A BIG DAY FOR EBENSBURG. Dedication of Cambria's New Court House.

WHAT WAS SAID AND DONE ON THAT INTER-ESTING OCCASION - SOMETHING ABOUT THE GRAND EDIFICE AND THE BIG BANQUET WHICH FOLLOW-ED ITS DEDICATION.

Had our friends of the legal profession consulted the renowned Vennor on the sub-ject of the weather they might have hit upon much more propitions day for the dedicaion of the new Court House than vesterday for the most part proved to be. This fact, however, did not interfere with the carrying out of the programme in all its details, tho' it no doubt deterred many from putting in an appearance who under more favorable circumstances would most likely have been

The dedicatory ceremonies were of course held in the large and handsome court reom. which was filled to repletion with people of both sexes from various parts of the county, as well as a fair sprinkling from other counties, notably Blair, many of whom came by special train and were escorted from the station by members of the Cambria county bar and the Carrolltown silver cornet band, the latter of which discoursed some fine music on the streets at various intervals throughout the day. The assemblage was called to order at 10:30 A. M. by A. V. Barker, Esq., chairman of the Arrangement Committee, after which the following named officers were chosen: President, Hon, John Fenlon, Ebensburg: Vice Presidents, Hon. Sam'l Cal-yin, Hollidaysburg, and J. W. Mattern, Esq., Huntingdon; Secretaries, Messrs, John C. Gates, Ebensburg, and J. Frank Condon,

On taking the chair Mr. Fenlon returned thanks to his brethran of the bar for the honor conferred and congratulated the people of the county on the completion of the elegant edifice for the dedication of which they were introduced Gen. Joseph McDonald, who in that graceful and dignified manner for which he is proverbial delivered the following

ADDRESS OF WELCOME. LADIES. YOUR HONORS, AND GENTLEWEN-AS ory of Cambria county, it is fitting that it should tory of Cambria county, it is fitting that it should be celebrated with appropriate dedicatory observances. We have assembled for that purpose this day, and the pleasing duty has been assigned med extending to you a sincers and hearty welcome. We are proud to have you with ur on this occasion. We are gladdened by your presence, and assure you that the kindliest contests will be extended to you

The Law, which is the exemplar of civilization in all ages and countries, ranks you, gentlemen of the Bench and Bar amongst its honored minis-ters. And here and now, in this Temble of Jus-tice about to be dedicated, your presence adds deaths, the countries of the presence and the contry to the occasion.

This splendid edifice, in contrast with the primitive structure near it, attests the material process of Cambria county within the last fifty gress of Cambria county within the last fifty years. The vast increase in our nopulation, the wonderful development of our mineral wealth, agricultural resources and manufacturing enterprise have alike called for the erection of this building. And here it stands, in all its grand proportions, with all the accessories and conveniences that a Court House should possess. Firmly and deeply imbedded in rock, its foundations are secure and its walls perfect and towering over all, the "Goddess of Justice" stands with "Sworl and Scales." the emblems of her mission and her authority. we rejoice that this great work has been con-ople: a lasting testimonial to the skill of hiteet who planned and to the indefatigait. Grand as this structure is, it is not in advance of the requirements of the times or the necessities of the people. The pince where justice is judicially administered. Should be entable to the great purpose of the law. And when we reflect upon the important issues determined in Court—how every one in the community is interested at one time or another in matters before it and are constrained to be present—how important it is to have the public records as fely lodged and muniment of title preserved for all time. When these things are considered it cannot be regarded that the public outlay on this building was uncalled for. So far as I am informed, its erection meets the approbation of all. The work was not done too soon—not before it was needed, nor until its want was painfully telt. As the very best material has been procured and most skillfully utilized in this structure, we have reason to induly the rial has been procured and most skillfully utilized in this structure, we have reason to include the hope that it may long remain without need of material reparation. This village has a pleasant seat, and this building an eligible location. Being more than two thousand feet above the ocean level, it can be seen from afar. It is the first and fairest object of architectural beauty that arrives the beholder on approaching our town. The sartlest beams of the morning sun wild it, and "parting day lingers and plays around its turrets."

