

Cambria Freeman.

EBENSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, - - - APRIL 18, 1879.

It will be remembered that the Republican Senate at Washington, previous to going out of power on the 4th of March, conveniently forgot, at the instance of course of Don Cameron, to take any action on the nomination of that veteran office-holder, ex-Governor Pollock, as Surveyor of the Port of Philadelphia.

In an interview at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on the 8th instant, between ex-Governor Hendricks, then in that city professionally engaged in an important case in Court, and a reporter of the New York World, Mr. H. declared, in reply to a question, that he would not again consent to be placed on the Democratic ticket as a candidate for the Vice Presidency.

ONLY two months ago, on the 22d of February, three men—Rousch, Scott and Crown—were sentenced by a Pittsburgh Court to imprisonment for one year in the county jail, having been convicted of fraudulently altering bulletins and counting on Joseph A. Butler, who had been elected Alderman of the Seventeenth ward at the present city election.

So LOSO as the Republicans controlled the United States Senate it was next to impossible for a Democrat from Southern State to get his seat in that body if there was the shadow of an excuse for his exclusion.

In the debate on the Pittsburgh riot bill in the House, it was contended by the opponents of the measure that to impose the payment of the damages on the State would be a clear violation of the new constitution.

Horrible story of the grave.—Some employees of the Pittsburgh, Tinsville, and Buffalo Railroad related a strange and horrible story yesterday, says the Erie Dispatch.

STATE TREASURER NOYES, a few days ago, sent to the Senate a statement showing in detail the appropriations to penal and charitable institutions, as well as the amount paid and the amount yet due.

How Dan. Magone Beat Tilden.

AN IMPORTANT AND STARTLING INCIDENT OF THE CAMPAIGN OF 1876.

The following account of how the Republicans took courage from Democratic doubts on the Presidential election night of 1876, says the Lancaster Intelligencer.

It may be that the momentous consequences resulting from a vote Republican villainy then did not flow from a Democratic chairman's timid inquiry at Republican sources, but the same thing was illustrated on a large scale.

On the night of Tuesday, the 7th of November, 1876, all the returns of the New York State were received in New York.

SMULL'S Legislative Hand-Book swindle had a safe delivrance in the House, that virtuous body having finally decided last week, by a vote of 152 yeas to 3 nays, that the bill should be paid for out of the State treasury and delivered to the members of the two Houses, which will give to each Senator forty copies, and to each Representative twenty copies.

"Everett House, New York."

On the 24th inst., in the Democratic camp, doubt there meant victory, or at least the dawn of victory, to the Times. Take the editorial of the 24th inst., the editor composing room, but leave it standing without prejudice. We may need it tomorrow.

There was buried from St. Rose (Catholic) church, yesterday morning, the body of a man who had been killed by a horse on the street of this city.

"A TALE OF BLOOD AND BRUTALITY."

A Tale of Blood and Brutality.—The Erie Dispatch, correspondent of the St. Petersburg Dispatch, publishes the following account of the outbreak among the political prisoners last month which was briefly mentioned by telegraph at the time.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.—Perhaps the most remarkable marriage recorded in this country was celebrated on Thursday in Glendonry, Miss. Julia Smith, sole survivor of the Smith sisters, famous throughout the country for her repeated refusal of Albany courts to meet taxes, which they refused to pay because they could not vote, was married to Amos G. Parker, of New Hampshire.

LAST FALL a shooting occurred in Baltimore between a young man named James and Denwood B. Hinds, charged with the seduction of the sister of James. The young woman died some time ago.

Mrs. AMANDA BISHOP, mother of Wesley W. Bishop, died at her home in Newburgh, Conn., on Wednesday. Her death is said to have been caused by the confession of her son to complicity in the notorious Cobb poisoning case.
