A NEW CHAPTER is to be written in the romance of modern science. We have progressed so far and so rapidly beyond the limits reached by the last generations, and so far beyond the dreams of ancient faney, that the heights reached are well calculated to make one dizzy looking forward or backward. The steam engine and electric telegraph were the marvels of a generation before this, and the spectroscope, telephone, photophone, electric light and dawning application of electric agencies to mo-tive power, are the wonders of a later age. Now comes the claim of Prof. Tyndali, to have invented a new apparatus, by means of which beams of light falling through the slots of a revolving disc upon a flask filled with gas or vapor, in a series of alternate flashes, will produce strange musical sounds inside the flask, the pitch of the tones corresponding "exactly with the speed with which the disc is made to turn, and each kind of gas, cr vapor, in the flask will give a different kind of a note, some soft, some loud, and some very sweet and musical." By means of this remarkable apparatus it is even hinted that we may yet be able to hear the sounds of fires raging in the sun, and yet more wonderful and unthought of relationship between light and sound may be utilized as a medium of communication. - Lancaster Intelli-

Kendall's SPAVIN Cure

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 18th, 1880. Dr. B. J. KENDALL & Co .- Gents: I have a very ne mare that had a bone spavin for a long time. Tried everything man could devise to care it, but L'iried everything man could devise to care it, but all in vain, and was about to give it up when a friend of mine in this city came to me and recommended "Kendall's Spavin Cure," which I tried with grand results, removing the bone clear and clean. I then sent 25 cents to you for one of your illustrated Horse Books, and I think there is no better book printed on the horse and his diseases. I have taken great interest in it, and have since sold is copies for you to my neighbors, and will try and do what good I can by getting them for others. Yours truly, G. W. Miller.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH.

To Whom It May Concern.—In the year 1875 I treated with "Kendall's Spavin Cure" a bone spavin of several months growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse very hard over since, and he never has been lame, not could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with "Kendall's Spavin Cure." R. A. The Monkey in its Domestic Relations.

In India, where the monkeys live among men, and are the playmates of their children, the Hindoos have grown fond of them, and the four handed folks participate in all their simple household rites. In the early morning, when the peasant goes out to yoke his oxen, and the cow wakes up, and the dog stretches himself and shakes off the dust in which he slept last night, the monkey creeps down from the peepul tree, only half awake, and yawns and looks about him. puts a straw in his mouth and scratches himself contemplatingly. Then one by one the whole family come slipping down the tree trunk, and they all yawn and look about and scratch. But they are sleepy and peevish, and the youngsters get cuffed for nothing, and begin to think life dull. Yet the toilet has to be performed, and whether they like it or not, the young ones are sternly pulled up, one by one, to their mother to undergo the process. The scene, though repeated exactly every morning, loses nothing of its comicality, and the monkey-brats seem to be in the joke of "taking in" mamma. But mamma was young herself not very long ago and treats each ludicrons affectation of suffering with the profoundest unconcern. and as she dismisses one "cleansed" youngster with a cuff, stretches out her hand for the next one's tail or leg in the most business like and serious manner

The youngsters know their turns quite well. As each feels the moment arrive it throws itself on its stomach, as if overwhelmed with apprehension, the others meanwhile stifling their satisfaction at the way "So and so is doing it," and the instant the maternal paw is extended to grasp the tail, the subject of the next experiment utters a piercing shriek, and throwing its arms forward in the dust, allows itself to be dragged along a limp and helpless carcass, wint:ing all the time, no doubt, at its brothers and sisters at the way it is imposing on the old lady. But the old lady will stand no nonsense, and turning the child right side up, proceeds to put it to rights, takes the kinks out of its tail and the knots out of its fur, pokes her fingers into its ears and looks at each of its toes, the irrepressible brat all the time wearing on its face an absurd expression of hopeless and incurable grief, those who have already been cleansed looking on with delight at the screaming farce, and those who are waiting wearing a becoming aspect of enormous gravity.

The old lady, however, has her joke which is to cuff each youngster before she lets it go, and nimble as her offsprings are, she generally, to her credit be it said, manages to "fetch them one on the ear" before they are out of reach. The father, meanwhile, sits gravely with his back to all these domestic matters, waiting for breakfast. Presently the mats before the hut doors are pushed down, and the women, with brass vessels in their hands, come out, and while they scour pots with dust, exchange, between songs, the compliments of the morning. The monkeys by this time have come closer to the preparation for food, and sit solemnly, household by household, watching every movement. Hindoos do do, but the monkey has a great deal of patience, and in the end when the crowd has stolen a little, and the dog has his morsel, and the children are all satisfied. orgue," the monkey people, and it is soon discussed, the mother feeding the baby before she herself eats.

One day a bet was made that be would take charge of thirty cattle then in a car, all being unknown to the dog, as soon as unloaded that he would drive them to his owner's place, which was distant two miles that although it would be necessary to drive the animals among other cattle on the way the dog would neither permit one of the strange cattle to join his drove nor would be allow one of his thirty to stray from its companions. The dog won, Otters are used in fishing at Pondi-

Bishop Heber relates that they drive the shoals into the nets and sometimes bring out the larger fish with their teeth. He saw at Pondicherry a row of nine or ten very large and beautiful otters, tethered with straw collars and long strings to bamboo stakes. Some were swimming about at the full extent of their strings, or lying half in and half ont of the water; others were rolling themselves in the sun on the sandy bank, uttering a thrill, whistling noise, as if Murdoek McKenzie, of San Francisco