To the lailies who have graced this occasion by their presence we are profoundly thankful. These their presence we are profoundly thankful. They are always to be found encouraging beneates and proper objects; and as none are more interest.

There is no lawyer insensing to the attractions the ladies, or intifferent to their interests. We are cheered by their smiles, animated by their applicates and fracimated by their beauty. On behalf of the gentlemen of the Cambria County Bar, I extend to them, and to all present, a hearty welcome. Next on the programme was the principal forensic effort of the occasion-"Reminiscences of the Bench and Bar of Cambria County"—delivered by R. L. Johnston, Esq., and printed on the first page of our paper this week. It is needless to say that Dr. M. R. B. Creery as Secretary. The foll such a production as might be expected from Johnston is known by everybody to be Judge Dean was the next speaker introduced, and no one who has ever listened to the elequent, forethle and logical utterances of that eminent gentleman need be told that The Judiciary," which was the subject dwelt upon, received full justice at his hands -or rather from his gifted tongue. Having failed to receive an advance copy of this masterly production, owing to the fact that His Honor did not have time to commit his thoughts to paper until the day before its deliverance, and finding that it was too long for our columns had we obtained a copy, as we designed doing, from the notes of the short-hand reporter. Mr. Condon, we are reluctantly obliged to forego the pleasure of laying it before our readers until next week. These were all the speeches provided for by the programme, but Geo. M. Reade, Esq., conceived the happy thought of calling on Hon. Samuel Calvin for a similar favor, and the suggestion meeting with general approval, that gentleman delighted the audience with a happy and felicitous speech of about fifteen minutes' duration, in which he recounted some of his most amusing experiences and pleasing remembrances of the early members of the Cambria county bar. Mr. Calvin's effort, like those which preceded it, was received with the utmost enthusiasm, while the wiftleism with which the second and last speeches abounded were provocative of much merriment. The conclusion of Mr. Calvin's remarks was the signal for adjournment, which ocurred about I o'clock, P. M., the members of the bar and invited guests, to the number of about seventy, proceeding in a body to Beimont Gottage, where a

GRAND BANQUET, certainly not the least enjoyable feature of a most interesting occasion, was bountifully provided by the proprietors, Messrs. C. H. Kemp & Bro. Having been one of the L g 's, we were there in full bloom and personally did ample justice to the excellent feast, which is more than we have time and space now to do for it on paper Suffice it to say that the spread did infinite credit to the Messrs. Kemp and was fully enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of participating. The dining-room was tastefully decorated with evergreens and cut flowers, but it is scarcely necessary to say that the cut meats and delicious viands with which the latter were laden had more attractions just then for the hungry multi-tude than all of nature's beauties combined. Everything in the way of substantials and delicacies which city or country markets could afford were there in delightful profusion, not omitting even fresh strawberries, large and luscious, and sliced tomatoes and encumbers. It was indeed "a feast of reason." though in no sense of the word "a flow of bowl," not even the usual toasts having been drank and lilated upon. In fact the only thing of a hilarious character provided for the occasion aware it left no real pain behind. So much, then, for the big banquet, which we would say more about were we not too full (in our columns) for further utterance; and ten and very imperfect account we append the following graphic DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW BUILDING. The Court House just abandoned was con-demned by two consecutive Grand Juriesfirst, at December term, 1879, and again at March term, 1880—and an order of Court was filed endorsing the action of these two bodies. The Board of County Commission—

Safe, spittoons, mats, &c..... Expenses Commissioners, &c. Work was begun on the outer foundation, on a sub-contract, by Mr. John Rhinehart, of Tyrone, Blair county, in midsummer of 1880. The stone, quarried on the premises of Mr. Griffith J. Lloyd, of Cambria township, and finished in rough axler style, was all, or nearly all, satisfactorily laid before the end of

