> -The good Sisters of St. Joseph, in this place, were awakened from their peaceful dumbers between 2 and 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning last by a noise entirely for-eign to their ears, and upon investigation found that two interlopers of the sterner sex had gained an entrance to the convent building and were then making a tour of the upper part of the edifice with lamp in hand, which they promptly extinguished upon being discovered, and evidently intent upon some dastardly work. The startled commu-nity gave an immediate alarm by ringing a small bell and raising their voices to more than the ordinary pitch, but before Mr. Martin Ward and two of his sors, who reside next door, reached the scene the miscreants. whose entrance was effected through a lower door in the rear of the convent, had made good their escape by the front door of the chapel. In a few minutes after, however, a young man from Cambria township was seen prowling about the premises and brought to bay by the pretended presence of a pistol in the hands of one of the Messrs. Ward, but he so strennously insisted upon his impo-cence, which it was difficult to concede in view of the circumstances, and equally diffi-cult to prove, he was finally permitted to go is way after promising to keep better hours in the future.

To Jones B. Kaufman, Chairman' of the National Greenback-Lobor Committee of Cambria County. Greenbeck-Leber Committee of Cambria County.

Sits: I have just been informed that you have honored me by a recommendation for Judge of this District. If any one had informed me of any such intention on the part of your Convention, I would have unhositatingly stated that, under the sincemstances, it would be impossible for me to be a candidate for this office. The present able and impartial President Judge of this District has consented to become a candidate for re-election, and has been endorsed by citizens generally, without distinction of party. In this endorsement I have cordially joined, and it would be stullifying myself to agree to be a candidate against him. I regret that the failure of any one is mention to me an intention to make this recommendation has made this letter necessary, and I state to you thus early that I cannot consent to be a candidate so long as this district remains as it now is, in order that, if you deem it advisable, you may take such further action as you may deem proper.

The same was the party to be on their guard against snakes, and that before entering the stable with the horse they should knock on the door, and if any reptiles were there, that would frighten them away. Hency Taylor, the boy did this, after which he entered the barn with the horse, and was confronted by a monster rattlesmake. With the animal he immediately backed out and closed the door. The borse was tied to a picket fence surrounding the yard of the stable. The animal took it into his head on take a good roll to himself, in doing which his head and feet became pinioned underneath the lower rail of the fence. There was no way to release him but to cut down the fence, when Mrs. Taylor went to the house for a saw for that durpose. During her absence the raitlesmake come out of the stable, crawled to within a tew feet of the protorate and helpless horse, coiled himself into a circle as large as the top of a piano stool and eight inches in height, raised his head and prepared to strike any one who went approach him. The women were doubly alarmed at this new compliestion and were straid to attack the monster. Finally, Mrs. Yingling and Harry Taylor got so the shall coil, which caused it to unwind itself and each the proceeded to saw down the stable and helpless horse, coiled himself into a circle as large as the top of a piano stool and eight inches in height, raised his head and prepared to strike any one who went approach him. It's not vary good poetry, to be sure, but it is the best in the shop just new. Leaving that out of the consideration, however, here is something in the nature of good advice. When you want to buy the best and the chempest rends made clothing, pay a business visit to Jus. J. Murphy, 109 Clinton street, Johnstown. He will do the square thing with want.

THERE was a young man in Bryn Mawr. Who practiced too much at the bawr: To secure a red nose He sold all his close.

We give you the facts as they aw: "The facts as they awr" are cut off a little short.
We think so. Else why wasn't the young man of the poem sent to the penitentiars or somewhere, while, sloking his "nose" and "close," this information was sprend broadcast? To wit: That

Some readers no doubt look their papers all thre. Then madly destare they can find nothing nough. They sweat and they sweat. They rant and they tear.
And foolishly wonder what editors dough.

There may possibly be a mistake in the foregoing, and a reward of a million dollars might bring the right answer. But there is no mistake in the assertion that Godfrey Wolf, next door to the Postoffice. Altoona, sells the best ready-made clothing in Blatt or any adjoining county, including Cambria. His stock of Fall went is especially large and fine, while his prices, as heretofore, are unsurpassed for cheapness.

On, the dust, the horrible dust, Hilleding the wieked and cheking the just. If there ever was anything made to be cassed We believe it's the miscrable, herelide dust. The foregoing is written with the distinct understanding that it may rain between new (Wednesday) and the date of publication of this parer, and then the days would be laid. Laid !-while it is lying all the while. Dust is good in its proper sphere, and when you come down with the dast at Simon & Bendhelm's, next door to the First National Bank, Attenn, it is in a select as pro-
