THREE RAILROAD STORIES.

A CAT-RIGGED SAIL CAR-A STAMPEDE-A WILD PRAIRIE LOCOMOTIVE.

R. R. Randall, of Lincoln, Neb., was in Toledo a few days since, and related an incident of his first experience in railroading in Blinois. This was in 1845, and Mr. Randall. was then a boy. The Springfield & Meredocia Railroad, at present forming the oldest link in the great Wabash system, and just

One bright Sabbath morning, while all good little boys were at Sunday school, Mr. Randall, with four other urchins, going out on an exploring expedition in search of fresh mischief, found a flat-car standing on a side track. The beys, after many experiments, hit upon a plan to propel the car. A strong breeze was sweeping across the prairies .-They obtained a piece of scautling and a wind rose, the sail filled, and the car moved down the track. By the time it reached the main track a good speed had been obtained, and the boys, enjoying their first trip upon the railroad, were in high giee. The car swept on down the main track, gaining speed every moment. Houses, corn-fields, gardens, and erchards were passed in quick succession but the car sped on, its velocity never slackening. The boys were becoming uneasy. They were getting too much of a good thing. They tried to lower the sail, but in that they failed, with the car in such rapid motion. They could not even stand upon their feet. An engine whistle attracted the preaching them at full speed was a train .-The boys all jumped from the car into the soft mad. As they scrambled out of the mud and dived into the adjoining corn-field, Mr. Randall says he remembers the impression of a shock, and something going up into the air behind him. Fortunately no one on the For the benefit of that venturesome class train was hurt, but the collision made a great