The building is of the French rennissance order of architecture, with the general form of a parallelogram, and is 120 feet front on Centre street by a depth of 80 feet toward the east. From the ground to the eaves of the roof is 48 feet, and to the top of the statue of the Godess of Justice surmounting the tower, 165 feet. The outer walls are of Philadelphia pressed brick, manufactured by Messrs. H. & G. Evans, to the number of 80,000; the brick for the inner walls were manufactured here by Contractor Shenk, and umber about 720,000. Both outer and inner brick were laid by the day, under the super-intendence of Mr. Charles Marks, of Eric, who from the beginning of 1881 till the com-pletion of the contract, acted as the efficient foreman for the contractor. The outside above and around the windows and corners is trimmed with Ohio cut stone, of a gray color, procured at the Sandusky quarries. Mr. Thomas Norton, of Buffalo, New York, secured the sub-contract for preparing this stone, but, unfortunately dying in the early part of 1881, the work was completed by Mr Shenk through Mr. Marks. The main entrance is toward the west, where s-ven steps of cut stone running three ways lead to the vestibule. Close by are two netal pedestals for lamps. The lamps, two in number, are received but not yet swung in Two double doors guard the approach to the vestibule and two double doors to the corridor within. Three upright columns of cut stone occupy a conspic place at this entrance, one on either side of the doors and one in the centre. The column to the north is supported by a cut stone base, in which, on the last day of May, 1881, in a iollow enclosure, was deposited a number of papers, documents, currency, coins, &c. It is tec nically denominated the "cornerstone" of the edifice. A passage-w-y or en-try leads from the north to the south, access to which is gained by the ascent of a flight of steps nine in number at either end. The tower is adorned with Gothic designs, at once unique and elegant. A deep-toned bell of 2,000 pounds weight, cast by the McShane firm of Baltimore, has a habitation here, and four-faced clock, made in Boston, strikes the hours close by. Four pavillons, 22x27 feet at the base and sloped to 10x20 feet at the top, occupy positions at either end of the main roof, assisting the tower to give grace and semmetry to the structure. vanized iron work noticeable here and else where on the building was done by the Philadelphia Metal and Roofing Company. main roofing is of slate, laid by Messrs. Ev ans & Cummings, Pittsburgh, while the con-struction of the tin-work at all points was ooked to by Mr. Marks.

The main corridor leading from the vestibule in front is 19 feet wide, and like the rest of the first story is 15 feet in height. It runs eastward to the centre of the corridor ning north and south, which is 12 feet in width. The floors of the corridors as well as of the vanits in the adjacent offices. omposed of marble tiles, 12 inch blocks, alternate white and black. These were furnished by the Vermont Marble Company. In and immediately in front of the main entrance is a slab of marble, imbedded in the wall, bearing the following names and fig-

The Trensurer's office is chalice, broken into two pieces, was also southward, 21x26 feet, with a private office, an iron-lined vault containing an approved safe for the county funds. At the southwest-ern corner is an arbitration-room, 21x27 feet. Across the corridor to the east will be found the Sheriff's office, 21x27 feet, and north of this the Prothonotary's office, 21x23 feet, with a vault 12x21 feet. The office of the Register and Recorder adjoins, 21x23 feet, with a vault 12x21 feet. An office on the northeastern corner is dnished and furnished but not yet occupied. It will likely be occupled by the District Attorney.

