... LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Wilmore, April 13, 1880.

Draw Freeman.—In compliance with promise, I send you a few items for your columns:

On Thursday last a little girl, seed ten years, daughter of Mr. Sylvester Crum, of Portagu township, was instally burned by her clothes igniting from a fire in the vard, where her mother was 60-gaged in washing. Mrs. C., it is said, chanced to be in the house at the time the accident happened, but was attracted to the scene by the cries of the little victim, who instead of hastening to the house, ran in an opposite direction towards a little rivuled, where the terrified mother overlook her and, after a great deal of effort, succeeded in extinguishing the flames by dashing water upon them; but not, however, until the child's clothes had been burned from her back, and the flosh underneath so badily, seared that despite the medical skill of Dr. Blaifeld, who was summoned to attend her, she died Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Crum have the sympathy of the entire community, in their great affliction. They are honest, industrious people, and stand high in the estimation of all who know them. Interment in the United Brethren cometery, this place, on Monday.

The remains of the boy, McCune, or McKeone, who was killed at South Fork, on Saturday last, were interred in the Catholic cemetery at this place on Monday. His death was a rad one. His parents had but recently located at South Fork his tather being a miner and employed in the coal works there. About noon on the day mentioned the boy amother senthin on an errand to the "coal tipple" of a bank operated by Mr. Jacob Stineman, and just as local freight east was shifting cars on the siding he attempted to cross the track under the trucks of line cars, which were then standing still, but were suddenly put in metion before the unfortunate lad had time to got from under them. The rosult was that he was caught under the wheels and his bend severed from his body, to the horror of this train men and all others present none of whom saw him in time to prevent the acciden WILMORE, April 13, 1880.

AN ÆROLITE ON THE RAMPAGE - Our dental (not accidental) friend Dr. Creery had the pleasure of witnessing a rare sight the other night, which he thus describes for the edification of our readers:

On Thursday night last, between 10 and 11 o'clock, we that is, myself shed one of my daughters discovered a light near Lloyd's grove, apparently moving in the direction of Mr. Barker's form house, on the hill south of town. It appeared very bright at Brist, but was presently hidden from view by intervening buildings. We next saw it near the stone pike, which it seemed to follow, or at least went in the same direction, until it reached a point near theirestidence of Mr. Rees S. Lloyd, when it became still brighter, and suddonly rising to the height of two or three hundred feet above the horizon, shot off in the direction of Beulah. This course it continued for about eight nimites, when it again sank behind the timber, even the small branches of the trees being plainly visible as it made its descent in the rear of them. For a few minutes preceding its final disappearance we had the pleasure of viewing it through a field glass. While at his brightest we could compare its appearance to nothing loss brilliant than the headilght of a locomotive. Several nectors were alterwards seen by us going in the same direction the edification of our readers : afterwards seen by us going in the same direction as that taken by the "what was it" when it made

As Srmno comes on apace, The birds join in the lay, While all the other living race Swell the anthoms of the day; How beautiful the months of Spring With the balmy breeze that swells All nature in its beauty sings. To the fragrant summer belis.

And as Spring comes on apace, cometh also a desire to rig ourself out in rainment sultable to the sesson. You want to know where to go and buy a new sult. Our advice is to paironize Godfrey Wolff, next door to the postolice, Altoons, He has a large stock of Rochester clothing, newly made; it is of superior texture, with each narmont warranted, and when you buy from him you will not only be supplied with the very best wearing apparel, but will be accorded the very lowest prices. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

A vain young bride and her bushand new, Taking their bridge trip.—
Site with a smile on her face, and he With a shadow or down on his lip.
They sit at the banquet board and laugh, Each striving the other to please;
She, blushing, as from her full the words;
"Old tellow, pass the cheese,"

"Old reliow, pass the cheese,"

He ought to try to please her by going to Simon & Bendheim's, next door to the First National Bank, Altoons, and buying one of the stylish suits of rendy-made clothing exposed for sale there. This stock is fresh from the tailor, cut after approved lashions, and cannot fail to approve likely to the favorable consideration of all who see it. Then the bride wouldn't say "Pass the choses!" but if anybody three a slur on the nature of her bushand's arguest she rends instructive inscending husband's apparel, she would naturally ejaculate. "Charge It?"

The monkey climbed towards the raging sky And (wisted his tall round a lofty limb, While the food heneath went thurdering by, For he was a monkey that couldn't swin. But the man was caught in the torsetts mad. And his dying speech in these words ran.
If I had a tall, as my forefathers had,
I'd he a live monkey and not a drowned man." The principle involved in the theory of evolution is of too abstrace a character to be dwell on just here at any longth. But If anybody wants to know where to go to buy boots and shoes, our answer is ready. Go to S. Blumenthal's, 7119 Eleventh arence, Alteona, who sells the very best articles at the very lowest prices. His new stock, just shelved, cannot hall to give satisfaction to men and women, boys and girls, as well as children of yet leader growth.
