READ PROOF OF WONDERFUL CURES.

FREMONT, OHIO, Jan. 28, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits and profits which I have derived from your invaluable and far famed Spavin Cure. My cousin and I had a valuable stallion worth $4,000 which had a very bad spavin, and was pronounced by four eminent veterinary surgeons beyond any cure, and that the horse was done forever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect—the third bottle cured it and the horse is as well as ever. Dr. Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncle of mine, and I take great interest in assisting his profession. Yours, truly,

JAMES A. WILSON, Civil Engineer.

Kendall's SPAVIN Cure

WILTON, MINN., Jan. 11, 1881.

B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Having got a horse book of you by mail a year ago, the contents of which persuaded me to try Kendall's Spavin Cure on the hind leg of one of my horses, which was badly swollen and could not be reduced by any other remedy. I got two bottles of Preston & Luddington, Druggists of Wasecu, which completely cured my horse. About five years ago I had a three year old colt sweenied very bad. I used your remedy as given in your book without rowelling, and I must say to your credit that the colt is entirely cured, which is a surprise, not only to myself, but also to my neighbors. You sent me the book for the trifling sum of 25 cents and if I could not get another like it I would not take twenty-five dollars for it. Yours, truly, GEO. MATHEWS.

From a PROMINENT PHYSICIAN.

WASHINGTONVILLE, OHIO, June 17, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Reading your advertisements in Turf, Field and Farm, of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and having a valuable and speedy horse who had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement, and also a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle cured to me one hundred dollars. Respectfully yours,

H. A. HEISELETT, M. D.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 18th, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: I have a very fine mare that had a bone spavin for a long time. I tried everything man could devise to cure it, but all in vain, and was about to give it up when a friend of mine in this city came to me and recommended "Kendall's Spavin Cure," which I tried with grand results, removing the bone clear and clean. I then sent 25 cents to you for one of your illustrated Horse Books, and I think there is no better book printed on the horse and his diseases. I have taken great interest in it, and have since sold 18 copies for you to my neighbors, and will try and do what good I can by getting them for others to try. Yours truly, G. W. MILLER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure on Human Flesh.

WEST ESSINGTON, VA., Feb. 15, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO.—Gents: Several months ago I injured my knee joint, which caused an enlargement to grow the size of a large walnut and caused me very severe pain all the time for four or five weeks, when I began to use Kendall's Spavin Cure with the most satisfactory results. It has completely removed the enlargement and stopped the lameness and pain. I have long known it to be excellent for horses, but now I know it to be the best liniment for human flesh that I am acquainted with. Yours truly, T. P. A. KNOWLES.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

Is sure in its effects and mild in its action, as it does not blister; yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep-seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or other enlargements, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, and any lameness and all enlargements of joints or limbs, and also for rheumatism in man, or for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mildly and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular, which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for man as well as beast.

VAN DYKE'S SULPHUR SOAP

is superior to all other soaps. It is compounded with Sulphur in its purest, most desirable state, which enters the pores of the skin, being absorbed into the blood through the minute capillaries, and thus acts upon the skin, whether it be healthy or in a diseased condition, both locally and constitutionally, thereby eliminating all impurities from the blood and exciting the skin to healthy action. It produces a fineness, purity and freshness of the complexion which is unequalled, and which can be produced by no other means. No toilet, nursery or bathroom is complete without it. It makes the skin soft, clear, pure, white and healthy; is cleansing, deodorizing, disinfecting, soothing and prophylactic; removes dandruff, chafing, chaps, sores, eruptions, roughness and redness of the skin; relieves itching, burning and scaling sensations of the scalp, and irritation of biting and stinging insects; will relieve itching Piles when nothing else will have any effect. Ask for VAN DYKE'S SULPHUR SOAP; insist upon it, and take no substitute. Sold by Druggists. Andenbusch & Miller, Proprietors, No. 30 Caldwehill Street, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale by M. L. HAVING gained an enviable local reputation, displacing all other preparations in the vicinity of discovery, is, on its merits alone, recognized as a wonderful remedy wherever known. A fair trial will convince the most skeptical of its curative powers. It effectually cleanses the nasal passages of Catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions; allays inflammation and irritation; protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds; completely heals the sores and restores the sense of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure Catarrh. As a household remedy for cold in the head it is unequaled. MILITARY ANTS OF THE AMAZON.

