GETTING FIRE.

HOW OUR ANGESTORS MANAGED IT.

In early ages, "when wild in woods directed, there will be exposed to public sale, at the Court House in Ebensburg, on the noble savage ran," compliance with the request, "Will you give me a light, plase?" involved, if the camp fires had gone out, a spell of unremitting hard work, considerable manual dexterity, and an anstinted application of "elbowgrease." The primitive mode of striking fire was by rubbing one piece of dry wood upon another until incandescence was induced. Probably Jebal, the father of dwellers in tents and herdsmen, and Jubal, the father of musicians, were indebted, when they needed a light, to Tubal Cain, their half brother, the first "artificer in brass and iron," who doubtless "gathered" his mi by fire so the tit might s nou' 'lis, of, in and to a piece or lot of ground situa-ted in Chest Springs borough, Cambria county, Fa., adjoining lot of E. & H. Nutter, ----- street er through the night and be ready for blowing up in the morning. Howfor blowing up in the morning. How-ever this may be, a care of those who lived in very early stages of the world's history would appear to have been to keen their lamps or fires ended and to be sold at the salt of Peter Urban for use of Samuel Cliff, for decod Solid Wagner, keep their lamps or fires constantly burning, rather than to depend upon means of striking fire when their "lamps had gone out." (Matthew xxv., 8.) It may be supposed that when A braham and Isaac proceeded to Moriah for the terrible sacrifice in prospeet, it was a lamp, and not a lucifer. that the patriarch had when he "took the fire in his hand." The maintenance of a continuous light was imposed upon the children of Isreal as a religious duty : "Bring the pure oil having thereon erected a two story plank house and frame barn, now in the occupancy of John J. Kuhn. Taken in execution and to be sold at olive beaten for the light, to cause the J. Kuhn. Taken in execution and to be sold at the suit of Samuel Troxell. (Exodus xxvii., 20.) The extinguished lamp or candle was evidence of the divine displeasure; "The lamp of the wicked shall be put out." Returning to early methods of striking fire, a tribe of South Amerweather-boarded, a large bank barn, frame barn and other outbuildings, now in the occu-pancy of Adam Leiden. They discoverof that they could generate showers of sparks by the sharp, abrasive contact of a certain kind of pyrites upon siliceous or flinty stones. The sparks, directed upon a quantity of dry, readily inflammable fibrous material, obfained a fame with comparatively little trouble beyond procuring and preroring materials. In the matter of ' striking a light," the human family mothers kept the kitchen fire alight all night by placing a block of coal upon it and packing it with small coal or ashes, so as to allow it to smoulder only till the morning. The first tri-truph of "applied science" in "striking a light" lay in the discovery of the combined capabilities of burned linen or tin ler, flint and steel, and brimstone tipped wood matches, or "spunks," as they were called in some part of the Destrict form of the letter U clougsted and revarced the marrower stalk being the I sudle ; the bronder, which had a serreted outer edge, was used for striking the piece of flint, and ignited the tiuder, which in turn lighted the brimstone-tipped match. The lighted tinder, when it had served its purpose, was extinguished by a close fitting inder cover that was pressed down up on it. The flint and steel were also used for lighting match paper-thick. porous paper that had been dipped in a solution of saltpetre and afterward firied. The match poper was held close to the piece of flint, with its edge as the point of impact with the steel. It ignited readily and burned freely, but without finme. Amadou. or German tinder, and "touchwood, being woody tissue in a certain stage of decay, were some imes used in the same way as match-paper. The meth ods of initiating fire, as has been seen, were, up to this point, by rude mechanical expediments. It is only during the last haif century that science may be said to have been applied to the be said to have been applied to the manufacture of matches. One of the earliest novelties was the "instantane ous lighting box," which contained a bottle charged with sulphuric acid and fibrous asbestos. The tipped match was let into the bottle and caught fire in its contact with the acid. The revolution in match making and the origin of the match-manufacture, as a large and important industry may be said to have been applied to the as a large and important industry, may Mary Bendon, R. Myers, and others, containing be said to date from the introduction of phosphorus as an igniting agent, spplied in various ways. FUN WITH A SPIDER.

Spiders in many respects are just like other animals, and can be tamed and petted and taught a great many lessons, which they will learn as readily as a dog or cat. But you must take the trouble to study their ways, and get on the good side of them.

One day I had been reading in a book how spiders manage to get their webs across streams and roads, and from the top of one tall tree to another. I went out and caught a large garden spider, one of those blue gray sprawling fellows, and fixed him up for my experiment.

I took a stick about eighteen inches in length and fastened a piece of iron at one end of it, so that the stick would stand on that end itself. Then I put that stick in the centre of a large tub half full of water, and placed the spider on the top of the stick. I wanted to see if he could get to 'land,' which was the edge of the tub, without any help. He ran down first one side of the stick, and the other; each time he would stop when he touched the water, and shaking his toot like a cat does, he would run up again. At last he came to the conclusion that he was entirely surrounded by water--on an island in fact. After remaining perfectly quiet for a long while, during which, I have no doubt, he was arranging his plans, he began running around the top of the stick, and throwing out a great coil of web with his hind feet. In a few minutes little fine strings of web were floating away in the slight breeze that was blowing After a little, one of these threads touched the edge of the tub and stuck fast, as all spider webs will do.

