THE FISH PRODUCTS OF THE SEA-Having often wondered way there was so much interest manifested the different governments in the fishery question. I have given that subject some investigation, and am astonished to learn how much the finny tribe contributes to the support of the human race. The great extent to which the world engages in fishing is really wonderful. It is so immense that it is difficult to determine. The extent to which the fish product of the sea contributes to the support of the human race is much greater than the casual observer would suppose. The whole Asiatic coast is devoted to fishing. The northern and far southern portions of the world get their living from fishing, and it is said that dry fish is one of the absolutely indispensible foods One hundred pounds of fish is said to be
