

At the State Convention assembled at Harrisburg on Wednesday last and nominated a Lancaster city lawyer, named Brostus, for Congress-at-large, in place of "glorious old Tom Marshall." What else, if anything, was done we are unable to state.

COL. FREDERICK CONKLING, of New York, makes the statement, the truth of which is not likely to be assailed, that during the twenty-two years rule of the Republican party two hundred and ninety-six million acres of public land, as well as sixty-four million of dollars in Government bonds, have been given away to railroad corporations and other monopolies. Here is a declaration worthy the solemn reflection of every citizen of the country.

JUDGE BRADLEY, of the United States Supreme Court, to whom Mr. Reed, the counsel of Guiteau, applied last week for a writ of habeas corpus, filed a denial of the application with the clerk of the Court on Monday last, on the ground that the Court of the District of Columbia had full jurisdiction in the case and that no reason exists for granting the writ. This was Guiteau's last chance and he will undoubtedly be hung on next Friday.

THE Democratic conferees of the Fayette, Westmoreland and Greene districts met on Friday last, and on the second ballot unanimously nominated Charles E. Boyle, of Uniontown, for Congress. This is the first nomination in the State made by the Democrats, and it is one of the very best that will be made by either party anywhere in Pennsylvania. There are few better equipped men than Mr. Boyle for a seat in Congress. Between him and Morgan R. Wise, the present member, the difference is as great as that between a Bengal tiger and a singed cat.

A DESPATCH from the correspondent of the New York Herald, dated near the mouth of the river Lena, Siberia, April 12, 1882, states that Engineer Melville and the searching party with him found the bodies of Lieutenant De Long and his ten companions on the 23d of March about thirty feet from the edge of the river bank. The bodies were in two different places, those of De Long and two others being covered by about a foot of snow, with one of De Long's hands sticking out of the snow. The others were found at another place covered with snow. None of the dead had boots on, their feet being covered with rags which had been tied on. In the pockets of all were pieces of burn skin and of clothing, a part of which were found eaten. The lands of all were more or less lacerated, as though when dying they had crawled into the fire.

WHAT was never done in this country before, or in any other country in the world, was done by the House at Washington on Monday last. Under a suspension of the rules and without a word of debate, it passed a bill appropriating the colossal sum of one hundred millions of dollars for pensions. Let the taxpayers of the United States reflect upon this vast and prodigious expenditure of their money, the one fourth of which, in the belief of Mr. Bentley, the late Commissioner of Pensions, is based on fraudulent claims. As the New York World says, this "is the labor for a year of two hundred thousand laborers voted without debate. It is the bill pay for a year of an army of five hundred and fifty thousand private soldiers that the rules of the House were suspended to distribute among claimants for pensions." In comparison with this huge job, the $17,500,000 River and Harbor bill seems its diminished head. The day of reckoning for these outrages will surely come.

We do not think it all likely that the nomination for Governor at the Democratic State convention at Harrisburg, on Wednesday next, will meet with much favor from the Philadelphia Times, that independent organ having apparently reached the conclusion that the convention is bound to make a mistake. "It warns it against the guidance of "machine placemen and Bourbon stupidity," and predicts a defeat of fearful proportions "if Democracy fails to respond to the imperious demand for candidates of the most pronounced integrity and competency." If there are any "machine placemen" who propose to control the action of the convention they don't live west of the Allegheny mountains, so far as we understand the present aspect of Democratic politics in this State, but must have a local habitation in the Times' own city, where its supposed favorite candidate for Governor resides. The gentlemen most prominent as candidates for the nomination are Hopkins and Trunkley from the west, Wolverton and Cox, from the Susquehanna region, and Monaghan and Pattison, from the extreme east. Will the Times hazard the declaration that either of these candidates is not a man "of the most pronounced integrity and competency," the standard, and the only true one, by which they must be judged by the voters of the State? We believe that the nomination of the new lawless and the effects of the new law will be no "dark horse" kept out of view for a while and then entered in the race to carry off the prize. With such names from amongst which to choose, how can any mistake be committed, or what chances will there be for "machine placemen or Bourbon stupidity," to control the convention? There will be none, absolutely none, and yet from recent and mysterious utterances of the Times our conviction is strengthened that after the nomination has been made the editor will discover that "Bourbon stupidity has triumphed. We must wait and see.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

TURLOCK; STANFORD, CAL., June 8, 1882.