These rooms are all finished in hard wood

so far as the desks are concerned, while the chairs, tables, etc., furnish forth all necessary facilities for the rapid and easy transacion of business. Water from the Ebensburg Water Works runs through this part of the building as elsewhere, and, though steam is the agent employed to keep the atmosphere comfortable, yet open fire-places lapped on the sides with marble and with mantels of the same material are seen in each room. The furniture and trimmings everywhere, See, were furnished by Messrs, Banschard

From the main corridor at the north of this floor a double flight of stairs leads to a lobby on the second floor. The lobby is 14x22 feet, with the flooring made of tiling. To the right, proceeding in this direction, is the waiting room for ladies so unfortunate as to be compelled to attend Court—a room 21x23 To the left is the Grand Jury room, if feet. In front is the main entrance to 21x23 feet. In front is the main entrance to the Court Room, which is 60x80 feet. This room is 24 feet 6 inches from floor to ceiling. The space set apart for the Bar is 36 fee from south to north, whilst the balance of the room is reserved for the general public. The Bench for the Judges is of walnut, plendidly carved, with reversible and oscillating chairs located thereon, and upholsterleather. The seating capacity outside the Bar is supposed to be 500, and inside, giving ample sitting facilities, 200. The tade and desk for the Prothenotary and the Register and Recorder is immediately in front of the Judges' bench, and is a marvel of convenience. To the left is the traverse jury box, with the witnesses' box between. This is a radical change from the order which pre-vailed in the old Court House, where both traverse jury box and witness box were to the right. "Such a combination of circumstances," said His Honor Judge Dean, threw the shadow of the arm on the manuscript when one was taking notes of testi-mony." The Bar is laid with Brussels carpet of elaborate texture, while in the audience part of the room, as well as throughout the several offices, linoleum deadens the footfall. The windows are furnished with Venetian shutters; ventilators abut here and there, and open fire-places and hot air distributors may be seen at the proper places. The seats for the auditorium number 56, and are made for the auditorium number 50, and are made of ash tipped with walnut. An abundance of light is furnished by the windows, but at night an 8 foot reflector, comprising 64 burn-ers, located twenty-three feet from the floor, will do service in stead. The basement contains a 30-horse double boiler, bought from Messrs. E. H. Cook & Co., Rochester, New York. It will be run on the low pressure principle, and a single holler is thought to be capable of furnishing all the steam necessary to heat the entire building. Coal and wood rooms are to be found here, as well as the common waterclosets. Immediately to the east is the gasworks. The fluid is made by a machine furnished by Messrs. Elkins & Co., Philadelphia, out of gasoline, of a capacity known as a 500-light machine. It is claimed for it that one filling of the tank will furnish all the illumination required by all the rooms and offices for the term of three months without replen-

Both gentlemen-the architect and contractor, as well as the capable general manager, Mr. Marks—have done well their part, and their monument is upreased to the scrutiny of all who want to see; and how do you like it?

> DEATH OF JAMES G. FLANIGAN, Esq. -We leeply regret to announce the death of that young and brilliant member of the Altoona bar, James G. Flanigan, Esq., whom we knew intimately and always esteemed from his earliest youth, which sad event occurred after a brief illness in Denver, Colorado, on Thursday of last week. The deceased, who had just reached the thirty fifth year of his age, was born in Ireland, and came to Alona with his parents when he was a mere child. He became a pupil in the Catholic school in that city under Mr. Timothy Brophy at one time so well and favorably known in this place as a most competent teacher, and after having passed through a thorough course in the dead languages and higher mathematics, he entered Mt. St. Mary's College, near Emmettsburg, Maryland, where he graduated with high honor at the end of two years He was admitted to the Blair county ar in 1876, and in the Spring of 1881 was thosen City Solicitorfly the Common Council of Altoona, and served in that capacity until the new Council was organized last Sprin Near the clase of the first month of the proent year he was married to Miss Regina Reli-ly, in St. John's Catholic church, Altoona, with what seemed the brightest future pros-pects in life, so far as man can judge of the future, in store for him. He left Altoona only about two months ago for a tour through the far West and had written home that he intended returning during the week previous to his untimely death, which seems to have been caused by brain fever. His aged father still resides in Altoona and also his eldest brother, John, and two sisters. Another brother resides in Mansfield, Ohio, and another sister in Philadelphia. We knew him well and monrafully join in the sinesre and genuine feeling of sorrow which the sad news of his untimely death has caused to his legion of friends and admirers in Altoona and elsewhere. For his young wife in her great bereavement universal sympathy will be felt. The remains of the deceased arrived in Altoona on Tuesday evening, and yesterday morning they were borne to St. John's Catholic church, and after the customary funeral ceremonies, were conveyed to the cemetery and laid to rest in the famly lot. That God may grant rest to his sou our sincere and heartfelt prayer, in which all will join who knew him to admire him for his brilliant talents, his noble, unselfish nature, and his genial, generous disposition.

