The day was wet and the streets slippery, but the people would not allow themselves to be deprived of the spiritual entertaiument of this occasion; hence the appointed hour found a fine, large andience in attendauce. The scruces were opened with a voluntary by the choir. The singing, it is proper to any just here, was a delightful feature of the day. The pieces we re well chosen and their rendition showed the members of the choir to be gifted and cultivated vocalists and the organist a fine musician. The singing was strong, forcilite, well-timed, and its effect was not infrequently thrilling. Her. Daniel Harbison, a former pastor of the congregation, but now of Catasanqua, Pa., delivered the dedicatory sormon, taking for his text John iv, 19-24. Mr. Harbison, is coming among us on this occasion, revived old and sucred resoluctions, and his presence and preaching were exceedingly edifying to all who saw and hearth him.
