NICODEMUS DODGE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL.

MARK TWAIN'S STORY OF A MISSOURI YOUTH WHO DIDN'T CARE IF HE DID.

When I was a boy in a printing office in Missouri, a loose jointed, long-legged, tow-headed, jean-clad, countryfied cub of about sixteen lounged in one day, and, without removing his hands from the depths of his trousers pockets, or taking off his faded ruin of a straw hat whose broken brim hung limp and ragged about his ears like a bug-eaten cabbage leaf, stared indifferently around, then leaned his hip against the editor's table, crossed his brogans, aimed at a distant fly from a crevice in his upper teeth, laid him low, and said with composure:

"What's the boss?"

"I am the boss," said the editor, following the curious bit of architecture wonderingly along up to its clock face with his eye.

"Don't want anybody to learn the business—'tain't likely?"

"Well, I don't know, would you like to learn it?"

"P'r'aps so; pa, he can't run me no mo', so I want to git a show somers if I can, 'tain't no difference what. I am strong and hearty and I don't turn my back on no kind of work' hard nor soft."

"Do you think you would like to learn the printing business?"

"Well, I don't re'ly k'yer a darn what I do learn' so's I get a chance to make my way. I'd just as soon learn prin'n 's anything."

"Can you read?"

"Yes—middling."

"Write?"

"Well, I've seed people could lay over me thar."

"Cipher?"

"Not good enough to keep store, I don't reckon, but as far as twelve times twelve I ain't no slouch. 'Tother side of what is what gits me,"

"Where is your home?"

"I'm f'm old Shelby."

"What's your father's religious denomination?"

"Him? Oh, he's a blacksmith."

"No, no—I don't mean his trade. What's his religious denomination?"

"Oh, I didn't understand you befo'. He's a freemason."

"No, no—you don't get my meaning yet. What my meaning is, does he belong to any church?"

"Now you're talking? Couldn't make out what you was a tryin' to git through yo' head no way. Belong to a church? Why, boss, he's been the pizenist kind of a Free-will Baptist' for forty year. There ain't any pizener ones 'n what he is. If they said any diffrunt, they wouldn't say it what I wuz—not much they wouldn't."

"What is your religion?"

"Well, boss, you've kind o' got me thar,"

"What is your name?"

"Nicodemus Dodge."

"I think maybe you'll do, Nicodemus.—We'll give you a trial, anyhow."

"All right."

"When would you like to begin?"

"Now."

So, within ten minutes after we had first glimpsed this nondescript he was one of us, and his coat off and hard at it.

Beyond the end of our establishment which was furthest from the street, was a deserted garden, pathless and thickly grown with the blighty and villainous 'jimson' weed and its common friend, the stately sunflower. In the midst of this mournful spot was a decayed and aged little 'frame' house, with but one room, one window, and no ceiling; it had been a smoke-house a generation before.

Nicodemus was given this lonely and ghastly den as a bed-chamber.

The village smarties recognized a treasure in Nicodemus right away, a butt to play jokes on. It was easy to see that he was inconceivably green and confiding.

George Jones had the honor of perpetrating the first joke on him; he gave him a cigar with a fire-cracker in it, and winked to the crowd to come; the thing exploded presently and swept away the bulk of Nicodemus' eyebrows and eyelashes.

He simply said:

"I consider these kind of seeg'yars dangersome," and seemed to suspect nothing.

The next evening he waylaid George and poured a bucket of ice water over him.

One day while Nicodemus was in swimming Tom McElroy 'tied' his clothes.

Nicodemus made a bonfire of Tom's by way of retaliation.

A third joke was upon Nicodemus a day or two later—he walked up the middle aisle of the village church Sunday night, with a staring hand bill pinned between his shoulders.

The joker spent the remainder of the night after church in the cellar of a deserted house, and Nicodemus sat on the celler door till toward breakfast time to make sure that the prisoner remembered that if any noise was made rough treatment would be the consequence. This cellar had two feet of stagnant water in it, and was bottomed with six inches of mud.