The Nineteenth Century has the following: The most astonishing insects, if not the most astonishing animals, in the world, are the so-called "foraging," or, as they might more appropriately be called, the military ants of the Amazon. They belong to several species of the same genus, and have been carefully watched by Bates, Belt, and other naturalists. The following facts must therefore be regarded as fully established.

Eciton legionis moves in enormous armies, and everything that these insects do is done with the most perfect instinct of military organization. The army marches in the form of a rather broad and regular column, hundreds of yards in length. The object of the march is to capture and plunder other insects, etc., for food and as the well organized host advances, its devastating legions set all other terrestrial life at defiance. From the main column there are sent out smaller lateral columns, the composing individuals of which play the part of scouts—branching off in various directions, and searching about with the utmost activity for insects, grubs, etc., over every log and under every fallen leaf. If prey is found in sufficiently small quantities for them to manage alone, it is immediately seized and carried to the main column; but if the amount is too large for the scouts themselves to deal with, messengers are sent back to the main column, whence there is immediately dispatched a detachment large enough to cope with the requirements. Insects or other prey which, when killed, are too large for single ants to carry, are torn in pieces, and the pieces conveyed back to the main army by different individuals. Many insects in trying to escape run up bushes and shrubs, where they are pursued from twig to twig by their remorseless enemies, till arriving at some terminal ramification they must either submit to immediate capture by their pursuers, or drop down amid the murderous hosts below.

As already stated, all the spoils which are taken by the scouts, or by the detachments sent out in answer to their demands for assistance, are immediately taken back to the main army or column by two smaller columns of carriers' which are constantly running in two double rows (one of each being laden and the other not) on either side of the main column. On either side of the main column there are constantly running up and down a few individuals of smaller size, lighter color, and having larger heads than the other ants. These appear to perform the duty of officers, for they never leave their stations, and while actively running up and down the outside of the column, they seem intent only on maintaining order in the march, stopping every now and then to touch some member of the rank and file with their antennæ, as if giving directions.

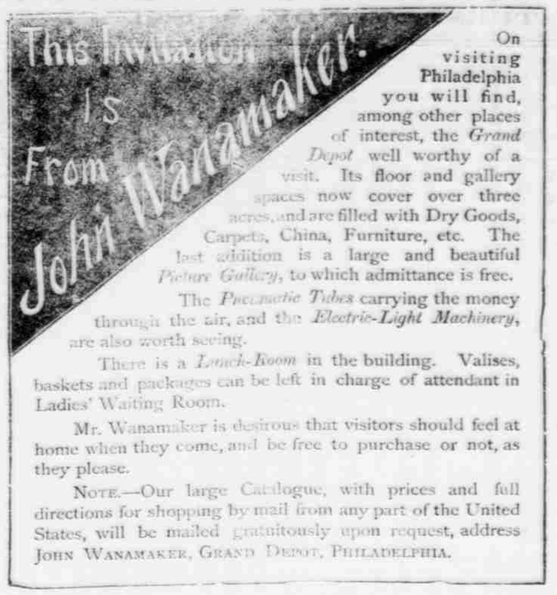
When the scouts discover a wasp's nest in a tree, a strong force is sent out from the main army, the nest is pulled to pieces, and all the larvæ in the nest are carried by the carrier columns to the rear of the army, while the wasps fly around defenseless against the invading multitudes. Or, if the nest of any other species of ant is found, a similarly strong force is sent out, or even the whole army may be deflected toward it, when with the utmost energy the innumerable insects set to work to sink shafts and dig mines till the whole nest is rifled of its contents. In these mining operations the Ecitons work with an extraordinary display of organization co-operation; for those low down in the shafts do not lose time by carrying up the earth which they excavate but pass on the pellets to those above, and the ants on the surface, when they receive the pellets, carry them only just far enough to insure that they shall not roll back again into the shaft, and, after having deposited them at a safe distance, immediately hurry back for more.

The Ecitons have no fixed nest themselves, but live, as it were, on a perpetual campaign. At night, however, they call a halt, and pitch a camp. For this purpose they usually select a piece of broken ground in the interstices of which they temporarily store their plunder.

