WHAT THE CONGREGATION OF THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY NAME THINKS OF THE GREAT CRIME OF THE AGE.

At a meeting of the members of the congregation of the Church of the Holy Name, Ebensburg, held immediately after Mass on Sunday last, the Blessed Sacrament having previously been removed from the tabernacle, Rev. Father Reardon in a few well chosen words stated the object in view when he requested the congregation, as he did before having, on September 23d, broken open his retiring from the altar at the conclusion of trunk and taking there from a silver watch. At the suggestion of the same Rev. gentleman, John E canlan, Esq., was made chairman and H. A. McPike secretary of the meeting, after which R. L. Jonnston, Esq., was called on to express his sentiments in relation to the great express his sentiments in remaining country by loss and sorrow brought upon the country by the tragic death of its chief magistrate. the gentleman named signified his willing-ness to do, but suggested as the first thing in order the adoption of a series of resolutions

Sentiments of the entire congregation:

Whereas, The death, under any circumstances, of the Chief Magistrate of the Republic, is an event which claims the sympathy and calls forth the sorrow of all classes of citizens, without regard to religious or political sentiments; and whereas in a time of profound peace and general prosperity James A. Garfield, President of the United States, without cause or the shadow of provocation, and at a time when no evil was oppressing the people and there was no wrong to be redressed, was stricken down in the prime of his life and almost at the threshold of his official career by the murderous bullet of a cowardly and brutal assassin; therefore be it builted of a cowardly and brutal assassin; therefore be it Resolved. That the members of this church regard with deep and unuterable abhoreence the dastardly act which has deprived the nation of its lawfully chosen C lef Magistrate, and that we share incommon with our follow countrymen and countrywemen the profound sorrow with which his tragic death has not only filled the hearts of the American people, but has caused a shock everywhere throughout the civilized world.

Resolved. That after months of suffering and of alternate hope and fear on the part of fitty millions of people, and after its endurance by President Garfield with a patiesice, heroism and hopelulness which commanded universal admiration and homese, his cruel, unmerited and untimely fatte adds to our sorrow that in the providence of God his life could not be spared to his country.

Resolved. That we sincerely sympathize with the aged mother and bereaved wife and children of our dead President, and pray that they may be comforted in their inexpressible affliction by the Eather of all mercies and the God of all consolation.

sired. That a generous confidence should be Resolved. That a generous confidence should be extended to Chester A. Arthur in the weighty responsibilities of the high trust to which, under Providence, he has been so suddenly and sadly called, and the earnest hope is indulged that he will administer it for the best interests of the entire country. To quote the words of the lamented President, "the Government at Washington still lives," and let us add that through his successor it must continue to live with our new Chief Mag istrate as its executive head.

As a further expression of the grief which porvades every heart, and as peculiarly Catholic in all of its sentiments and invocations, the following editorial from the Boston Pilot of last week was read and submitted to the meeting by the secretary :

The Dead Pussioner. The long fight is ended, and the strong heart is at rest. The nation's watch by the bedside is over. After eighty days of cruel suffering, the firm nature succumbed. The silent millions who, amid the busile of market, exchange, millions who, amid the busile of increase of factory and farm, had never lost consciousness of the wounded President, and his afflicted wife and children, may now as mutely pray for his soul's rest and for peace for the stricken hearts of his Never beside the bed of a crowned king wept so

THE FIRST FRUITS OF THE CRAWFORD COUN-TY SYSTEM IN CAMBRIA-A GOOD TICKET SECURED FOR THE DEMOCRACY.

