BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

And Still Another Big Boom! THIS TIME, HOWEVER, THE BOOM INCLINES DOWNWARD INSTEAD OF UPWARD! Special LOW PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES!

Now we are talking about it, we have the goods and must get rid of them, even though we should lose money in the operation. That means that we have an overstock of Ladies' Fine Shoes and Gaiters, Men's Heavy Shoes, AND MISSES, YOUTHS, CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' SHOES, all styles, sizes and qualities, and that we must close out the entire assortment before our new stock arrives, which will be about the 1st of September. Hence we have determined for the NEXT FOUR DAYS to offer Shoes at Greatly Reduced Prices!

One price now acknowledged to be much lower than anywhere else, so that the special prices we offer to buyers at this time affords everybody a chance to get BETTER BARGAINS IN SHOES than ever dreamed of in their philosophy. It will pay you, then, to buy your shoes now, even if you do not wear them for the next six months, as it is a fact of which all should be aware that boots and shoes will be higher next winter than they are now; therefore our loss will be your gain. The only purpose we have in reducing prices beyond all precedent is to MAKE ROOM FOR OUR NEW STOCK, which has already been ordered. So if you are open for a bargain now is the time and our store the place to get more and better goods for your money than will probably ever again have a chance to enjoy. We also have some bargains in DRY GOODS, REMNANTS OF CALICO, SHORT PIECES OF DRESS GOODS, &c., &c., which we must and will sell regardless of what they cost us. In addition to all these extraordinary bargains and many more in other departments, we have the largest, most select and certainly the finest and best assortment of Ready-Made Clothing!

In Ebensburg, and are prepared at all times to furnish either full or partial suits of wearing apparel for men or boys at lower prices than goods of like quality can be purchased at any other establishment. More than that, we have special bargains in seasonable clothing just now for everybody who wants to dress well at a very small outlay.

CALL AND EXAMINE OUR GOODS AND LEARN OUR PRICES! AND YOU WILL FIND THAT WE MEAN EXACTLY WHAT WE SAY.

THE JEFFERSONIAN PLAN.

I like Jefferson's way of inauguration. It suits our system. He rode along on horseback to the Capitol - I fear it is the "old Capitol" - and took his horse to a rail fence, entered and was duly sworn, then rode to the Executive Mansion and took possession. - Gen. Hancock.

I like the man whose modest mind seeks out the plain and true, Who some exalted lives to find, The surest guides, do you?

I like his scorn of pomp and show, Of noisy cry and loud, That men of lesser worth may throw Around their lives, do you?

I like the man who keeps through all His triumphs, great or low, A kindly care for those who fall - A helping hand, do you?

I like his jealous watch and ward Of rights to others due, His constant care to hold and guard His country's faith, do you?

I like the man who will not draw His sword, however true, Except to vindicate the law; Not to save you?

I like his gallant deeds to see, His triumphs to review, To see him leading on the van To victory, do you?

I like the man who only cares For those who have the least, And hope that honor swears May crown his life, do you?

I like the Jeffersonian plan, And pray that Hancock true, Our country's President, 'till the man To make it wish, do you?

- N. Y. Sun. K. S.

WHO WAS THE BOY?

THE HEROIC DEED OF A STATESMAN AND A DIPLOMAT.

HAIR IS A NIGHT.

These words were spoken by a dark-faceted and full-bearded man in his companion, a swarthy fellow whose every look betokened the fierce nature within, as the two ascended from the cabin of the Mary Ann of Bitter Creek, and stopped quietly on the quarter deck. The older of the two took a few turns of the somewhat confined space between the bimini and a partly used clew of tobacco which the second man had left on the port rail, and then went below to consult his charts.

The situation was indeed a critical one for the beautiful vessel, which rested like a swan on the heaving surface of the Miami Canal. For three hours she had been beaten by a heavy wind, freighted with a cargo of gold-embroidered pumpkins, it was important that there should be no delay in reaching the port to which they were consigned. Hence the skipper's anxiety was but natural. The black clouds that were scurrying across the southern sky told too plainly that a storm was brewing and was to be feared. The vessel was unprepared. The Captain knew that in the present situation of his statey ship a wreck was inevitable should the storm strike her. It was an anxious moment, but his cheek never blanched. It could not, unless washed, and the crew were too familiar to be alarmed by the captain's voice.

