WONDERFUL STORIES .--- "Uncle" Dave Trexier, of Galiltzin township, never-well, hardly ever-comes to Ebensburg without being loaded up to the muzzle with one or more stories which nothing short of his wellknown veracity would induce anybody to believe. True to his record, he appeared in our office on Tuesday morning last, and in reply to the usual query about the news in his neighborhood, staggered us with a few wonderful yarns, not all of which are strictly in season, but all of which will none the less bear telling; and as they are vouched for by every one of them, if need be, there need be no hesitation about accepting them as liter-

The first of these stories relates to three turkey hens in White township, although Mr. Trexler opened up with only one, which be assured us had been laying eggs all win-ter. Doubtsbeing expressed by a gentleman present in regard to this wonderful news from Turkey, Mr. Trexler stood not upon the order of his going but went at once and hunted up two reputable citizens of said township, who were in attendance at Court, and who soon after returned with him to our office, and not only verified his statement, but assured us that instead of one turkey they had personal knowledge of the fact that not less than three turkeys owned by Mr. Mathias Kessler, of White township, have at no time failed, not even for a single day, during the last two months and a half to "shell out" three eggs—one for each turkey —every twenty-four hours. More than that, one of the witnesses called bore testimony to still another fact, and that was that a number of geese owned by a certain citizen of White township, whose name has escaped us, commenced laying on or about the holidays, but whether or not they have kept it up ever since he was not prepared to say. This of course left no loophole for our "doubting Thomas," whose name is not Thomas at all, to crawl out at, and the only eggs-plauation he had to make was that this is an eggs-ceptional kind of a winter and that such eggs-traordin ary proceedings on part of the turkeys and geese aforesaid might in that way be eggsplained, although it would be eggs acting en-tirely too much to eggs-pect any one to be-lieve that such a thing was possible during a regular old-fashioned winter in this region. So much for so much ; and now let us re-vert to a couple more of Mr. Trexler's won-derful stories, which, as already stated, are somewhat out of season, but none the less worthy of credence on that account. The first of these relates to a remarkable yield of corn which rewarded Mr. T.'s labors during the past summer, the story being that on a portion of his farm, and not a very small porm of it either, the cornstalks averaged fourteen feet in height, the ears fourteen inches in length, and the leaves or blades on the stalks eight inches in width. That's corns-talk enough, we should say before we leave the subject, for all who are willing to give ear to the statement, as most of our readers, we have no doubt, will be disposed to do. The next story from the same source, und the last one we shall impose upon a patient public at this time, is in regard to a re-markable yield of oats which Mr. T. gives the figures to verify and claims to be able to luce witnesses to substantiate. He says that last spring, Messrs. John and James Gallagher, of Gallitzin township, sowed seven bushels of oats on a farm owned by their mother in Allegheny township, the ground covered being not more than three acres, and when threshing time came he (Mr. Trexier) threshed the outs as it came from the field, and is willing to be qualified that there were two humired and five bushels of clean oats, wise, as the spirit moves them. .....

DOINGS IN COURT THIS WEEK .- The March term of our county court opened at 11 o'clock on Monday forenoon of the present week, and continued in session until 2 o'clock, P. M., on Wednesday, Judge Dean presiding and Associates Thomas and Flanagan on the bench. The first business in order was the calling of the names of the Grand Jurors, all of whom answered to their names, two of the number, Messrs. Jas. A. Gray and A. J. Haws, being subsequently, however, Jexcused from serving. Then fol-lowed the list of Traverse Jurors, five of when, to wit: Messrs. John Freidhoff, Levi Wingard, Samuel Kuhn, David Creed and James Tittle, were allowed to depart hence the same day, the renson assigned by each of them for seeking the privilege being esteem-ed good and sufficient by the Court.

After this the various constables of the county made their returns and the several conservators of the peace chosen at the last election presented their bonds and were sworn in, each to serve a term of one year from the first of April next.

These and other preliminaries, such as the reading of the list of attorneys in order to afford an opportunity for the presenting of motions, petitions, etc. Court adjourned until a cider is a until 2 o'clock, P. M. MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Upon reassembling at the hour indicated, District Attorney Rose moved for nolle prose-quis in such of the following cases as are not marked continued :

Contth vs. Thomas Kennedy. The defendent was charged with the largeny of a carpet-bag con-taining clothing from a man named Mirreus Hatnes, a passenger on the P. R. R. This case was tried at the last term of Court, but the jury falled to agree. The evidence developed in the present trial was the same as at the former oue. Marcus Haines was seen to alight from the Way Passenger train at Johnstown on the 10th of Sep-tember bast. In an intoxicated condition and hav-ing with him an old carpet-bag. The defendant, an employe at the steel works, at this juncture appeared upon the scene, and while engaged in tailking to and drinking with Haines from a bottle, which the latter had with him, the train left. A dispatch came soon afterwards to the depot master from the conductor of the train requesting that Haines, whose ticket was held by the conductor of this way, and was put in the lock on point he be-came sober, when it was discovered limith's carpet bay wanded by the next train. A scarch being made for Huines, he was found too drunk to proceed on his way, and was put in the lock op and he be-came sober, when it was discovered limith's carpet bag was missing. He was sent west, however, and having been heard from since. The defendant having been heard from since. The defendant having been seen should the alloons with the car-pet bay in his postension, was supercod of having stolen it, and search being mode at his house the missing froperty was found in a barrel in an est-house. The testimony in this case show-ed that detendant, who is superintendent of the Comemaugh and Somerset Turnpike Co., placed nome finely broken stones upon a had place of rand on Morris street. Johnstown, contrary to a certain ordinance forhiading the pheing of stones, etc., aron any of the streets or alloys of said borough without permission from the authorities. In de-fease, it was chained that the portion of the street repaired by Hochstein was a part of the turnpike, which was in existence before that bendity had been embraced within the borough iruits, and that the turnpike had merer been atlenated from the company. The object of this prosecution was to rest the respective chains of the borough and of the truppike company to said street. The Court held that the control of Quarter Socious was not the proper place to try the title to the street, and in this class, where, instead of showing that the de-lendent had committed a noissing that the do-lendent had committed a noissing that the do-~ that he endeavored to remove a musance it was shown that he endeavored to remove a musance-namely.