THE CARROLLTOWN BURGLARY. - The folwing details of the burglary at the convent of the Sisters of St. Benedict, Carrolltown, on the morning of the 18th Instant, to which we could only briefly refer last week, are gleaned from the last issue of the Carroll-town News. The burglars entered the convent about three o'clock in the morning, through a basement window, and one of them, leaving his shoes outside, first secured the chalice, paten (sacred host plate), and a number of medals. While engaged in rifling a trunk in the room of one of the Sisters, the latter was awakened, whereupon ordered her to show where the money was kept. The Sister declared that she knew of no money being in the house. One of his accomplices at this juncture made his appearance and a demand was made to be shown the room of the Mother Prioress, which was done. When the Prioress opened the door and saw the situation outside, she instantly closed it, and hastening to a winures: "Erected 1881, Architect, M. E. Decke, Contractor, Henry Stenk: Commissioners, John Campbell, Samuel W. Davis, George Gurley: Clerk, E. R. Dunegan: Counsel, A. who at once fled. About 7 o'clock in the morning one of the men was arrested in Esq. town, and in his possession was found the found, the cup on the road near the barn and the base in the hav in the barn, where the burglar had been resting. He was taken be-fore the Sister whom he had compelled to show him the room of the Prioress, and she at once identified him. He gave his name as Karl Meyer and was brought here and comfail the same day. None of the others have as yet been apprehended, al-though every effort has been made to do so. It is to be hoped that the arrest of Meyer will put an end to the repeated cowardly at tempts made during the past winter in this section of the county on three of the quiet and peaceful homes of the inoffending Sisters.

GEN. COFFROTH'S LIBEL SUIT .- The Somerset county court on Monday last heard acguments on the motion for a new trial in the prosecution for libel, instituted by Gen. Coffroth against the publishers of the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. The case, as our readwill recollect, was tried in the early part of April and a verdict of guilty rendered against the defendants. After the motion had been discussed pro and con. Judge Baer overruled it and sentenced the defendants to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and the costs of prosecution. It was developed on the trial that the matter of the libe; complained of by Gen. Coffroth had been given in Washington to the correspondent in that city of the Commercial Gazette by Gen. Jacob M. Campbell, Mr. Coffroth's successor, and that the correspondent wrote it on and sent it to his employers, who publised it.

That the charge was false does not seem to admit of a doubt, and the least that Gen. Campbell as its originator can now do is to send his check to the Sheriff of Somerset county for the amount of the fine and costs. While this would be no reparation to the honorable gentleman and faithful public servant, as General Coffroth proved himself to be, it would atone to some extent for the trouble and expense which his scandalons tongue has brought on those who were led by him to do an injustice to a man who was n every sense his superior as a representative of the people of this district in the balls of Congress.