In 1884 I was appointed to an embassy to Nepal, a very striking country, governed by a powerful, warlike race. The first minister or vizier of the country met us, as is their fashion, outside the capital, and we had a courteous and gratifying reception. He was a tall, handsome man, with a flowing black beard, and conversed with us in Persian, which I spoke fluently. After our interview, one of the attendants informed me that the vizier wished to see me alone, and he accordingly conducted me to an inner apartment. Ordering the attendants to withdraw, the vizier exclaimed in tones only too familiar to me: -

"Well, Hastings, my boy, how goes on the Pimper's?"

It was Jerry Donnelly, by all that was malicious! I had observed him staring narrowly at me during the interview, and some of his eyes, that I knew him, would be familiar to me, but his flowing beard, solemn manner, and oriental dress so much disguised him, that even when I heard the well remembered voice I could scarcely realize his identity.

"But what on earth are you doing here, Jerry?" said I; "why don't you go home to your wife and children?"

"My wife - what's that the whole affair. You see, she's somebody else's wife. I am better out of the way; it would be a pity that Sophy would commit bigamy."

"I assure you that you are entirely mistaken, Mrs. Donnelly has not married again."

"Have you?" said I. "Don't I know better? Didn't I go back to my own bungalow and find out that she had married that starchy fool, Courtney, when she knew I could never endure him?"

To his intense astonishment, I told him how the truth was, and in return he told me how he had come to be married to Sophy, a widow of a Tartar, and that he returned for three years, when he was allowed to accompany a caravan or body of pilgrims to Nepal. Being by that time a proficient in the language, he was taken notice of at court, but very strictly watched. He effected his escape, however, disguised as a fakir, and made his way to Calcutta, but finding as he thought, his wife married again to a man in his old regiment, he had returned, was taken into favor, and had risen to his present distinction.

"Well, I always was a blundering fool, but even home with a heart so soft to Sophy, and knowing that I never would vex her any more with my vagaries, that when I heard her called Mrs. Courtney I was turned to stone and did not care a rap what became of me, even to being made a vizier, which I assure you, Charley, is no joke."

"Well, at all events, you must go home now and see to it that you don't get married again. I am not sure that that," said he, "is not a ridiculous idea. She has grown accustomed to be mistress, I have grown accustomed to be vizier. She won't like to be contradicted, and it's a thing I can't bear and what I never allow on any account. Now, if I went home, she would be as good as dead."

"The next morning he sent for me again. -

"I have been thinking," said he, "of the strange story you told me, and am all changed since we parted. I hardly know myself to be the same man I used to be, and am not sure that I don't wish to see her again. But ask her to come out here, and then she can try. If she likes me in this outlandish place I will go home with her; if you quarrel here no one will be the wiser, and I can continue to be dead."

"But," said I, "have you no incumbrance? Perhaps she might object to the details of your establishment?"

"Not a bit," said Jerry; "I have none of your eastern prejudices; let her come and she will find no one to disturb her."

So she did come, and after living in Nepal two years, took Jerry back in triumph to Brantley Hall; and such is the true version of a tale which made some noise in the newspapers a few years ago.

FROM JET BLACK TO SNOW WHITE.

THE TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE WHICH CHANGED THE COLOR OF A MAN'S HAIR IS A NIGHT.

Mr. Slocum, of Slocumville, yesterday attracted the attention of a Gazette man. Mr. Slocum seemed to be a gentleman. He was a young man and only one thing distinguished him in any special manner from numerous other young men on the street. His hair was white as the driven snow. Vivacious and intelligent in appearance, the contrast between his youthful looks and snowy locks was startling. Feeling that some story of a terrible strain on Mr. Slocum's nervous system was partially revealed in this manner, the Gazette man inquired the cause of change of color in his hair. A strange expression flitted across his features at the question, as if no very pleasant recollection were awakened, but forcing a smile he said: -

"A terrible experience caused my hair to change its color, and I cannot yet speak of it without shuddering. However I have no objection to relating the circumstances."

"What was the original color of your hair, Mr. Slocum?"