DEAR FRIEND—As my 65th birthday will be here in 10 days, I shall write you a letter just for a birthday present. But I suppose you are so proud of your new House that California news would be a stretch in your nostrils. I was pleased with the advice G. N. S. gave you about making money, and if there was a hereafter I would advise you to take it. If you get no help here in life's trials, you may get to a doorkeeper in the house of the Lord, which David thinks is better than to be a doorkeeper in the house of man. Like the leaders of the Republican party as now doing in Washington, D. C. You are not alone, however, in your misfortune. In our country, I spend nearly every Democratic paper for 14 years, when times were hard and the country new. Now, that the people are in a more prosperous condition, a gorilla from new Zealand stands in the path of progress. Some of the Democrats are willing to support it in preference to the regular organ. Happily he has no more influence with the masses than a bird new from the bush of an elephant. When there are any loaves and fishes for the Republicans to divide, the printers get their full share; but when the Democrats get a few surplus crumbs, the man who sets up at night and sets type to keep the party together in time of trial is ignored, and some scalcawag steps in and gets the best of the crumbs. It is a fine old saying, "The world is a heaven and a hades in the hereafter."

There never was a time when the Democratic party had better prospects for obtaining the control of the Nation, and Country than at present, yet the Devil steps in and divides them just when they should be united. I bear of division and discord everywhere, and the Democratic party is divided, it is the best time for the Democracy to be united, but false ambition rules the hour. Such is political life, like the fragile glass of water, which if broken, and die, no matter how rich the soil which propagates it. The wheat crop in our State is a disappointment and a delusion. Up to the first of May, the prospect was bright, and the year would equal 1880, when this State raised more wheat than it ever did in any one year before or since. But on the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th of May a frightful northerly gale blew great gusts and dried up 75 per cent of all the moisture in the earth and air and chilled the wheat, little of which has recovered from the effects. The wheat was cut, and a fine rattle on the 25th day of May saturated the ground in this neighborhood, and here we will have a fine crop. But the shower did not extend to the mountain side, and a few neighbors were in luck, while others will not be able to make even good pay out of their crops, which promised so well a month before.

The morning opened clear and pleasant, and the early train on all the roads brought in large excursions. Fully 8,000 people passed through the Union depot. The influx of people was not a new thing. The railroads leading into the city had all the traffic for a few hours they could conveniently handle. The morning after the 2d of May, the entire number of strangers in the city up to 2 o'clock, when the procession started, was estimated to be 50,000. THE Democratic State Convention.

One week from to-day the Democratic State convention will assemble at Harrisburg to nominate a State ticket, which will embrace a candidate for Governor, lieutenant Governor, supreme and circuit judges, Secretary of Internal Affairs and Congressmen-at-large, and to take such action in regard to the future of the party as will tend to the preservation of its interests and its perpetuation. It is hoped that wise counsels will prevail in its deliberations, and that the utmost harmony may characterize its proceedings. Let the convention give us pure, able and truly honest Democratic candidates, whose names have never been tarnished by a single blot of political dishonesty, and a platform of principles firmly based on the principles of Democracy, and a triumph of no ordinary character will be the result. Let it proclaim with unerring precision the principles and policy of the Democratic party, and let it issue a platform which shall be a fundamental and immutable truth proclaimed by the fathers of the party nearly a quarter of a century ago—and all will be well, and the political bonanza which has existed for the past twenty years, and wholly chargeable to the Republican party, will give place to a delusion, and the people, who have been steadily oppressing our people, and which have been driving our country to perdition with fearful and astounding rapidity. The convention will be a grand and successful one, and the harbingers of success; and the Democracy of the State are looking earnestly forward for the realization of the hope that is within them, which must be fulfilled in the near future. They demand that their voices shall be heard in that convention in the interest of the Democratic party, and hopefully and bravely.