THE NEWSPAPER IN THE FARMHOUSE.—People who live near the great thoroughfares, where they have access to two or three dailies and a half dozen weeklies, do not fully appreciate the value of a newspaper. They come, indeed, to look upon them as necessities, and they would as cheerfully do without their morning meal as their morning mail. But one must be far off in the country, remote from "the maddening crowd," to realize the full luxury of a newspaper. The farmer who receives but one paper a week does not glance over its columns hurriedly, with an air of impatience, as does your merchant or lawyer. He begins with the beginning and reads to the close, not permitting a news item or an advertisement to escape his eye. Then it has to be thumbed by every member of the family, each one looking for things in which he or she is most interested. The grown-up daughter looks for the marriage notices, and is delighted if the editor has treated them to a love story. The son who is just about to engage in farming, with an enthusiasm that will carry him far in advance of his father, reads all the crop reports and has a keen eye for hints about improved mode of culture. The younger members of the family come in for the amusing anecdotes and scraps of fun. All look forward to the day that shall bring the paper with the liveliest interest, and if by some unlucky chance it fails to come it is a bitter disappointment. One can hardly estimate the amount of information which a paper that is not only read but studied can carry into a family. They have, week by week, spread before their mental vision a panorama of the busy world, its fluctuations and its concerns. It is the poor man's library, and furnishes as much mental food as he has time to consume and digest. No one who has observed how much those who are far away from the places where men most congregate value their weekly paper can fail to join in invoking a blessing on the inventor of this means of intellectual enjoyment.

THE GREAT DROUTH OF 1819.—An intelligent and pious Shaker, of Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, tells of the 'great drouth' of 1819, when from early summer to the middle of January there was no rain, the air was so hot and dry that everything was parched up. The cattle became afflicted with the 'hot weather itch' and thousands died, literally tearing the skin from their sides and backs in their frantic efforts to scratch themselves to relieve the intolerable itching. Deer and horses died with black tongue; fowls and birds became listless and stupified, moped in despair, lost their plumage and died in utter misery. Many people died of disease contracted by eating dusty food and drinking foul carbonate water. Forest fires raged everywhere for months, and the air was filled with smoke and ashes. Fresh vegetables were soon exhausted, the cattle were too diseased to be used for food, water was scarce and unfit to drink, fires were raging and the whole population afflicted with disease in some shape. This state of things lasted until the middle of January, when the blessed rain and the really beautiful snow came and saved the country from utter annihilation.

NEVER forget that biliousness and constipation are entirely curable with MANALIN.



On visiting Philadelphia you will find, among other places of interest, the Grand Depot well worthy of a visit. Its floor and gallery spaces now cover over three acres, and are filled with Dry Goods, Carpets, China, Furniture, etc. The last addition is a large and beautiful Picture Gallery, to which admittance is free.

The Pneumatic Tubes carrying the money through the air, and the Electric-Light Machinery, are also worth seeing.

There is a Lunch-Room in the building. Valises, baskets and packages can be left in charge of attendant in Ladies' Waiting Room.

Mr. Wanamaker is desirous that visitors should feel at home when they come, and be free to purchase or not, as they please.

THE JUICE OF A LEMON.

That purely physical causes have more to do with intemperance than any innate or acquired moral preversity is coming to be very generally admitted by those who have made a study of the subject. The power of the human will, vigorously and persistently put forth, especially when aided by the Divine grace, frequently avails to reform the drunkard, and the instances of such reformation are too numerous to allow for further question on this point. Such cases, however, are those in which the abuse of intoxicating liquors is in a measure voluntary, and therefore subject to control on the part of him who has fallen under the influence of this vice. Even where drunkenness has become habitual, if it is merely a habit it may be broken off, no matter how strong the depraved appetite has become. This is only saying that in all lapses from morality moral forces within or without the man may be effectively employed to bring him back to virtue from indulgence in any vice whatever, unless there are physical conditions in the case that require a resort to something else.

Where drunkenness is a disease, as it certainly is in many cases, it is as difficult to reform from it as it would be to reform from indigestion, rheumatism or any other malady. In instances of the kind supposed simply moral appliances are not sufficient to effect sure and permanent results. What may be called the periodical—or, rather intermittent—drunkard comes under this description. He does not drink habitually and regularly, but spasmodically, as it were. He will go for months without liquor and apparently without desiring it, until all of a suddden he enters upon a protracted and desperate debauch. When this is over with he remains entirely sober for another period of greater or less duration, and then yields again.