This was just what Mr. Spider was looking for, and the next minute he At 2 O'CLOCK, P. M., the following real estate, took hold of his web and gave it a jerk like a sailor does with a rope

Florida Harvesting Ani ESTABLISHED FOR THIRTY-THREE YEARS. Early in December, 1877. I b a large colony of these ants from the hills, including the workers and minor and soldiers, and estail them in a jar, which I placed in study. They very soon commenwork, tunneling the earth and en a formicary as neatly as they after the pattern of their homes of barrens. The mining was done of ly by the small workers. At first1 refused all animal food, but ate gr ily fruit and sugar, and all kind se which I gave them were immedial taken below, out of sight I h visited the mounds on the barrens found abundant indications of t food supplies. At the base of , mound was a hesp of chaff and shells of various kinds of seeds. . . . . . .

On excavating a nest I found day bers of store-rooms filled with vari kinds of seeds. But, so far as 1 h observed, the seeds are not eaten a they are swollen or sprouted, when outer covering bursts of itself. Att stage the starch is being converinto sugar, and this seems to be w the ants are after. They also seen to be very fond of the yellow pol dust of the pine. The catkins of long-leaved pine (Pinus autras commenced falling in February, an noticed ants congregated on them I took those just ready to dischathe pollium and shook the dust on . mound in little heaps, which were se surrounded by ants, crowding and iling each other in their engerness obtain a share.

The colony in the glass jar see perfectly contented, not trying make their escape at all. The was originaly a little more than the inches in depth, but by the first of February these wonderful archite had reared their domicile to the help of six inches. They raised tiet up tier of chambers in so substantimanner that they fell in. One of store rooms in which they depos the seeds I gave them was at the tom of the jar, and the seed were s ed against the glass with no intering earth between; it contained ala teaspoonful of millet. Another wonderful cave has recently been discovered near Glasgow Junction, Ky. It has already been explored for a distance of twenty three miles in one direction, called the long route, and sixteen miles in another direction, called the short route. The avenues are very wide ; a span of horses can easily be driven through for a distance of eleven miles. Three rivers, wide and very deep, are encounter ed on the long route. One of them is nav igable for fourteen miles, ustil the passages become too narrow to admit a boat. This forms the third or river route, which has to be explored in a boat. The cave is wonderful beyond description, and far surpasses in grandeur the Mammoth or any cave ever before discovered. Several mummified remains have been discovered in one of the large rooms. They were reposing in stone coffins, rudely constructed, and from appearances may have been in this cave for centuries. They present every appearance of the Egyptian mummies, Great excitement prevails over this very important discovery. Mr. Edwin Mortimore, of Chestnut street, Louisville, Ky., purchased three of the mummies, and has hem now in his possession. Major George M. Proetor, of Glasgow Junction, Ky. purchased the remainder of the mummies from the owner of the cave, Thomas Kelley. The latter is, or rather was a few days ago, a very poor man, struggling to make a payment on a farm of twenty-four acres, npon which, by mere accident, the entrance to this wonderful cave was discovered. He obtained about $400 for the mummics, and is now offered $10,000 cash for the cave.

The entrance to the cave is within the town limits, and is only about two minutes' walk from the depot, which makes it very valuable indeed, as visitors will not be compelled to travel five miles in a stage coach, as they do if desirous of visiting the Mammoth Cave, which is five miles from this town. In fact all the celebrated caves of Kentucky are in this immediate vicinity. The surface is very much broken, full of great elevations and depressions, with everything to indicate that there were volcanic eruptions or violent uphcavels of the earth at some period.

The newly discovered cave has been named the Grand Crystal Cave, and is as by old and young, and people in every condition of health -Pitisburgh Dispatch. beautiful as its name implies. Ladders and bridges are being constructed, and Mr. J. R. Plunkett, a capitalist of the town, an-nonnces his intention of having a small transhort constructed exposed for the

" ants soon appreciated the condit of this store-room, and many conggated there and seemed to be enjoy ing a feast; The next day the set were all brought to the surface at deposited in a little heap on one siof the jar, where many of them gree making a pretty little green fores. which the ants cut down and destroy ed. The chamber remained empty lo two or three days, and was then again refilled with tresh millet and apple ancotton seeds. I kept a small shell, which held about a tablespoonful of water, standing in the jar for the ants to drink from. For more than a month the water was allowed to remain clear, the ants often coming to the edge to drink, but one day one was walking on the elge of the shell and carrying an apple seed when she lost her footing and rolled into the water. She floundered about for a few moments, still holding on to the seed ; at last she let it drop and crawled out. convalescence feel assured that he will fully recover. His improvement is due to a new method of treatment which is now undergoing practical test in several severe cases. His father, Charles T. Shelton of 108 West Fortysecond street, will give gratuitous information concerning the treatment which has proved so efficacious, and in which he has unbounded faith. It appears to be based on scientific principles and is more conspicuous for this than for any striking newness such as characterizes the majority of so called medical "discoveries." The only medicine given is a substance containing organic lime for healing the lungs, and citric acid in the form of lemon juice Regulation of diet is an important part of the system of treatment. The patient is required to pursue a system of exercise calculated to force the sir into every part of the lungs and restore respiration and circulation Several other cases nearly as serious as that of Willis Shelton are now under the
