READ PROOF OF WONDERFUL CURES.

FREMONT, OHIO, Jan. 28, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits and profits which I have derived from your incalculable and far famed Spavin Cure. My cousin and I had a valuable stallion worth $4,000 which had a very bad spavin, and was pronounced by four eminent veterinary surgeons beyond any cure, and that the horse was done forever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect—the third bottle cured it and the horse is as well as ever. Dr. Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncle of mine, and I take great interest in assisting his profession. Yours, truly,

JAMES A. WILSON, Civil Engineer.

Kendall's SPAVIN Cure

WILTON, MINN., Jan. 11, 1881.

B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Having got a horse book of you by mail a year ago, the contents of which persuaded me to try Kendall's Spavin Cure on the hind leg of one of my horses, which was badly swollen and could not be reduced by any other remedy. I got two bottles of Preston & Lindquist, Druggists of Wasseu, which completely cured my horse. About five years ago I had a three year old colt sweenied very bad. I used your remedy as given in your book without rowelling, and I must say to your credit that the colt is entirely cured, which is a surprise, not only to myself, but also to my neighbors. You sent me the book for the trifling sum of 25 cents and if I could not get another like it I would not take twenty-five dollars for it. Yours, truly, GEO. MATHEWS.

From a PROMINENT PHYSICIAN.

WASHINGTONVILLE, OHIO, June 17, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and having a valuable and speedy horse who had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement, leaving a large pliant muscle as other horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars. Respectfully yours,

H. A. BERTOLETT, M. D.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 18th, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I have a very fine mare that had a bone spavin for a long time. I tried everything man could devise to cure it, but all in vain, and was about to give it up when a friend of mine in this city came to me and recommended "Kendall's Spavin Cure," which I tried with grand results, removing the bone clear and clean. I then sent 25 cents to you for one of your Illustrated Horse Books, and I think there is no better book printed on the horse and his diseases. I have taken great interest in it, and have since sold 18 copies for me to my neighbors, and will try and do what good I can by getting them for others

Yours truly, G. W. MILLER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure on Human Flesh.

WEST ESCANABA, MI., Feb. 15, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Several months ago I injured my knee joint, which caused an enlargement to grow the size of a large walnut and caused me very severe pain all the time for four or five weeks, when I began to use Kendall's Spavin Cure with the most satisfactory results. It has completely removed the enlargement and stopped the lameness and pain. I have long known it to be a valuable remedy for horses, but now I know it to be the best liniment for human flesh that I am acquainted with.

Yours truly, T. P. L., PRIEST.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

Is sure in its effects and mild in its action, as it does not blister the skin or remove the hair, and is powerful to reach every deep-seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or other enlargements, such as spavins, ringbone, curbs, splints, sprains, swellings, and new lumps on horses, and all enlargements on joints or limbs, and also for rheumatism in man, or for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mildly and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular, which we think gives positive proof that no remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for man as well as beast.

VAN DYKE'S SULPHUR SOAP

Is superior to all other soaps. It is combined with Sulphur in its pure, insoluble state, which enters the pores, softens the skin, and into the blood through the minute capillaries, and thus acts upon the skin, whether it be healthy or in a diseased condition, both locally and constitutionally, thereby eliminating all impurities from the blood and exerting the skin to healthy action. It produces a fairness, purity and freshness of the complexion which is unequalled, and can be produced by no other means. No toilet, nursery or bathroom is complete without it. It makes the skin soft, clear, pure, white and healthy; is cleansing, delightful, refreshing, exhilarating, healing and purifying; removes dandruff, dhafing, blotches, sore eruptions, roughness and redness of the skin; relieves itching, burning and stinging of the skin, and irritation of the scalp, and instantly allays and relieves Itching Piles when nothing else will have any effect. Ask for VAN DYKE'S SULPHUR SOAP; insist upon it, and take no imitation. Sold by druggists, Apothecaries & Millers. Prepared only at Callowhill Street, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale by M. L. GAUGLER and E. JAMES, Druggist, Ebensburg, Pa. [13-8.-1y.]

DIRECTIONS.

or Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cold in the Head, &c., insert with little finger a particle of the Balm into the nostrils; draw strong breath through the nose. It will then be absorbed, cleansing and healing the diseased membrane.