This kind of a drunkard, if he may be correctly called such, is not led away by dissolute companions. He is not tempted from without. His first drink is usually taken alone, and when the spell of his long abstinence is once broken he throws off all restraint and plunges into the wildest excess. He is for all practical intents and purposes beside himself.

The sudden and imperious access of this strange craving for alcoholic stimulants mystifies many people, and very few pretend to be able to comprehend it. The dull, inert condition that almost universally precedes such attacks is a fact that needs to be noted in this connection. The condition is said by the physician to be owing to an inactive or torpid liver, and were it promptly corrected the overmastering desire for liquor which supervenes would pass away without being yielded to. To those who are afflicted in the way described, and who will recognize in what is here said an attempted portrayal of their sad experience, a corrective is recommended which will be found effective in a great many cases, and which has the merit of being exceedingly simple. It is taking the juice of half a lemon the last thing at night before retiring and the first thing on rising in the morning. It can do no harm to try this prescription.—Philadelphia Record.

VISIT TO A VERMONT PEG FACTORY.

The timber used is black and yellow birch, which is cut into pieces four feet in length, varying in diameter from eight to fourteen inches. These logs are placed in a building in winter and the frost extracted by steam. They are then run in on a tram railway to the circular saw department, and cut into slices or planks of the thickness desired for the length of the peg. These are sorted and the knots cut out, and are then passed on to a long bench which contains six machines composed of fluted rollers. The backs are then run between these rollers, which creases both sides. They are then run through again to cross-crease, or mark out the exact sizes of the pegs. Then they go to the splitting machines, which are set with double knives, and cut the blocks into pegs. As they pass the last machine they are sorted, and all knotty and discolored ones are brushed off into large baskets. These machines are under the care of young women, who appeared much more happy and useful than do many of those who, thundering at their pianos, would consider such employment menial. The next process is bleaching, which is accomplished by the fumes of brimstone, which is unhealthy, (those who labor here shorten their lives.)—They are then placed in large cylinders, which hold eleven barrels, and have 600 steam pipes running through them, and revolve one and one-half times to the minute, drying two charges per day to each cylinder. They are then passed into large wooden casks or cylinders, which, revolving rapidly, polish them by friction, the refuse falling through wire sieves or screen openings, after which they are again passed into a sifter which separates all the single pegs and drops them into tubes and boxes, leaving those which have not been separated in the machine. They are then put in barrels ready for market. The factory running on full time turns out 150 bushels, or fifty barrels, per day. The sizes go from eight up to sixteen to an inch. The length go by eights, two and one-half to twelve. Twenty-six hands are employed, half of them being women. The products of the mill are mostly shipped to Germany and France, and enter largely into the manufacture of toys and fancy goods, as well as into the shoe manufactory. Thus the "genii of mechanism" converts, as if by magic, the trees from the Vermont mountains into articles of use, which, floating off through the channels of commerce to far-away countries, anon return to sparkle the eyes of happy children in toys in which these pegs have become important factors.

ALL kinds of burns, including scalds and sunburns, are almost immediately relieved by the application of a solution of soda to the burnt surface. It must be remembered that dry soda will not do unless it is surrounded with a cloth moist enough to dissolve it. This method of sprinkling it on and covering it with a wet cloth is often the very best. But it is sufficient to wash the wound repeatedly with a strong solution. It would be well to keep a bottle of it always on hand, made so strong that more or less of it settles on the bottom. This is what is called a saturated solution, and really such a solution as this is formed when the dry soda is sprinkled on and covered with a moistened cloth. It is thought by some that the pain of a burn is caused by the hardening of the albumen of the flesh which presses on the nerves, and that the soda dissolves the albumen and relieves the presure. Others think that the burn generates an acrid acid, which the soda neutralizes.

TOMATOES IN THE WINTER.—Mr. Brackett stated last February, at a Boston horticultural meeting, that he had a hundred pots of tomatoes, the seed of which was sown in July, and he gathered fruit in December. Some of the pots were set in the ground and the plants rooted down into it, and these continued to bear best, but did not give so handsome fruit as those in pots on the greenhouse shelf. The indoor plants being much shaded, ran up and touched the glass, and the tips were thus frozen on cold nights, which benefited them like shortening-in. They did as well in six-inch pots as in nine-inch. Those which were watered with liquid manure failed first.
