+-On Wednesday afternoon, shortly after Amongst them were Mr. John D. Mr. Falmer alighted square on his feet and received no outward hurt, but the shock comunicated to his system was of course a severe one. He returned to his home the same evening. The two doctors saved themselves from injury by grasping the galery railing and clinging thereto till they id secure a firm footbold. A large number of persons had visited the jail daily throughout the week, and particularly immediately after the dinner hour, and it therefore can only be looked on in the light of a providential interposition that nobody when the mishap occurred. The iron section is "That the good die first, was on the ground-floor of the corridor tion which fell was five feetalong by three feet broad, and weighed from three hundred to four hundred pounds. Had it struck some one in its descent it would undoubtedly have instantly killed him. The grand jury entered the jail on an official visit about five intuities after the accident had occurred. It is no wonder that in their report to court they condemned the gallery as unsafe.

A NARROW ESCAPE.-A good deed well done is always sure to bring its own reward, as our old friend David Trexier, of Gallitzin township, o doubt fully appreciates by this time, for mid of be and his good wife taken upon themselves the care of a couple of orphan children they would now be mourning the loss by fire of the house that gives them shelter, if indeed their lives had been spaced to mourn such a calamiiy. The way it occurred was in this wise: A little grand daughter of Mr. Trexler, having in her sleep divested herself of the bed clothhad struck and beat the prosecutrix with a club while walking along the public road to be a Saturday morning last, whereupon she blowdsville. The defendant, who is a mariso an orphan, who was sleeping in the bed ried man about 26 years of age, it is proper to say, had no motive, so far as the evidence disclosed, for doing any injury to the prosecutrix. Case not concluded when Court adjourned, at 6 o'clock, p. m. windows, and upon further investigation found a portion of one side of the house wcapped in flames. Quickly as possible she aroused Mr. and Mrs. Trexier, who slept in a room down stairs, and just in the niche of time the fire was extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water. In less than five minutes more, is fair to presince, the flames would have from sufficiention of the two little girls, if not of trict Attorney Rose and the charge of the Court, the jury in the Prisk case retired to their private room, and, after due deliberation, returned with a verdict of not guilty.

Com'th vs. Samuel, Bender—carrying a concealed weapon, a pixtot to wit, and war, and war a theory which, if true, and we have no reason to doubt it, leads to the conviction that fire brick do not afford the protection to property of his household bevegreat reason to be thank ful to an All-wise Providence for the see ly unimportant circumstance which em from an impending enturity which in all obability would have resulted in the loss of lives as well as of property.

WENDEROTH-MALZIE - Married at St. Barcholomew's church, Wilmore, on Saturday Nov. 30, 1818. by Rev. Father McHugh, Mr. John Wendrhoff and Miss Josephine Mal-

OBITUARY.

CAIN. - Died, in Carroll township, on Thur dinner, a number of persons paid a visit to day night. Nov. 28, 1878, at 10 o'clock, Mes Et that imposing edifice known as the county jail. Amongst them were Mr. John D. Cain, aged in years, 2 months and 17 days. It is not often, at least in this neighborhood, that we are called upon to record the death of so young and beautiful a gri and one so preeminently loved and loving. Consumption, that most lingering and at the same time most flattering (to the patient) of all diseases, had years ago marked this household idolus its own, and as the disease progressed in its historia, but fatal, course the fond parents realized what would ere long be the end. But Ellen, the vistim, true to the promptings of the discuse and fuspired by a hope born of a pure and loving beart, still held bravely out, and, as remarked by her father to the writer, "she fought bravely to the last, though I do not see how she held on as long as she did." Death, however, which some of later must receive the surrender of every human life, at last gained the mastery, and the pure and stainless soul of as cherished a daughter and devoted a child as ever lived went up in thanksgiving to its Author on last Thanksgiving night. And, oh! how much will Ellen be missed. For years she scened as an angel guardian of the bauschold, causing an apparent, may a real, serenity of happiness and peace to mingle with and overshadow the life of the family, and by her loving manner and sweet disposition, controlled the bounge of every heart. And not only within the scope of the family circle, but by all her friends and acqualutances, was she idolized and loved for her kindness of heart and aminble disposition. How true it is by her father to the writer, "she fought brave

While we, whose hearts are dry as summer's dust, Burn to the socket." Fortified by all the consoling rights of religion, consided by the prayers and intercessions of her family and friends, and chastened and purified by the sufferings of her long illness, her parents may justly hope and believe that the true servant of her Divine Master, their derling child, now reposes in His bosom; and yet, knowing the Irality of human nature even in its purest form, it becomes us to pray sincerely that she may have eternal peace and rest

Mr. Moore's health began to decline in the early part of the past summer, and about three works ago his disease assumed the shape of dropsy, which terminated fatally. He was a man of very even temperament, and of a quiet, reserved disposition. Those who were most intimate has called away five members of his father's family within a few years.