For Deafness,

apply a particle into the ear.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

HAVING gained an enviable local reputation, displacing all other preparations in the vicinity of discovery, is, on its merits alone, recognized as a wonderful remedy wherever known. A fair trial will convince the most skeptical of its curative powers. It effectually cleanses the nasal passages of Catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions; allays inflammation and irritation; protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds; completely heals the sores and restores the sense of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure Catarrh. As a household remedy for cold in the head it is unequaled. The Balm is easy to use and agreeable. Sold by druggists at 50 cents. On receipt of 50 cents will mail a package. Send for circular with full information.

HOW TO MAKE OYSTER PIE.—As the oyster season has again begun, receipts for cooking oysters in different styles are now in order. The following Baltimore recipe for oyster pie, although not generally known in the North, is said to be an excellent one and worth preserving.

To prepare oyster pie according to the best authorities a sufficient number of fat, medium-sized oysters must first be obtained. There is a division of opinion at this point upon the question whether the hard part of the oyster should be separated and thrown away, but the weight of authority seems to be in favor of so doing. The oysters are then taken and thoroughly drained in order to get them as dry as possible. They are then rolled in finely powdered cracker dust which has been sifted thro' a flour sieve. Very light puff-paste having been prepared, the dish—which should be an earthen one and rather deep—is lined with the paste on the sides, the cook being careful not to put any paste on the bottom. Into this the oysters are poured, and on the top of them, in pieces about the size of filberts, parsley butter, made by mixing very finely cut parsley with fresh butter and adding thereto a small pinch of mace, should le put. The whole thing is covered with the paste for the crust, rolled thin, and holes are cut to let out the steam. The amount of butter is one tablespoonful to a quart of oysters. The pie is then ready for baking, which should be done in a moderately quick oven and should not last over forty minutes. Eat of this pie either hot or cold, and bless the printer for telling you how to make it.

STRANGE, IF TRUE.—About thirty years ago, says a writer in the Democratic Union, the first crow crossed the Genesee river, westwardly, and the fox, the hen-hawk, swallow, and many other birds and insects seem to follow civilization. Within thirty-six years the locust borer made its first appearance in the United States, and as yet has not reached the south and west. It commenced its ravages on the east side of the Genesee river, in 1829, and its progress in the course it takes is from ten to fifteen miles a year. Rose bugs have been so common in some of the Eastern States that on the sea-shores they floated in windrows on the sands, having been driven into the sea by winds and drowned. The cedar or cherry birds were first noticed west of the Genesee river 1828, and they are now so great a pest as to induce many to give up the cultivation of cherries. Curculio, which is indigenous to America, was first discovered by Mr. Gaul, the first editor of the Genesee Farmer since which time it has disseminated itself over the whole country. The cut-worm appeared in 1816 and 1821, (noticed as the cold years, when the whole northern country approached the brink of famine,) and are now universal. The Hessian fly was introduced, it is supposed, by the foreign mercenaries in 1777, on Long Island, from their baggage or in the forage of their horses.

THE FARMER'S FISH.

This is what Professor Baird, the United States fish commissioner declares the carp to be. He applies this term to it, because it is singularly adapted to the wants of farmers, and capable of being raised in natural or artificial bodies of water, where most kinds of fish could not live. The trout and bass require not only very pure but cool water, and they must have an abundance of it. Most of the inferior varieties of fish require water that is at least, moderately clear, cool and abundant. The carp, however, delights in water that is warm, and is satisfied with a small amount of it. It prefers a pond where bottom and banks are constituted of mud, because that substance affords a place of protection during very cold weather, and for the additional reason that it produces a large amount of plants that it relishes for food. The carp will eat anything that pigs and fowls will. It will readily devour insects, small reptiles and meat of all kinds, and will also eat nearly all kinds of green vegetables, fruits and garbage.

It is fond of boiled roots, potatoes and cabbage, and all kinds of grain that has been cooked. The growth of the carp may be forced, by affording an abundance of flesh-forming food. It can be fattened like the pig or turkey. The growth of the specimens imported from Germany, only three years ago, has been almost marvelous. Some of them that were brought over when they were no larger than minnows, now weigh eight or nine pounds. In the opinion of several that have experimented with them, it is as profitable to feed grain to carp as to pigs and steers. There are, however, many articles of which the carp is very fond, and which add greatly to its growth, that can be produced much cheaper than grain. Cress, lettuce, parsley, celery, tender clover and grass, brewery grains and the refuse of glucose factories are all well adapted to feeding to the carp. The young fish are especially fond of sweet curd and chopped liver.