Before a very long time had elapsed the village smarties began to feel an uncomfortable consciousness of not having made a very shining success out of their attempts on the simpleton from 'old Shelby.' Experimenters grew scarce and chary.

Now the young doctor came to the rescue. There was delight and applause when he proposed to scare Nicodemus to death and explained how he was going to do it. He had a noble new skeleton—the skeleton of the late and only local celebrity, Jimmy Finn, the village drunkard—a risky piece of property which he had bought of Jimmy Finn himself, at auction, for $50, under great competition, when Jimmy lay very sick in the tanyard a fortnight before his death. The fifty dollars had gone promptly for whisky, and had considerably hurried up the change of ownership in the skeleton. The doctor would put Jimmy Finn's skeleton in Nicodemus' bed.

This was done about half-past ten in the evening. About Nichodemus' bed-time, midnight, the village jokers came stealthily through the 'jimson' weeds and sunflowers toward the lonely frame den. They reached the window and peeped in.

There sat the long-legged pauper on his bed in a very short shirt and nothing more.—He was dangling his legs contentedly back and forth, and wheezing the music of 'Camptown Races' out of a paper-overlaid comb which he was pressing against his mouth; by him lay a new jewharp, a new top, a solid india-rubber ball, a handful of painted marbles, five pounds o' 'store' candy, and a well gnawed slab of gingerbread as big and as thick as a volume of sheet music.

He had sold the skeleton to a traveling quack for three dollars and was enjoying the result.

TOASTING DEATH.

AN INCIDENT OF THE GRAVEYERD INSURANCE BUSINESS.

Squeezum, agent for the Bang Up Mutual Insurance Co., after a good deal of soft soap, persuaded old Tightmoney, of this city, to take four or five policies which he had to sell, which Squeezum confidently asserted would "mature" at an early day. The eloquence and fervor with which the agent plied old Tightmoney were irresistable, and he purchased the policies. They represented about $15,000 and were upon three different individuals. Matters went on swimmingly for awhile, old Tightmoney keeping one eye on the "subjects" whose deaths he felt sure was to enrich him, and the other upon his policies. For some time he was not called upon for any assessments, but finally these arrived, and they socked him to the tune of $21 the first clip. He growled like blazes but he forwarded the amount to the company. About a week after came another.—Somebody else pegged out and old Tightmoney was a member of class No. 1752. He sent the second installment on and waited breathlessly in the meantime for one of his own men to turn up hi heels. But nary a turn was made. Things looked very blue, and especially so when T got another call for more cash from the company. He began to think that it was a good deal softer to be a company than a policy holder. He reckoned that the ground floor was the solid place for a man to stand on in the graveyard insurance temple, and he cursed his luck that he didn't know enough to rope himself in with the company. Just about this time along came Squeezum, the agent, who said he was the bearer of some good news.

"You can't give it to us any too quick," exclaimed Tightmoney.

"Well then I've just come from the bedside of Mrs. Anglesearch, and I tell you the beautiful film of death is very rapidly creeping over her emaciated countenance."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed Tightmoney in breathless excitement.

"But I do say so," replied the agent, "and that isn't all. Doctor Makepill assured me yesterday that old Zionseeker couldn't last more than a week. He's got a superb cancer in his left breast, has a magnificent tumor in his right thigh, and is rapidly approaching a splendid dissolution."

"Well now that is truly good news and no mistake," remarked Tightmoney, with a grin. "You've cheered me up amazingly.—I was about giving up all hope. Now, however, that death is about taking hold in right good earnest, I'm overjoyed. Let's go and take something."

They went out to tip a cocktail on the jolly intelligence, and as they raised their glasses, Squeezum said, "Here's to Death: may he live long and prosper."

To the hesitating PERUNA gives courage.

AN EDITOR'S TROUBLES.

