

THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN. EBENSBURG, PA., Friday Morning, - - Oct. 5, 1877.

Democratic State Ticket.

FOR SUPREME JUDGE: JOHN TRUNKY, of Venango County. FOR ADDITIONAL JUDGE: WM. P. SCHELL, of Bedford County. FOR STATE TREASURER: AMOS C. NOYES, of Clinton County.

Democratic County Ticket.

PROVINCIAL: CHAS. F. O'DONNELL, of Loreto Bar. DISTRICT ATTORNEY: W. HOLLACE ROSE, of Johnstown. FISH HOUSE DIRECTOR: JACOB KIRKPATRICK, of Chest Twp. CORONER: JAMES MORELAND, of Wilmore Bar.

HEAVY rains last week in Bulgaria, followed by snow, rendered the roads almost impassable and caused an interruption of any movements by the Russians and Turks, the latter of whom still hold Plewna, and as long as they do so the march of the Russian army across the Balkan mountains is utterly impossible.

THE Greenback and Labor parties in this State have united on the following fusion ticket: Supreme Court Judge, B. P. Bentley, of Lycoming county; Auditor General, J. E. Emerson, of Beaver county; State Treasurer, James L. Wright, of Philadelphia. The two former were the original nominees of the Greenback party and the latter of the Labor party.

MOST REV. JAS. ROBERTSON BAILEY, Archbishop of Baltimore, died at the residence of Bishop Corrigan, in Newark, N. J., on Wednesday last. His remains will be taken to Baltimore to-day, and the funeral will take place in that city on Tuesday next. About six weeks ago the Archbishop returned from Europe, where he had unavailingly gone for the benefit of his health, and since then has been an inmate of Bishop Corrigan's house, patiently awaiting the last dread summons. We will publish an extended notice of his life and services in our next issue.

THE latest in regard to the movements of Chief Joseph is that on last Monday week he tracked a small detachment of soldiers on the upper Missouri, below Fort Benton, in Montana, and after the fight, in which he had several killed, he started north and was believed to be making for the Canada border. Four days before that, Howard and Sturgis were at Camp Taylor, on the Musselshell river, Montana, in hot pursuit, but will not be able to overtake Joseph on American soil, and dare not follow him beyond the British line. This is a miserable ending to so long and famous a hunt.

THE Ohio election will take place on Tuesday. The campaign has been exceptionally dull and commonplace, and has not been marked by a title of the excitement that was anticipated. It is believed by both parties that the vote of Hamilton county, which includes Cincinnati, will decide the political complexion of the Legislature, and possibly the election of Governor. Political affairs in that State are as thoroughly mixed and confused as they are in our own, and we will not therefore hazard any opinion as to the result. Neither a victory nor a defeat will astonish us. There are five tickets for State officers in the field, to wit: Democratic, Republican, Labor, Greenback and Prohibition.

THE Philadelphia Record, which for the last few days has found its way to our sanctum and been gladly welcomed, may be justly said to rank among the ablest daily newspapers published in that city. Occupying a perfectly independent position in politics, and therefore above and beyond the influence of the corrupt press that has so long robbed and plundered the taxpayers of Philadelphia, it has acquired the confidence and support of the people to such an extent that its circulation is perhaps not exceeded by that of any other daily, much less weekly, journal published in that city. Its present success is secure and gives assurance of continued and enlarged prosperity in the future.

RED Cloud, Spotted Tail, and several other Indian chiefs, have been on a visit to Washington, accompanied by Gen. Crook, to have a talk with their "Great Father." It will be remembered that all the hostile Indians, except Sitting Bull and his warriors, surrendered to the military authorities at Camp Robinson, Nebraska, last May, and since then they have been encamped near that post. Reservations were allotted them along the Missouri river, in Dakota, but they are not satisfied with the location and ask permission to live on the headwaters of the Yellowstone, in Montana. In the two interviews they had with the President many brief speeches were made in reference to their future location and their present wants, to all of which the President made a lengthy reply. No definite agreement on the subject will likely be made, however, before spring. Gen. Crook, who has fought them and knows them well, and who is almost worshipped by them, freely vouches for the honesty of their wish to live at peace with the white people. They all said they desired to live like the white man and wanted wagons (horses they have), plows and other farming implements. They also expressed a desire for schools, and Red Cloud and Spotted Tail asked that Catholic priests be sent among them. One of the speakers, called Big Road, had an eye to the main chance, and said he wanted a thousand boxes of money, a thousand head of cattle, and the same number of sheep and hogs. That was plain talk and meant business.

Trunkey and Noyes. We publish herewith the letters of acceptance of Judge John Trunkey and Col. Amos C. Noyes. Judge Trunkey's letter is characteristic of the man—modest and dignified and eminently becoming a candidate for a high judicial position. Those who admire his ability and integrity as a judge will heartily endorse his statement, that he can give no other assurance of the effort he will make faithfully and efficiently to discharge his duty, in the event of his election, than the past record of his private and official life.

The letter of Col. Noyes is a pledge to the taxpayers of the State that the secrecy which has heretofore surrounded the management of the Treasury Department shall be removed, and that if he is elected he will present to the people a statement which will plainly exhibit the actual condition of the office. This is just what the people have long demanded, but have never been furnished. Unlike Rawls, the present Treasurer, Col. Noyes never makes a promise which he does not intend to redeem. His election will be a guarantee that the interest arising from the loan of any portion of the unexpended balances in the Treasury will be placed where the law says it shall be, and not find its way into the private pocket of the Treasurer, as has been the case for the last twenty-five years.

