It is not to be presumed, however, that the winter will pass away without snow enough having fallen for the purpose mentioned. If it should so happen, it would prove to be a very serious loss to the northern section of this county.

Mr. Murphy, it is almost needless to inform any of our home readers at least, is one of the most respected and most prosperous citizen of the Cambria county metropolis, and the good name and substantial position won by him has been honestly earned by a long and prosperous business career, which has at all times been marked by the strictest integrity and the most faithful adherence to honest dealing. No one wishing to purchase ready-made clothing or other articles in his line can do better anywhere than with Mr. Murphy, who keeps an immense stock of the very best goods and never asks more than a fair living profit on what he sells,

NO COLORED LABORERS FOR BRAZIL .-A telegraphic dispatch from the Brazilian government was received a few days ago by our whilom townsmen, Messrs, P. & T. Collins, informing them that negroes would not be permitted to enter that country as laborers on the Maderia River Railroad, of which they are the contractors. The reason assigned for this refusal is that it might create trouble among the slaves in that country. The contractors will not, therefore, send out the large body of colored men they had engaged as laborers in Virginia. The steamer Mercedita, chartered by the Messrs. Collins. sailed from Philadelphia on Wednesday last for Para, at the mouth of the Amazon, and from there will proceed up that river and the Madeira river, a distance of over 1,300 miles, to where the work on the road will be commenced. The entire trip will take about thirty days. It is the intention to send out a steamer once every month. The Mercedita had on board between two and three hundred laborers, about 370 tons of railroad iron, portable engines, and an immense quantity of railroad tools. We learn that Mr. Thos. Collins, who was here last week, will take passage with his wife for Brazil in the next steamer and will remain there permanently to superintend the work.

To stick to our stomachs so close, sir.

Chorus. The directors were there. And they made quite a flare.

For one of them made quite a speech, sir:
The teachers he'd pay In a eleverer way And furnish them tools for to teach, sir. Chorus.

So let every one strive, When the time doth strive, To go to the Institute early, Instruction hg'll find Both for manner and mind Repaying expenses so fairly.

Lelter from Kansas. SALINA, KAN., Dec. 21, 1887. DEAR MAC-It must be nearly a year since promised to send you a correspondence, and want of time is about the only excuse I have to offer, and "want of time" will compet me to make it brief even now. We are getting so many Pennsylvanians, and especially Cambria countians, into Salina county now, that a few interest the many FREEMAN. I will proceed at once. The year drawing to a close has been a queer one in the history of Kansas, inelectrologically and agri-culturally speaking. Just think of a State that had the reputation of being droughty and dry astpowder a few years ago, being nearly flooded this year—the floods, however, doing very little damage to crops. Wheat was somewhat injur-ed by the excessive rains last spring, while corn was greatly benefitted. Of the former cereal, Kansas this year ims a fair crop, and of the latter an immense one. The average per A CARD.

To the Ladies.

In our Clock Department we have reduced by two bushels to the acre. Our county is by State, and, I am happy to say, among the most successful farmers, it not the most successful, are Pennsylvanians. Generally speaking, they are "workers." It is astonishing how our county is filling up. Never before has emigration poured in so rapidly as during the last twelve months, and Pennsylvania takes the lead.

Commercial travellers, or "drummers," as they are sometimes called, who travel our State over, do not hesitate in pronouncing Salina by far the best business town in Kansas. Thomas, small in population ('ess then 3.600), an Though small in population ('ess then 3,000), an immense amount of business is done here. It is nothing unusual for us to pay across our counter ten thousand dollars per day cash for wheat and broom corn marketed here. Salina has five grain cievators and two broom corn worehouses. Imagine a single store in our town depositing with us $29.514 in thirty-four consecutive business days—not far from uno hundred deliars per day. People always complain of hard times even when the times are pure what I see daily in Salina with what I saw in Pennsylvania last December, I should say our farmers, as well as merchants, should be cowhided (don't consider me severe) if they complain of hard times. You have no idea how many letters I receive > Respectfully. W. R. G 219.

OBITUARY. LAKE - Died, at Loretto, on Wednesday, De-cember 26, 1877, WILLIAM LAKE, aged 85 years. The deceased was one of the oldest citizens of The deceased was one of the oldest citizens of the county. He was born at Trelleck, Monmonth-shire, England, in 1792, and emigrated to this country in 1810, when in his eighteenth year, and soon after his arrival in America engaged at wagoning between Philadelphia and Phitsburgh, which business he followed until the completion of the old Portage Railroad, when he settled in this county and engaged in the business of farming , and had been a resident of the county from that time. His remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery at Loretto on Friday, the 28th to perform acts of charity and kindness by which to alleviate the suffering and promote the happi-ness of his fellow beings. During his life he was highly esteemed by his neighbors and acquaint-ances, for his many virtues, as well as his happy, jovial disposition, and died without an enemy or an unkind thought towards any one. His relatives and friends sorrow and mourn that he is no more, but feel consoled in the bellef that his life was such that his rost must be sweet and undis turbed. May be rest in peace eternal.
