GRATION OF NORTH CAROLINA NE-GROES TO INDIANA.

A Washington City dispatch of the 2d inst. says At the meeting of the Senate Committee on the Exodus to-day, B. K. Morris, a real estate agent of Indianapolis, testified that Perry and Williams, the colored agents of the North Carolina emigrants, called on him last October to talk about getting transportation to Kausas, but subsequently expressed themselves in favor of settling in Indiana, and he bought tickets for them to return to Washington on business connected with the movements of their North Carolina friends They furnished the money for their own tickets, and witness did not know whether or not they got it from Col. Jordan, the United States Register in Bankruptcy, or where they got it. He had talked with Col. at some lands in Morgan County which he thought might be sold to North Carolina emigrants at $5 or $6 per acre. Senator Voorhees-You thought it would relieve the condition of those colored emigrants to put them on some of those lime-

one knobs and ridges? Witness-Yes, and I wanted to sell the land. [Laughter.] Thomas Wells, of Indianapolis the partner of the last witness and also a Republican, was next examined. He testified that he remarked to "the boys," when the North Carolina colored people first began to arrive at Indianapolis, "We want 20,000 'bucks'

The witness replied that he thought they ere to a great extent concurred in by indi vidual members of the party; but he did not know of any party organization or party effort to draw negroes to Indiana. He be-lieved the relored people had not a fair bance to vote, or, at least, were likely to be "counted out" in North Carolina, and it was only right to give them a change in Indiwns

THE "Monroe doctrine," which was originally asserted in this country in 1823 by the President whose name it bears, and which is now the subject of a good deal of newspaper discussion growing out of the fact that M. De Lesseps, a French engineer, has commenced the isthmus of Panama, is referred to by the Philadelphia Record as follows:

The "Monroe doctrine," as originally promulgated by the fifth President of the United States, was one of the most generally applanded outgivings of that able and honorable, though not brilliant, statesman.