... ATTEMPTED SUICIDE .- A young man named Harry Smith, who was born and raised in this place, was, until Saturday last, employed in the office of the Gautier Wire Mill in Conemaugh borough. On the after-roon of that day an envelop containing nearly one hundred dollars belonging to an em-plove of the works, was abstracted from the safe in the office where young Smith was employed, and circumstances pointed to him as the person who committed the theft. He was thereupon charged with it, but as-serted his innocence. His father, who formerly resided here, and is a highly respectable man, was notified of the matter, and succeeded in getting a confession from his son that he had taken the money, the whole of which was handed over by Harry to his father and paid over by the latter to the su perintendent of the Works. On Monday evening after supper young Smith, who had been in this place on that day, attempted to put an end to his life by swallowing a large dose of two different kinds of deadly drugs, but Dr. Yeagley, fortunately happen ing to be in the vicinity of the young mar home at the time, was promptly called in and succeeded in saving his life. The young man's mother, who is in frail health, was, like himself, born and raised in our town, and both she and her husband have the sympathy of all their friends in his community in the trouble brought upon them by their

DEATH OF A FORMER EBENSBURG LADY.

-Mrs. Ruth B. Linton, widow of the late ex-Sheriff Robert P. Linton, died at her residence in Johnstown, on Sunday last aged nearly seventy years. She was born in Huntingdon county and was a daughter of Matthew Buchannan, who at an early day settled in the village of Munster, this county, where he kept a hotel, and afterwards re moved to this place, where he followed the same business in the frame building which stood on the lot adjoining the Congregational church, and which was taken down only a few weeks ago. The deceased was married to Sheriff Linton in this place in 1848 and was his second wife. Bring the wreaths for brother's grave,
Sacred rights of home and nation,
Brother gave his life to save! Then a fair and noble woman.

With some silver in her hair, All with wreaths and blossoms laden, Did a soldier's offering bear.

Said an nged, tottering father, With the lapse of years grown gray, "This is Decoration, mother, We must strew our grave to-day?" Said a youth, in blooming vigor, "I must deek my brother's bed. For he pulled the rifle-trigger Where the flag waved o'er his head."

Then a soldier-looking stranger.
Bro't some wreaths to strew the graves:
Said he, "I was out with Granger,
And my heart this duty craves," And a little seven year fairy,
With her hair like showers of gold.
Bearing violets and resemany,
At each grave an effering doled.

For spring has come at last.

The season known as spring has surely come, but accompanying it up to date are cold rains and colder blasta. What are we going to do about it? Why, go and see Jas. J. Murphy, 109 Clinton street. Johnstown, and buy either a suit of cassimere or one of gossamer. He has got both—stacks and stacks of them—all opened and randy for the inapection of the unbile—murked so low that no objection as to refer the made by the most limited. inspection of the unblic-marked so low that no objection as to price can be made by the most impecualous—warranted as to material and make, and if you buy once you cannot refrain from buying again. Mr Murphy asks special attention to his strictly spring into of goods, which, in the nature of things, must be all the fashion next week or the week after.

The housekeeper giveth a cheerful hop, And we hear the musical flippery-flop Of the moisty, misty, maddening mop. And lof the maddening horrors rush Athwart our souls at the scapp auch Of the slippery, slimy, scrubbing-brush.

Of the slippery, slimy, scrubbing-brush. If there is anything so distastofal, disagreeable and disgusting above and beyond something else, it is to see a woman going round molary, mistr, slippery and slimy in a pair of shoes which do not fit her. No man can love her, and no woman envy her. This, so to speak incensibly leads us to remark that the best place in a half-dozen counties where you may buy a pair of neat-fitting shoes, for either indies or gentleinen, is at S. Blumenthall's. He sells the hest of stock, keeps the latest styles on hand, and hundreds of the readers of the Franka's attest his excellent character as a fair dealer.—Order by mail will receive prompt attention.

MAIN'S INTERNATIONAL SHOW gave two exhibi-ions in this place on Monday last, and although cold rain fell during most of the day and the arry part of the night, the attendance at both performances was fully as large as the state of the performances was fully as large as the state of the weather would permit. The "show" was a credit able one, and so far as affording a large amount of amusement to the rising generation is concerned was a complete success. As a variety show I yielded a full return of fun for the admission fee which was only twenty-five cents. We commend it to a liberal support wherever it exhibits.
