LETTER FROM MORMONDOM.

FORT THORNBURG, U. T., Jan. 29, '82. FRIEND McPike— * * * * * * * * While I am writing you I might as well scratch a few lines more, though I have nothing of importance to write about, and what I have will probably be of no interest

This post was established last September, and is garrisoned by four companies of the 6th U. S. Infantry. It is located near the junction of the Green and White rivers, and also near the Duchesne river, which empties into the Green not far from here, in the south-eastern part of the territory near the Colorado line, and is called after Major Thornburgh, who was killed by the White River Ute Indians in Colorado in the fall of 1879. In 1880 and 1881 the Government purchased the Ute Indian reservation in olorado from said tribe, and gave them part of the Uintah reservation, on the boundary line of which this post is located. The agency for the Uintahs and the White River Utes is about thirty-five miles northwest from here, on the Uintah river. Before I go any further, I must state that there are several tribes of Utes known by the part of the country they inhabit. Uintah Utes are so called because they stay there and have their agency on the Uintah river; the White River Utes are known by their camp and agency on White river, and the Uncompaligre Utes, by their camp on the Uncompaligre river, and so on. The Government has established a reservation for the Uncompangre, and I believe for another tribe or two of the Utes, some two or three miles from here, on Green some two or three miles from here, on Green river. The object of this post is to protect the settlers in this part of the territory.—

There are two settlements of Mormons location that the valley of Green river, and there is the day he in a passion flew. ted in the valley of Green river, and there are also quite a number of cattle men, who have large herds feeding through this district. The White River Utes and Uncompaligres, they say, are dissatisfied with their change of location, and should they make a break they would make hot times for our boys (soldlers). The weather here is quite cold—twelve to fourteen degrees below zero at nights. In coming here we had to encounter from three to four feet of snow for about

50 or 60 miles, some days making only from nine to twelve miles, and requiring eight days to travel one hundred and forty miles, that being the distance from the nearest point on railroad. The road for the most art is very mountainous, with no ranches for the weary traveler to stop at, a tent at night being his sole domicile. It is considered fine sport to camp out in the summer season, but at this time of the year it is far from desirable. No doubt it is a very healthy life, this kind of business, as it furnishes plenty of out-door exercise. At least you would judge so if you were to see me—two

FOUR MORE RAILROAD ACCIDENTS. -One accident treads closely on the heels of another on the Pennsylvania Railroad. A most terrible accident occurred at a very early hour on Thursday morning of last week, about four miles west of Huntingdon. It was caused by a coal car which was attached to the end of a west bound freight train jumping the track, and running along over the ties unperceived in the darkness, and finally coming in contact with the engine of intally coming in contact with the engine of an eastern bound train, precipitating the latter down an embankment forty feet high and dragging several cars after it.