In pursuance of notice previously given by Chairman McMullen, the first experiment the way of electing Democratic candidates for county offices was made in the sev-eral election districts on Saturday last, and on the following Monday, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon, the return judges as embodied in the person of a Comu man from each district met in the Court House to count the vote and determine the resuit. And now, while the whole land is in mourning, we pause with bowed heads in the presence of universal sorrow and lamentation to place upon record our heartfelt sorrow for the deceased, and our utter abhorrence of the act and the dastardly wretch who committed it, that has so tragically terminated the earthly life of our Chlei Magistrate; therefore,

The proceedings were conducted with en harmony, with one single exception That exception was when Barr township returned one vote for John Dean, for President Judge. Capt. Woodruff, while disavowing anything like hostility toward Judge Dean, contended that to count in a morratic convention votes cast for a Republican would establish a bad precedent for the future; and in this position he was sustained by a majority of the convention. Mr. Fitzharris and others took the view that convention was a mere registering body, and as such had no right to go behind the returns. The action of the convention, it may as well be said here, was not inspired by opposition to Judge Dean, but had reference only to Democratic integrity. Col. Juo. Dr. Griffith is Edwards' physician. A glance at the table will show that certain of the candidates made their calling and election by a decidedly close shave. P. B. COMMUNICATION. NEAR ST. AUGUSTINE, Sept. 28, 1881. EDITOR CAMERILA FREEMAN—Dea. Sir: In the last issue of the Carrolltown News appears the following squib from an anonymous correspondent in this piace: "Prof. Strayer's strict, thorough manner of examination in this piace on the 8th inst piecesed every one except a lew who expected to receive certificates without displaying the requisite amount of knowledge. The withouding of certificates from those who depend upon prompting will entitle him to the praise of all true friends of education." Now, three out of four applicants who were relused certificates on that occasion/an I those three are young ladies) have since then passed a thorough examination without any prompting and hold good certificates signed by Supt. Strayer, it is evident that the writer of the above was a little premature in his assertions about their want of knowledge. These tencher's have the highest regard for Mr. Strayer as a Superintendent, and as a gentleman, and have not entertained any unkind feelings toward him for withholding their certificates on the first occasion, therefore I would here and now in all sincerity, and without any harsh feelings, say to this anonymous gent, who is well known to me, that if he must stoop so low as to be almost personal in his remarks about his neighbors, he should confine himself to the truth, for I do know that he is as much mistaken when he asserts that they were gispleasad with Mr Strayer. for I do know that he is as much mistaken when

OBITUARY.

McDONALD -Died, at her residence in this date, on Monday, September 25, 1881, Mrs. Eliza McDonald, in the 50th year of her age.

McDonald, epidember 25, 1881 Mrs. Eliza McDonald, in the 20th year of her age.

The malore name of the deceased lady was Parsons, and her birth place Hancock Marviand. In 1812 she was married to Owen McDonaid, who, in the following year, or in 1814, came to this place and erected the hotel property now occupied by Mrs. Foster. At that time there were only three or four small dwelling bouses in what is now the West ward, the most of the buildings, and these only few in number, being in what is now the East ward. As seon as his house was completed, Mr. McDonaid engaged in the hotel and store business, at which he continued (serving in the meantime one term as Sheriff of the county) until the Summer of 1842, when he died. Sometime after Mr. McDonaid's death his widow removed with her lamily to Pittsburgh, where or near where she resided for several years and then returned to this place. In 1851 she created the brick dwelling which she occupied up to the time of her death—She was the oldest resident of the borough, and there is only one person living in it now who was here when she and her husband first came to Ehensburg to make it their home. Her health has been slowly giving way for several years, and her death was simply caused by the infirmities incident to old age. She passed from earth to that bourne from which none ever return serenely and tranquilly, and within a few yards of the house in which she first went to reside as a young married woman almost severty years age. She was a highly respectable lady giffed with all the shining virtues of a true woman, and during her long career on earth was ever a devaut and constant member of the Catholic church. At 10 of clock on Thursday morning her remains were taken to tae Church of the Holy Name in this place, where a solemn High Mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul, and an eloquent and pathetic funeral sermon delivered by Rev. Father Reardon, after which they were conveyed to Loretto and interest in the cemetery of the old Catholic church, where the ashe

The Altoona Sun says that Jacob Guyer, of North Woodbury township, that county, was nearly disemboweled by a harrow last Saturday. He had finished preparing the ground for seeding, when he raised the harrow up on its edge, and started the horses. In passing along the harrow struck a post and fell down, one of the teeth catching Mr Guyer, and tearing a line almost across his abdomen and then downward into the membrane of the bowels, in the shape of the let-ter T., the flaps hanging down and exposing the greater portion of the membranous lin-ing. A physician sewed up the wound, and

Mr. Guyer is doing right well.

