had skipped these parts, with the charge of fornication and possibly rape hanging over him. The name of that party is John Larimer, and he was arrested in Pittsburgh last Saturday, and the same night was brought before 'Squire Kinkead, of this place, and ordered under bonds in the sum of $800 to appear at March term of Court to answer. The necessary bonds were obtained and the young man returned to Pittsburgh next morning. The suggestion as to rape was not substantiated before the Justice. The girl in the case resides in Cambria township.

Our clever friends Creery, now absent on a hunting expedition, either forgot or didn't know about the change in the railroad schedule, and the result was that they had to take walkers' line Monday morning for Cresson. This annoying mishap prevented them from reaching Tyrone until 5 o'clock that evening, as we learn from a postal card sent us, and which also relates the adven-tures of a deer that had that day been chased from the mountain eact of that place, and running into the town took refuge in a chicken coop owned by Mrs. Dallas, in which it was at once made a prisoner and is now the observed of all observers. It is a fine speci-men and of the feminine gender. -The first issue of the Greene County Democrat, Mr. James F. Campbell's latest news-paper venture, reached us on Tnesday last. It is published at Waynesburg, Pa., and not only bears evidence of that mechanical skill which Mr. Campbell so admirably displays in all his work, but its thirty-two long col-umns are brimful of able editorials, pithy and pertinent local items and correspond-ence, excellent news and miscellaneous selections, and neatly displayed business cards and advertisements. That the Democrat and its publisher may take root and flourish like a green bay tree among the staunch and sturdy Democrats of Greene county is the blessing we wish them with all our heart. By order of Council, handbills have been promulgated throughout town giving people understand that no coasting within the orough limits nor no emptying of ashes on a public street shall be hereafter permitted. t is merely a rebash of a borough ordinance passed long ago, and requires no handbill to make it efficacious. With regard to "no pasting" the weather as we write is so deightfully warm and spring like, with no lake of snow to call to remembrance that this is the Christmas time, that we pass it by till we hear from Old Probabilities at Washington. But we have something to say about the "ashes." Is that part of the ordinance to be enforced? Mr. Ed. J. Humphreys is Burgess; Mr. Evan E. Evans is Constable for the East ward, and ex-Sheriff Jas. A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.-The Martinsburg correspondent of the Altoona Tribune writes: Jere. Moore, residing a short dis-tance from town, has been engaged for the past several days in digging a well and had reached a depth of thirty feet. On Monday morning he went to work and soon succeed-ed in putting off a blast which did good work. Mr. Moore descended and loaded up the bucket with limestone to the weight of one hundred or more pounds. When the bucket was within about six feet of the top the rope broke and the bucket and contents procipitated to the bottom, a distance of twenty-five feet. Mr. Moore, at the bottom, was leisurely at work and in a stooping forward position, and this, perhaps, saved his life, if saved at all; the bucket striking him was smashed to atoms and he crushed to the ground. He directed the rope to be lowered, when he deliberately adjusted it around his thighs and directed the party above to draw After landing on terra firms he walked into the house and sent for a physician.— The doctor came and a diagnosis of the case revealed three ribs torn loose, and rib broken n front, the splinters entering the abdomen, the back part of his head was completely scalped, his jaw knocked all out of sorts and his hands lacerated in a terrible manner.— Dr. Bloom, assisted by D. A STRANGE STORY .- About ten years ago the wife of Mr. Bernard McFeely died at her home in St. Augustine, this county, leaving one child, a 4 year old daughter named Mag-gle. Shortly after the death of his wife, Mr. gle. Shortly after the death of his who. McFeely allowed Mr. and Mrs. Mann, who were neighbors, and who had no children of their own, to adopt the child believing that they would bring her up and care for her with as much tenderness as he could bestow. After some years Mr. McFeely went to Rey noldsville, Jefferson county, Pa., and got married again, and the Mann family also left St. Augustine, going to Palestine, Texas, and taking the child Maggie with them. About a year ago Mr. McFeely received a letter rom Mrs. Mann, who was then in Texas, informing him that her husband and Maggle had both died from fever, and in October last Mrs. Mann returned to St. Augustine and told her former acquaintances the same story. A few days ago a letter was received by Rev. Father Ryan, the Catholic priest at St. Augustine, from Palestine, Texas, conthe information that a girl named Maggie McFeely, who formerly resided at St. Augustine, had just recovered from a loug and severe illness, having been confined to her bed for forty-two days. The letter urther said that she had been brought there by a couple named Mann, her adopted pa-rents, who had quarreled and parted, both leaving the town. Some charitable people took charge of the deserted child, but until leaving the town. Some charitable people took charge of the deserted child, but until within a short time back were unable to learn anything concerning her parents or their present location, as the only thing the child remembered of her early home was the name, St. Augustine, and the letter was accordingly addressed to that place. Wm. Barber, 60 years of age, was run over by the cars on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, near Piedmont, and death ensued in about an hour's time. A jury was summoned, and the verdict they rendered, after hear-ing all the testimony, was to the effect: "The said Wm. Barber came to his death by being accidentally struck by Engine No. 187, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 23/2 miles accidentally struck by Engine No. 187, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 234 miles east of Piedmont, West Virginia., on the night of December 12, 1881." With the body was found a valise containing clothing; several handkerchiefs, one a fine bright silk one; a Methodist lymn book having the name of Amanda Barber written in it; a photograph album containing a number of pictures, on one was written "Wm. Barber, His Album," and on a fly-leaf the words "Wm. Barber, Ebensburg, Cambria county, Pennsylvania." Several persons the paper goes on to say, had seen him in town during the afternoon nad seen him in town during the afterno of Monday, and it was said by some that he had lately been working up Deep Run, on the West Va. Central and Pittsburg Rail-road. The supposition is that he had started to walk fo Keyser, and being somewhat near-sighted and a little deaf, he failed to notice the approach of the engine until too late, when no doubt the glare of the light blinded him. His body was buried on Piedmont hill extra cloth binding, price $12; in half russia,

