> The procession was composed almost entirely of little boys, who, with pumpkins scooped out and lighted candles stuck therein, marched through town preceded by the American flag and some of the worst music we have ever listened to. There were also in the procession a number of transparencies, gotten up for the occasion as well as a burlesque banner in imitation of the handsome one pur-chased by Prothonotary O'Donnell and to be presented to the Democratic district in the county which gives the largest increased vote at the coming election. After filing through several of the principal streets, the big crowd of boys and girls and the small crowd of Republican voters massed on the Diamond, where a bonfire was lighted and brief speeches made by A. V. Barker, Alvin Evans, Chaplain Davis and T. W. Dick. The Chapain, it is proper to say, mounted the rostrum on his own responsibility, and notwithstand-ing the effort made by the band and the boys to drown his voice he kept at it until all the adjectives in his vocabulary had been fired off, when he got down and Mr. Dick got up, greatly to the relief of the few Republican voters present. . ... STILL UP AND AT IT.-Mr. James W. Daily, of Allegheny township, called in on Mon-day and assured us that he is still canvassing for a very fine selection of Catholic books, to wit: Goffin's "Explanations of the Epistles and Gospels;" the "Faith of our Fathers," by Bishop Gibbons, and also fine selections of Catholic prayer books, for all which he takes orders and delivers at publishers' retail prices. He is, however, making a specialty of a superb Family Bible, a quarto edition bound in heavy French morocco, beautifully pannelled, with two clasps, full gilt, and containing more than one hundred and seventy-five-scriptural engravings. We would recommend all persons wishing to buy Catholic books to consult Mr. Daily, as he is dealing direct with two large Catholic publishing Houses and is prepared to sell at fairer prices than any other agent in the business.

FORGITE AL. I

CHERRYTERE, Indiana Co., Sapt. 26, 1889.

Dear Freeman.—I left Cherrytree on last Tuesday morning, Sept. 14th, having been subposited by the Commonwealth to attend Court and testify in the case of Com'th's. Stiffler, Long and Suffler. Arriving at Indiana at 20 clock, P. M., I proceeded direct to the Court House, expecting to hear the Allison murder trial, but found that it had been put off until the December term, on account of popular opinion being so strong against the prisoner. The "Cherrytree steal," at it was then diabled, though not one of the parties implicated resides within a mile of the limits of our borough, being deferred from day to day, I had ample time and opportunity to take in the political excitement attendant upon the varying accounts received from Maine. On Tuesday evening the Democrats and Greenbackers were exultant over the "from two to three thousand majority" conceeded to the fusionist candidate for Governor by Blaine and other Republican leaders, and guns were fired and torchight processions, music, etc., were the order of the evening, culminating in a grand mass meeting in the Court House which was addressed by Hon. James Mosgrove, the fusion candidate for Congress, and by others. That evening a stranger could have picked out a Republican, who might have overstepped the bounds of Republican propriety so far as to listen to a Democratic speech simply by his disappointed and wee-begone countenance, such was the startling effect of the then acknowledged fusion ticket in Maine. And on Wednesday up till 4 o'clock, 2. M., Republicans hung their heads, whits Democrat, nodding to their Republican grains, and Davis eight hundred shead. What? see? A Republican rises to the street, sung out: "How is Maine?" But "there is a tide in the affairs of men," and Mr. Blaine saw fit to stop the debilitating effects of each new by despatching that later returns coming in show large Republican grains, and Davis eight hundred shead. What? see? A Republican meeting in she Court House, addressed by their paid LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE. CHERRYTEKE, Indiana Co., Sapt. 20, 1880.

the best system that the world ever knew. Can Mason explain the change. It certainly is not in the banking system.

After Mr. Mason had indulged in a great many such inconsistencies, during which he referred several times to a book or lot of papers held in his hand, and of which at regular intervals he turned a leaf not only demonstrating to the audience a retentive memory worthy of a twelve-year-old school-boy, but a solied and much need book, for which he deserved punishment. Mr. Grow took the stand and treated us to one of the outstyle bloody shirt harangues, and not being blessed with a talent for committing his piece to memory, and having lest some of his documents, he could not tell within three hundred million dollars the amount of our exports for the year 1870, but after blundering over it in some way he made the desired point and passed on, seemingly conscious of his ability to make out the treasurer's report for any number of years from memory alone.

But taking all things together—the presence of the normal school, their beautiful rendoring of "John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave," etc., and also the Hairsville club and brass band, with its soul-cheering music, as well as the absence of many other reasurer, as well as the absence of many other reasurer. with its soul-cheering music, as well as the ab-sence of many other speakers like the ones above named—it might be considered a success; and if they failed to make any Republican votes i rejoice to know that at least they made one Democratic votes.

to know that at least they made one Democratic voter.

Voters, like lovers, need opposition, abuse, etc., to make them stick, and my best wish for the success of the justin ticket here is that Mason and Grow may stump this district from Dan to Bersheba, as all we need is to come up to our past record and White will lay stiff and cold after election day, when we will leave him to his own for burial. The news from Maine continued to vary up to 2 o'clock, r. m., Friday, the democrats conceding the manipulation of later returns to the Republicans, so as to at least give Davis a plurality, when it will be thrown into the House, which, being Republican, will elect him. brother Henry*going good for him. John, it will be tremembered by our readers, is one of the parties implicated in the Allegheny township burglary case.

The following sentences were pronounced, immediately after the assembling of Court Friday afternoon, on parties adjudged guilty the week preceding:

Channeey Myers, larceny, Stoo fine and costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary, or two years as the full term.
John Melfale, assault and battery and male leious mischief, three months in the county jail.

Edward Gordon, larceny, three months in the county jail, with $5 fine and costs attached and large in the Langham box, who was so terribly from the same dread disease.

The little Langham boy, who was so terribly crushed by a failing tree a few weeks ago, is getting better and will probably recover.