Here are the letters of the two gentlemen named. They speak for themselves: JUDGE TRUNKY'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE. ALLENTOWN, Pa., September 30, 1877. Hon. John Trunkey, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, held at Harrisburg, on the 23rd ult., the honorable duty of informing you of my acceptance of the nomination for the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, conferred on me by you on the 23rd inst. I am in receipt of yours of 20th inst., officially informing me of my nomination as a candidate for the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and in reply to inform you that I accept of the nomination.

THE New York Republican State convention, which met at Rochester last week, squarely repudiated Mr. Hayes' Southern policy and civil service reform. The convention was entirely under the control of Senator Conkling and his understrappers, Conkling himself being a delegate and ruling the convention obedient to his will. Conkling is not as shrewd a politician as Morton, who, as soon as he discovered that the people of all sections with one heart and one mind demanded peace, and would be satisfied with nothing less, promptly avowed his purpose to support Hayes and his Southern policy, even though it was of pure Democratic origin.

ALTHOUGH the Philadelphia Times is not responsible for the opinions of public men held by George Alfred Townsend, who, as general newspaper correspondent, signs himself "Gath," instead of "Gag," it commits a grave error when it permits him, through its columns, to ventilate his stupid calumnies against General McClellan. The editor of the Times, being a Pennsylvania man, has uniformly treated General McClellan with high respect and consideration, which renders the contrast between respectable journalism and the libelous libel of Townsend in the same paper the more remarkable. Townsend is nothing if not scurrilous and vindictive, no matter who happens to be the object of his attack, and he is therefore consistent with himself in his low and clownish abuse of Gen. McClellan. The hero of South Mountain and Antietam has survived a wonderful amount of personal detraction in high places, and will outlive the aspersions of even George Alfred Townsend. "Gath," however, in accordance with the eternal fitness of things, ought to be invited by Col. McClure to manifest his "true inwardness" through the columns of some other journal than the Times when he undertakes to spit his venom at the fair name and reputation of a gallant son of Pennsylvania.

Our Washington Letter. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2, 1877. MR. HAYES has returned from his Southern trip and is in excellent spirits over his enthusiastic reception in that section. He had some misgivings at the character of his reception, but all his fears have been dispelled, and he reports the country in the best condition and inclination for a reunion of the fraternal feeling, both in social and business aspects, that existed prior to the war, and will shape his future administration of government affairs with a view to bringing about that happy condition of things between both sections of the country, the opponents of his policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE TRIAL OF THE RETURNING BOARD was called up in the criminal court at New Orleans on the first Monday (yesterday) of October. Wells and Anderson have employed able attorneys, who have been hard at work getting up a defense. The two colored members, Kenner and Cassaway, are very indignant, and wish to prosecute them. The defense will first seek a postponement of the case, failing in which their next step will be to have their trial transferred to the U. S. Circuit Court, and were Judge Bond presiding we think they would have succeeded. Mr. Kenner is a native of Louisiana, and is a man of high standing in the community.

ROSECOE, with the little bureau knob of fazz on the top of his forehead balancing the locust brain in the center, sounded the tocsin of war in the radical convention in New York by proposing the adoption of the resolution endorsing Mr. Hayes' policy. That refinement and gentility in the person of Mr. Curtis should be insulted with such language as the New York Tribune style used, is disgusting even among respectable Republicans. The animus of the attack is like a branding of goods.

THE BLAINE WING of the radical party, who seem to be determined not to quietly abandon their chances of a successful onslaught on Mr. Hayes, will buckle on their armor in the vain hope of piercing a breach in his civil service reform policy. Their line of battle will be the resolution to elect Hayes and his appointments, and the case of the Ohio clerks, they contend, will afford them a case in point, notwithstanding Mr. Hayes' indignant denial of any intention on his part to compel the clerks to go home and vote. Altogether we predict the coming year will be a year of strife and contention, bottled up wrath being abundant.

THE PATENT OFFICE STRIKE, which occurred here on Monday of last week, now that the smoke of confusion, as well as that of the fire, has cleared away, proves to be not such a great loss as was at first supposed, and the electrical fire in the office has been extinguished. The models injured or destroyed were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office. The models injured were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office.

THE PATENT OFFICE STRIKE, which occurred here on Monday of last week, now that the smoke of confusion, as well as that of the fire, has cleared away, proves to be not such a great loss as was at first supposed, and the electrical fire in the office has been extinguished. The models injured or destroyed were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office.

THE PATENT OFFICE STRIKE, which occurred here on Monday of last week, now that the smoke of confusion, as well as that of the fire, has cleared away, proves to be not such a great loss as was at first supposed, and the electrical fire in the office has been extinguished. The models injured or destroyed were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office.

THE PATENT OFFICE STRIKE, which occurred here on Monday of last week, now that the smoke of confusion, as well as that of the fire, has cleared away, proves to be not such a great loss as was at first supposed, and the electrical fire in the office has been extinguished. The models injured or destroyed were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office.

THE PATENT OFFICE STRIKE, which occurred here on Monday of last week, now that the smoke of confusion, as well as that of the fire, has cleared away, proves to be not such a great loss as was at first supposed, and the electrical fire in the office has been extinguished. The models injured or destroyed were mostly those of agricultural implements, and those relating to railroads, hydraulic, and pneumatic, and can be readily reproduced from the drawings and specifications which reach the office.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.

THE re-election of Randall, but we apprehend with little or no success, as after diligent inquiry among the knowing ones we are satisfied the honor of the position will go to Randall; but, as we remarked before, there is no telling what the future may develop, as Randall's enemies in the radical party are doing everything in their power to defeat him.