable of has got his log job under full beadway, baving completed all the buildings necessary for a camp, which is large and well adapted for winter operations. He has already employed some twenty-five bands, all of whom are stout, moral and temperate young men, which is rarely the case in humber camps. Mr. L. has also supplied his larder with the best the market affords, and his harder with the best the market allords, and having secured the services of Jackson Tooly as chief cook, his table will doubtless be fit for a prince to dine at. His bedding and other ar-rangements are equally admirable. Wm. I ant-zy will boss the job in the absence of his father, and cur jovial friend, Phil. Miller, will take charge of the blacksmithing department. We are informed that a crew of eight cut in five days seven hundred and sity logs. This is condays seven handred and sixty logs. This is con-sidered by old logmen mighty rapid work.

sidered by old logmen mighty rapid work. We trequently notice in your spicy locals some reference to large yields of wheat, corn, etc. Now we do not wish to brag of Chest township's large crops, but we can produce a female chicken that will hay more eggs in one day than any fowi of its kind in the county. Here is the "ower true tale": Messrs. Adam Leiden and Conrad Yenger, whose veracity are not to be questioned, as they stand high in the estimation of their fellow childens, both say estimation of their fellow chizens, both say that they were present and in close proximity to the ben when she laid five eggs in one day -laying two at 9 o'clock in the orning. at 2 o'clock, p. m., and one at H o'clock at night. This looks a little fishy, I admit, but when we take into consideration the high moral standing of these genticman, we are in-clined to believe she is an extraordinary Bramah hen. We can now boast of having the most prolific chickens, the largest crops, the fastest horses, the truest democrats that ever handled a ballot, and, above all, the prettiest looking ladies in the county, Ebensburg not excepted.

It would seem that the thieving business is It would seem that the thirving busiless is not confined to Susquehanna township alone, Our young friend, Conrad Ycager, who has been doing a good business as a huckster he-tween this place and Altoona, had purchased tween this place and Altoona, had purchased the necessary supplies for his usual trip and had placed them in his spring house for the purpose of loading in the morning. THE CATHOLIC WORLD for October opens with a very striking article on "The Outlook The "outlook" regards as much in Italy. the Italian people as the Carholic Church. The writer is bold and searching in his inquiries, and his examination of the causes that led up to the present condition of the church in the land that of all lands was looked upon as its home, to the actual posiblage of his fellow workingmen whose eyes were intently fixed upon him, his innate modesty overcame him and he too proved on the crisis now existing in Italy, gives much matter for earnest and sober reflection, There is much, too, that is interesting in the writer's speculations on the future of what he attempted to say, was that Mr. Kerr the races and the influence exercised on was a citizen of Ebensburg, which may have been the reason why his District Attorney of the church to reasond to every right as goose was so effectually cooked. Fortunately, however, some one maxing about the prenesis, or, as it is thought, one of the young employes returning home from a courting expedition, frightened the would-be burglars, who departed suddenly, leaving behind them the brace, bit and chised with which they had found an entrance. Mr. Blum says that he had left considerable money in the till, and to secure that and that only is thought to have been the object of the mid-night marauders, as they disturbed nothing else. To prevent disappointment in the future it may be added that Mr. B. gives his most positive answer that he will not leave any money in the drawer hereafter, so that no burgiars need apply. THE BRAVERY OF ENGINEER ATTICK .-

A correspondent of the Lock Haven Democrat thus alludes to the heroism displayed by Mr. Wm. Attick, a native of this county, who lost his life in the recent collision on the P. & E. road and whose remains were interred at Gallitzia on Monday of last week. The correspondent says :

We were a passenger on the train, and belleve that but for his action in promptly putting down brakes and reversing his engine the re-sult must have been far more disastrous; and had he not done it, possibly he might have saved his own life.