"Jet black. I will give you my experience. I have been a revenue collector for several years. Eight years ago, in the summer of 1872, I was obliged to take a trip through Western Arkansas. There were rough characters all about. Men who would steal sheep off your horses' feet, when they could get nothing else out of them, and who were steeped in crime and hesitated at nothing. In the course of my trip I reached a district in which were several characters who for doing deeds of crime had attracted the attention of the whole State, but the authorities were unable to apprehend them. I had a large sum of money with me. I feared nothing in those days. After being one morning in a small village near Little River, and receiving $150, I started out on horseback north towards Fort Smith. I had about $80,700 in my saddle-bags and was a little nervous to get to such a place. I had seen nothing to make me nervous, but I was not long in being seized by a gang of rascals. The sun shone brightly and the heat was somewhat oppressive. As it grew later in the day it became so warm that I thought I should rest. Coming to the banks of Little River I forded it and clambered up the steep north-west bank of the river. I had my horse tied to a stump of tree and was sitting on the full side of an elm that grew near the river bank. I had carried my saddle-bags with me, and making a pillow of them, lay down with my head on the pillow. I felt asleep, and do not know how long I slept, but suddenly awoke to find three men standing near me. Regardless of my presence they seized one of my revolvers and pegged away, hitting one of them in the shoulder and disabling him. The other two grabbed me. One of them made a pass at me with a knife, but I dodged it and hit him in the head with my pistol, knocking him senseless. The other man, with my saddle-bags and rode a struggle. Bitting, scuffling and kicking, I tried in vain to throw each other down. I had dropped my pistol. My horse whinnied from fright, and it began to grow dark. My only day I will not forget that night. It was a dark night, and I had no light with me. I was in a great predicament. I had recognized in my assailant Bill Hibbard, a notorious character. Desperately we fought, edging nearer the river. The bank crumbled suddenly behind me, and I tumbled over backward, dragging Hibbard with me. His head hit a root in the fall, and he was stunned for a moment. Scrambling as well as I could to my feet, I got my saddle-bags and rode away, the disabled rascal shaking his fist at me as I went. I ran across a dark bay before it got dark, and remained all night, expecting an attack, but resolving to sell my life as dearly as possible. None came. In the morning the drabky woman living in the cabin arose, and I went out to see what she had to say. And sure enough it was, and has been ever since. The shock to my nervous system had been more than I imagined. I never heard of the men afterwards, and was more than glad that I escaped as neatly as I did. - Little Rock Gazette.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15, 1880.

To the Editor of the Cambria Freeman:

Washington City is to the majority of people who visit it, a very novel place. The politician and the editor generally run in the groove, from depot to hotel and back, and from the capital to the hotel or to some of the numerous parks and walks, and they are the little of the city or its inhabitants. It is a very beautiful city, and an ideal of the public mind, but it is such a place for the Democrats, that it has been very expensively.

The summer season shows Washington in its gayest colors to the ordinary eye. Everybody seems to live out of doors. They are along the city of a summer resort, where they seem lined with people dressed in white and light clothes, seated in chairs on the green plots, and the bright sun reflects the very picture of well-fed content.

The Golden wooden pavements have been nearly all removed, and replaced with the kind of black cement pavement that is so smooth as a planed board. You cannot find the wheels of any carriage, and the number of carriages to be seen on any street you will imagine are with the great numbers of carriages to be seen. There will be plenty of horses and carriages, and horses for sale here about the 15th of November.

Washington City is not, as supposed by many, a very expensive place. It does not have a good market, cheap meat, cheap fish, and low rents. A large number of houses have been built, and they have been during the past five years, the opening of streets and throwing into the market a large amount of cheap land, which has compelled these improvements. You can rent a three story pressed-brick house, with all the modern conveniences, for $10.00 a month. It is very much cheaper than in most places. The same kind of a house in Philadelphia would cost $15.00 a month.

THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

They have some more contemplated work on the Washington monument, and any one who wishes to commemorate any organization with words and deeds, may wish to be forward at once his memorial stone, as they are now building into the walls all the letters on buildings. They have some of the old country, nor one that has any reference to that wonderful discovery, which has been developed in the last few years. The monument the last time. The various of the changes ought to send forward their tablets, and especially the historical tablets, and the western oil field, will look into this the next time he comes to Washington he can get it in shape.

BEFORE BOSS SHEPHERD. BOSS SHEPHERD had been to Washington, and he got up a big success in cutting of the Washington monument. He went from north to south, and at high water flooding everything about the Baltimore and Potomac. He was a big man, and he was from west to east, emptying into the each river, and he was a big man, and he was from west to east, emptying into the each river, and he was a big man, and he was from west to east, emptying into the each river, and he was a big man, and he was from west to east, emptying into the each river, and he was a big man, and he was from west to east, emptying into the each river,