The editor of the Rockville (Ind.) Tribune gives vent to his feelings concerning delinquent subscribers in an editorial which will be indorsed by most country publishers.—The Tribune says:

The present proprietor took charge of the Tribune March 1, 1879, and a few days after did $7 worth of work for a well-to-do farmer and stock-breeder. That charge is still on our books unreceipted. We have sent two letters and one postal card to the delinquent, and got him so far interested that two years ago he said to one of our employes: "Tell Beadle not to worry about that bit; I'll step in some day and hand it to him."

In another section of the country lives a preacher who subscribed in these words: "Send me your paper awhile; I will step in and pay for it." A year and a half afterwards we sent him the bill, which he indignantly repudiated on the ground that he never subscribed.

Within three miles of us are three well-to-do farmers who owe us for three years subscription each. We send them a bill about once in six months, and it don't worry them a particle. By-and-bye they will move to Kansas or somewhere West, and will never think of this bill; but each of them will expect a regretful complimentary recommending him to the people where he settles.

On the old subscription books, continued from the time Mr. Beadle began the Tribune, are charges amounting to $1,100, of which at least $800 are on men who could be made to pay by law. But they know that newspaper debts are never collected that way, and not one dollar in ten of it will ever be paid.

Nobody ever pays the slightest attention to a newspaper dun. A circular letter, specifying each man's dues, will bring a response from about one man in twenty. It seems to be taken by common consent that a publisher is not to be paid until all other bills are out of the way and a cash surplus is on hand—not even then unless it is perfectly convenient.

All this raises a painful question in our minds, whether that which is called popular honesty is not really a sort of polley. Many of these delinquents are ardent advocates of prohibition and other "moral reforms"—may of them can pray in church till the rafters tremble. But they really must excuse us if we are tormented doubts. We would as soon they took a drink occasionally—yes, that they even got drunk once, if they got drunk enough to come up and pay these bills. We even would that they were altogether such as are exempt these bonds.

If you ask the average man plumply, "Is it wrong to defraud a doctor, a lawyer or an editor?" he would doubtless say yes; but it would be a feeble, perfunctory yes—one that merely trembled on the epiglottis, and did not lift up the liver and ramify the soul. The popular mind is debauched on this subject and needs educating. We could publish cases in our own experience that would draw tears to the eye of a Nihilist. It seems fair to add that these remarks are more in sorrow than in anger, and we stand ready to recant, if our delinquents will prove to us practically that we are wrong.

THERE is an awful state of affairs in a little Michigan town where a type setter substituted the word "widows" for "windows." The editor wrote: "The windows of the church need washing badly. They are too dirty for any use, and are a disgrace to our village."

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

READ PROOF OF WONDERFUL CURES.

FREMONT, Ohio, Jan. 25, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits and profits which I have derived from your invaluable and far famed Spavin Cure. My cousin and I had a valuable stallion worth $4,000 which had a very bad spavin, and was pronounced by four eminent veterinary surgeons beyond any cure, and that the horse was done forever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect—the third bottle cured it and the horse is as well as ever. Dr. Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncle of mine, and I take great interest in assisting his profession. Yours, truly,

JAMES A. WILSON, Civil Engineer.

Kendall's SPAVIN Cure

WILTON, MINN., Jan. 11, 1881.

B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Having got a horse book of you by mail a year ago, the contents of which persuaded me to try Kendall's Spavin Cure on the hind leg of one of my horses, which was badly swollen and could not be reduced by any other remedy. I got two bottles of Preston & Luddath, Druggists of Winona, which completely cured my horse in five years ago. I had a three year old colt sweenied very bad. I used your remedy as given in your book without rowelling, and I must say to your credit that the colt is entirely cured, which is a surprise, not only to myself, but also to my neighbors. You sent me the book for the trifling sum of 25 cents and if I could not get another like it I would not take twenty-five dollars for it. Yours, truly, GEO. MATHEWS.

From a PROMINENT PHYSICIAN.