No inhabitant of the water, with the exception of the goldfish, is as thoroughly domesticated as the carp. The variety introduced into this country is known as the German carp, but it is probably of Asiatic origin and has been domesticated in China for thousands of years. It was raised in Italy, in the days of Cicero, and was probably carried by the Romans to the various parts of Europe where they colonized. It can be transported easier, and will live longer out of water than any other sort of fish that is covered with scales. On this account it is very valuable for stocking ponds at considerable distance from railroads and other means of public communication. Carp ordinarily spawn in May or June; they are very prolific, a large fish often yielding 400,000 eggs. The eggs adhere in masses to sticks and the stalks of water plants. They hatch in a few days and the young fish grow very rapidly if they are not disturbed. The circumstance that no hatching house is required for propagating them is strongly in their favor.

The flesh of the carp is hardly fit to eat during the summer, partly because it is the season for spawning. They are not favorites with anglers, as they do not take a bait after the manner of the pike, black bass and other game fish. They are easily taken from the water by means of a dip net, or they may be driven into a portion of the pond from which the water can be drained off. The flesh of the carp does not rank among delicacies like that of the salmon, trout, shad and mackeral. It takes its place among the substantial articles of diet that are within reach of persons of small means. It is likely that the carp will be raised in this country with a view to profit, rather than for affording pleasure. Farmers will keep carp as they raise beef and pork—for the purpose of supplying their tables and the market. In many places in South Germany there are carp ponds which are the common property of a village, and the taking of fish is regulated by customs or rules adopted by the citizens.—Chicago Times.

A Means of Preventing Droughts.

For a people much given to invention and swift in the application of practical results to special aims, the Americans display an incredible supineness before the accidents of the climate. For eight weeks or more the Eastern belt of country, and indeed, for that matter, large regions of the West, have been parched with drought. Crops have been parched as they stood. The first effects of this untimely disaster have been felt in the large cities in the increased price of all articles of consumption. Butter is poor and dear, and milk is almost a luxury. How extended the damage done the markets show, but the surprising aspect of such an occurrence is the needlessness of it. Take Pennsylvania, for example. There is not a spot of her superb domain which cannot be protected from the severest drought. Rivers traverse the State literally on a score of lines. The Susquehanna alone, if properly managed, would irrigate every mile of the heart of the State, to say nothing of the inexhaustible water-shed from the Blue Ridge Mountains. If the farmers of the State cannot see their way clearly to the private system of land watering in vogue in Italy, Holland, France, Germany and Austria, public enterprise might find use for a few millions of dollars in the construction of viaducts through the farming districts. It is not in the interest of the farmers alone that this project recommends itself to the thoughtful. Pennsylvania is rapidly becoming urban. We shall have Birminghams and Manchesters and Liverpools, with millions crowded together so closely that we shall have the same difficulty in feeding them that the English encounter to-day. This being inevitable, we should not only preserve every inch of fertility in our soil, but add to its fecundity by such means as earlier civilizations found sufficient to check the long, burning intervals of Italian and African summers.

To this day Italy is filled with imperishable memorials of the sagacious enterprise of the Romans, whose parched fields were moistened by waters brought from distant Alpine lakes and the Tyrolean rivers. It will be noted that droughts in this country not only increases the cost of living but that it leaves disease and malaria in its wake. The poison of imperfectly nourished grass, fruit and grain is instilled into the human frame, and plague supplements the misfortune of the season. Any price which should bring about a mitigation of such a disaster would seem a cheap one, and the farmer can not take up the subject too soon. Our inland rivers, the Delaware and the Susquhanna, would furnish a competent basis for a copious supply of the richest portions of the State, while the mountain streams could be made available for the valleys. The subject will be very apt to commend itself to the housekeeper whose provision bills are not alone the strongest remainder of the eight weeks' parching fields.

THE swiftest bird probably, is the eagle of the sea or frigate bird, often measuring sixteen feet from tip to tip. It hovers at an elevation of 10,000 feet when a storm breaks over the ocean. If it wishes to travel, says a French naturalist, in can almost annihilate space. It can breakfast in Africa and dine in America. This bird reposes on its great motionless wings, literally "sleeping on the besom of the air."

A FRESH tomato leaf, crushed and applied, is a good antidote for the sting of a bee.