Our friend and patron, Mr. W. G. Krise, of Dean township, who was in town on Monday, fully confirms the story which recently appeared in the Carrolltown News about silver ore having been found in paying quanti-ties on his farm. He further assures us that parties who found the ore, four in number, a majority of whom were from Philadel-phia, have offered him forty thousand dollars on behalf of themselves and others for the right to mine gold, silver and lead on his preoises. The same parties, he assures us, have leased the mineral right of a farm adjoining is own for a long term of years. We await further developments with something akin to curiosity. -There are twenty prisoners in our county jail. Of these are several parties charged with shooting with Intent to kill. Philip Jones is one of them, an account of whose unfortunate performances is eisewhere related in these columns; Aleck Fresh, who shot and otherwise violently disported himself in Summerhill; Samuel Hale, of Johnstown, who plastered a Swede named John lohuston, with some lead, and a couple of others whose names escape us. It is worthy of remark that nebody was killed, though the intentions of the manipulators of the trig-ger were thought to have been good. The query arises: Has the shooting of President Garfield become epidemic.

Some doubts have been expressed as to the durability of this metal, out we are assured it will last, proper cautions being taken, till the crack of the om. A force of plasterers, a majority of them from Erie, arrived in town on Tuesday. They have a comple of months' work ahead of them, as has Mr. McManus' force, and the prospect of seeing the Court House ready for the point of attenuation. -On last Friday morning, as we learn from the Johnstown Tribune, a young girl named Mary Martin, daughter of Thomas Martin, residing in Prospect borough, with a shocking and instant death on the tory where she was an employee. At the time of the tragedy an older sister and an-other young lady, both of whom also worked in the mill, were along with her. They in or anybody but a Democrat either.

It is accounted a candidate on that baccounty committee didn't count his walking on the ties, while the other two went along the path on the right of the road. The engineer of the express train then going east, the same course the girls were traveling seeing the danger, sounded the usual warnbut the girl unfortunately did not get out of the way soon enough, and was struck by the pilot of the locomotive and her body thrown against the bank. When her com-panions reached her there was no sign of rife in her bruised and mangled body. She was a great favorite with all the hands in the factory; and her tragic death is much deplored by every one who knew her. ----

A Serious Shooting Affair. Mr. Elias Edwards, a farmer who lives in Blacklick township, about seven miles northwest of Ebensburg, was shot and dangerously wounded last Friday night under the following alleged circumstances: Mr. Philip J. Jones is a neighbor of his, and between Jones and Edwards has existed a feud of several years' growth and development. On Jones' farm is a private road, for lones' own benefit, though the road has occasionally been used as a public thorough-fare. Some weeks since Jones put up written notices warning all who could read, that no trespassing on the road would be permit. ed. Edwards fore these notices down as the parrative runs and they were as often replaced by Jones. Mr. Jones was sitting in his house Friday night, an hour or two after the sun had set, when he was notified by his watch-dog of something going wrong on the premises. He grasped his gun (a shot gun.) sallied forth, discovered Edwards on his grounds, was convinced he was on some evil errand, drew up the gun, fired, and Edwards fell to the ground with about forty-two shots in him. Two of the shots penetrated his lungs, and for a time it was thought extremely doubtful whether he would recover, but our latest advices assure us that he is out of danger. Saturday morning Mr. Jones surrendered himself into the hands of Constable Rowand, of Blacklick township, and by that officer was lodged in jail the same day. He admitted the shooting, and the foregoing substantially embodies his own statement of the facts connected with the deplorable affair. Mr. Edwards' statement, when he shall have recovered strength to make it, may and doubtless will differ from Jones' d we may be able to present his side of the case to our readers next week.

Jones, as we have noted, voluntarily gave himself into custody of the law, but on Tuesday he was taken before Squire Jones, of the East ward, and a formal charge was then and there preferred against him by a brother of Mr. Edwards. After which, he