WASHINGTONVILLE, OHIO, June 17, 1879.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and having a valuable and speedy horse who had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and swelling entirely, and also a large splint from the other horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars. Respectfully yours,

H. A. BECKETT, M. D.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 18th, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I have a very fine mare that had a bone spavin for a long time. I tried everything man could devise to cure it, but all in vain, and was about to give it up when a friend of mine in this city came to me and recommended "Kendall's Spavin Cure," which I tried with grand results, removing the bone clear and clean. I then sent 25 cents to you for one of your illustrated Horse Books, and I think there is no better book in print. Since I have taken great interest in it, and have since sold 18 copies for you to my neighbors, and will try and do what good I can by getting them for others to buy. Yours truly, W. MILLER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure on Human Flesh.

WEST ENOSBURGH, VT., Feb. 15, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Several months ago I injured my knee joint, which caused me to limp very badly. I got a few drops of your Spavin Cure and caused me very severe pain all the time for four or five weeks, when I began to use Kendall's Spavin Cure with the most satisfactory results. It has completely removed the enlargement and stopped the lameness and pain. I have long known it to be excellent for horses, but now I know it to be the best liniment for human flesh that I am acquainted with.

Yours truly, T. P. LAWRENCE.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

Is sure in its effects and mild in its action, as it does not blister; yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep-seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or other enlargements, such as spavins, ringbone, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, and any lameness and all aches and pains in man or brute, and also for rheumatism in man, or for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting boldly and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular, which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unparalleled success for our knowledge, in man as well as beast.

☞ Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All Druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

唐人醫嘴藥膏

(The original and only genuine Chinese Cream Camphor manufactured—WONG SAM KEE & CO., Tea Merchants, 816 South Second street, Philadelphia, Pa.)

Chinese Cream CAMPHOR!

THE GREAT REMEDY

FOR THE

RELIEF OF PAIN

IN MAN AND BEAST!

Commands the attention of all who have been inveterate sufferers of RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, BACKACHE, FROSTED FEET, STIFF JOINTS, and all pains in every portion of the body. The seat of pain is reached by exciting the nerves to action, thus enabling the curative properties of the CHINESE CREAM CAMPHOR to enter, which stifles the pain as soon as the affected parts are reached. The liniment must, upon each application, be rubbed in thoroughly; and in cases of Rheumatism of long standing it should be used three or four times a day, and four applications made each time, until cured. Care, however, should be exercised after the pores are opened, to prevent taking cold.

FOR HORSES

—THE—

Chinese CREAM Camphor

IS INVALUABLE.

It relieves Sprained Joints, Thrush in Feet, Sweeny, Poll Evil, Blood and Bone Spavins, Ringbone, and all hard lumps caused by kicks or other bruises. For Epizooty, Distemper, Fever, Colic, Loss of Appetite, and Weakness, use the IRON HORSE AND CATTLE POWDER.

☞ A half-pint bottle of the CHINESE CREAM CAMPHOR can be had for 50 cents from E. JAMES, Druggist, Ebensburg, Pa.

N. B.—The testimonials of persons using this preparation, either on themselves or their horses, will be thankfully received.

TESTIMONIALS.

I have tried the Chinese Cream Camphor for Rheumatism and Nervous Headache, and have found it to work like a charm. I have never found its equal in all my travels.—GEORGE BYNG, London Eng., (son of Capt. Sir Geo. Byng, R. I. N., Singapore, India.)

I used the Chinese Cream Camphor for a severe attack of Rheumatism in the right shoulder, and can sincerely say, after having tried several other well-known remedies, that it is the best thing I ever used, curing me completely.—MILLARD F. WALTON, 117 N. 41st street, West Philadelphia, March 1, 1881.

After one application of the Chinese Cream Camphor I was relieved of frosted feet.—NATHAN ELKAN, 415 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12, 1881.

Having suffered severely with frosted feet I used the Chinese Cream Camphor three times, rubbing it in thoroughly, and was cured. My mother tried it for nervous headache, obtaining instant relief.—ANTON S. TAVZEL, 1215 Melon street, Philad'a, Jan. 15, 1881. [4-8.-6m.]

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often, though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

THE VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

THE VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.