The question now comes in—who was this Wm, Barber? It is said that a man of the same name formerly lived a few miles south of Phanchara at a poor what is known to the same of the same formerly lived a few miles south of Phanchara at a poor what is known to the same of the same formerly lived a few miles south of Phanchara at a poor what is known to the same of the same of the same formerly lived a few miles south of the same formerly lived a same name formerly lived a few miles south of Ebensburg, at or near what is known as California Mill, and his identity ought therefore to be traced up without much difficulty.

A QUEER SUIT .- James Stinson, of Altoons, was the ward of a rich aunt and her prospective heir. He was engaged to be rried to Mary Price, an estimable young lady. She was a churchgoer. He was not. He a ways accompanied her to the church door Sunday evenings, and then waited out-side until the services were over to take her home. A number of young men were in the - habit of congregating about the Methodist church door on similar duty. The church officers came to look upon their presence as city ordinance forbidding the custom under be superfluous on our part to vouch for him, but we can say, and cheerfully say, that all who patronize him will find him a square dealing man, whose word in the square dealing man, whose word in the square of th girl. On a recent Sunday night a policeman arrested him and locked him up over night. This was a disgrace that his girl could not overlook. She dismissed him. His rich aunt was also so scandalized that she disinherited him, changing her will. To recom-pense himself for these losses Stinson has prought suit against the city, placing his dam ages at $50,000.

The indications are favorable for a busy season during the approaching holidays, and our merchants are stocking up so as to be ready to meet all demands that may be made upon them. Among others who have been putting their houses is order for the occasion, is Mr. Georpe W. Biggs, the well-known jeweler, of No. 120 Smithfield street, on a direct line from the Union depot. He has just returned from the east with a stock of goods which surpasses in extent and variety anything he has yet exhibited in this city. It consists of jewelry of the very larest and most ingenious designs. He has also sterling silver and plated ware. Parian cuses, bronzes, fancy clocks, gold and silver watches and chains for ladies and gentlemen, diamonds, and the contract of watches and chains for ladies and gentlemen, diamonds, pearls and other precious stones; in fact everything that is suitable for a present either during the boliday season or at any other time. Mr. Bigus has been in business here for so many years that he knows just what to provide for the holiday trade, and he never fails to give satisfaction. His stock this year is larger and finer than ever before, and must be seen to be appreciated. Selections can be made now and goods left until wanted, thus avoiding the rush at a later period. Ladies or gentlemen looking around for holiday goods should not fail to stop at this old and reliable establishment. Prices are as low as the lowest. Every article will be gearanteed. OBITUARY.

The deceased was a native of Ireland, but came to this country when a voung man, and after living in Pottstown, this State, for four or five years, he came to this county and settled on a form in that part of Allegheny township known as "Hickory Relige," where he continued to reside until the time of his denth—a seriod of about fifty years. He was a quiet, peaceable, appright citizen, a devant Catholie, honest in all his dentings with his fellow men, by whom he was greatly respected, and his denth even at an age so patriarchal will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends. He was possessed of extraordinary physical endurance, and in his carry years never knew what it was to be prostrated on a sick bed. Later thowever, when age began to tell on his rugged form and when he had long outlived the time usually alloted to ordinary mortals here below, his former vicer departed, and as years rolled by he continued to sink until the end was mails reached. Then, at the close of a long and prosperous continued to sink until the end was mails reached. Then, at the clowe of a long and prosperous life well spent, he half him down to rest singing into a calm and penceful sleen, from which as we have reason to hope, he awoke in a brighter and better world, where all is joy and peace and where sorrow entereth hot. His remains were interred on Monday, Dec. 5th, in the Catholic cametery at Loretto, whither they were followed by a large concourse of relatives and friends, who had come to pay the last and tribute to one when they had known so long and loved so well. May his soul rest in peace.
