WEEKLY POST
For the Year 1881.

THE HOLIDAYS

JOHN WANAMAKER'S,

THIRTEENTH, MARKET AND CHESTNUT STREETS, AND CITY-HALL SQUARE, PHILADELPHIA.

I have found out a gift for my fair.

Children First—Dolls from one cent to twenty dollars; and everything that a child could desire. Toys, dolls, and games, all the latest and most popular. Toys, dolls, and games, all the latest and most popular.

Down quilts, $4.00 to $12. Samples of the finest to show. Blankets, $9 to $25.

Paris and Vienna goods. This season has come to our store a large quantity of the latest and most popular goods from Paris and Vienna.

Handkerchiefs, silk, linen and lace. If you wish to see what is within the limits of human ingenuity you should see our handkerchiefs.

Embroideries. Next spring's novelties are already here. They usually come at New Year's. So far as styles are concerned you may select now with perfect safety.

Girls' dresses and coats. If the girls' things are brighter than the boys' we like like; in our case they are all bright as can be seen.

There are leather gloves, too, thicker and more substantial; and silk and cotton gloves, too.

Underwear and hosiery. At this season is a wide range of choice, almost as wide as the whole world affords. We have the richest goods and the cheapest. There is a class of goods made only to sell, and good for all.

Shirts. The finest dress shirt made to measure only, $2.25; the grade under $1.00. Ready-made dress shirts for $1.25 and under. Boys' shirts, $0.65 and $0.90 only.

Handkerchiefs—silk, linen, embroidered, lace. Our variety of each kind is larger than we can easily convey a notion of. Buying in quantities we do not sell at retail prices.

Two or three perfumes. Mary Stuart, for our certain; Will O'Wisp, almost as certain; White Rose—don't compare White Rose with any other perfume.

The point-to-write letters. One of the daintiest of gifts is a writing paper, if it is exactly suited to the receiver. For one it may be a very rich paper with very little paper, illuminated with address or initials, or monogram; for another it may be two or three quarter-reams, with envelopes, of course. And this leads to portfolios and writing-desks; and they may easily lead to extra-va.

A dress-pattern is a never-failing resource; it never conflicts with anything else; but the lady ought to choose it, or, at least, some one familiar with her wardrobe.

Silks, next outer circle, east of the Chestnut street entrance.

A cloak or shawl. We have imported not only rich cloaks, but very plain ones, thousands of them. Your price is your limit. We shall tempt you at every price you can name, from $10 to $250. Of awnings you have choice almost as free.

Writing-paper and facilities. We have, by far, the largest stationery trade in Philadelphia. We have the finest and plainest of everything. Paperies, pens, and all the accessories, we have a fine stock of, especially rich boxes.

Gentlemen's furnishings. A comprehensive stock. Notice watch-chains of French-rolled plate, 26 patterns.

Black dress-goods. The most varied and richest stock in Philadelphia.

Ewning silks. A few specimens are in the arcade. Many more are within.

Colored dress-goods. Our stock fills nine counters; no other in the city approaches it in magnitude, variety or value. Here are a few items of very low cost:

German silks	10-15
Cashmere, all colors	12-14
Woolens, all colors	10-12
Cloth suitings	10-12
Great variety of fabrics	10-12
Woolens, all colors	10-12
Flannel suitings	10-12
Flannel cheddars	10-12
French camel's hair	10-12

JOHN WANAMAKER
But there is no stopping place. In the richer goods especially the variety is very great.

THIRTEENTH AND MARKET STREETS, AND CITY-HALL SQUARE.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

"A little child that had been..."

"What a good boy, and a Christian one!"

"We shall not see this winter more, though for his Father's house."

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

With snow in piles, white and bright...

"And now, my little one, look at the stars..."

"The stars are shining brightly..."

A CHRISTMAS TABLEAU VIVANT.

"I was in the city of Jerusalem..."

"The king was in the city of Jerusalem..."

"The king was in the city of Jerusalem..."

OUR CHRISTMAS BEAR STORY.

It was a Christmas Eve, and Uncle Bob was sitting in his armchair, looking at the fire. He was thinking of the old days, and how much he had seen and done.

"Uncle Bob had a bear when he was a boy, and he was very fond of it. The bear was a very good bear, and it was very smart. Uncle Bob was very fond of it, and he was very fond of it."

THE HAPPY CHRISTMAS REUNION.

Christmas is a day of joy and gladness, a day when we gather around our loved ones and celebrate the birth of our Lord and Saviour.

"The happy Christmas reunion was a most delightful affair. It was a day of joy and gladness, a day when we gathered around our loved ones and celebrated the birth of our Lord and Saviour."
