COOPED FOR CROOKEDNESS.—Some time in March of the present year the log-camp if 'Squire John Fiske, in Reade township, was robbed of a considerable quantity of per-sonal property, such as bedticks, blankets, sledges, knives and forks, etc. Suspicion was in course of time directed towards a family named Dixon, residing in the same township, as the perpetrators of the robbery, and last Saturday a couple of constables made a descent on the premises they occu-py. Certain of the stolen property was found therein, and Rowland Dixon and Isa-iah Dixon, father and son respectively, were arrested and brought to this place and accor-ded a hearing before Justice Kinkead. In default of bail they were placed behind the bars. The following Sunday James Dixon, another son of Rowland Dixon, was arrested He, also, came before Justice Kinkead, couldn't give bail, and went to jail. James, it seems, undertook to resist the officets when they essayed his arrest, and it was necessary to knock him down twice before he could arrive at a realization of the fact that the demands of the law were superfor to all considerations of a private or per-sonal nature. Squire Fiske lives in White township, where a store owned by his father and himself has been twice burglarized with-in a couple of years. We do not know that it is charged against the Dixons that they had a hand in these depredations, but the matter no doubt will be sifted as thoroughly as possible.

Yours, &c., WOLCLIFF. WASHINGTON TWP., July 22, 1882. DEAR FREEMAN-The coal miners of this ecality held a meeting at Lilly's station on Friday last, for the purpose of effecting a ompromise, if possible, about going to work again, and at 3 o'clock, P. M., it was put to a vote to determine whether they would con tinue the strike or resume operations. The Knights of Labor appointed a committee and those who were willing to work also ap-pointed a committee. Then the two com-mittees formed a kind of voting polls, and after the votes had been deposited and counted it was found that there were one hundred and sixty-four in favor of going to work and one hundred and three against it thus showing a majority of sixty-one in favor in Clearfield county, his name appearing in of work. So they resolved to resume labor the warrant along with the names of the two at 50 cents per tow, those in favor of the f work. So they resolved to resume labor strike demanding fifteen cents of an advance on the ton and fifty cents per yard for all rolls. The miners employed by the Standard Coal Co., limited, did not come ont, but all the other works were out, though they resumed work again on Saturday. The Lilly band, I had almost forgotten to say, led the procession to and from the polls. James Jones, a miner residing at Lilly's, was arrested on Saturday morning for shooting off his revolver among some of the Knights of Labor on Friday evening, a warrant for his arrest having been issued on Friday night. The case was settled, however, by Jones paying the costs. All the hotels were notified to close up on friday evening at 7 o'clock, many of the citizens fearing if they kept open that some of the miners would get drunk and raise a row, if not a first-class riot. As it was, I am glad to say, everything passed off quietly. James McConnelly put a pick through his right foot on Friday, and it. right foot on Friday, and it may cripple him for life. Five years ago a gray-haired gentleman who resides in Philadeiphus, named J. B. Newman, married a young and beautiful woman. He was a wealthy real estate agent and owned a fine residence on North Tweifut street. The couple had one child and appeared to live happily together. Not many months ago it began to be rumered that Mrs. Newman was receiving rather too much attention from a gentleman prominently connected with the Adams Expless Company. Mr. Newman heard of these rumors and becoming satisfied several weeks ago that they were true, and a square interview with his wife in regard to the devoted attentions paid her by the gentleman in question. Matters remained in state que, however, until two weeks ago last Saturday, when, as the husband alleges, he, at his wife's request, sent her, the child and its nurse to Cresson, giving her seven mank checks for $50 each and $100 in money, which he thought would be sufficient to "pay her expenses for a month or so al least." About a week after her departure Newman received a newspaper from Cresson with the name of his wife's admirer marked as among the arrivals at that place. In 8 few days after he was greatly surprised to see a carriage containing his wife, child and nurse drive up to the door of his remittence. Mrs. N. greeted him affectionately and attempted to kits. He repulsed het, however, wishing to have an explanation of certain occurrences at Cresson before he would take any kissing in his. Mrs. N. thereupon retired to her room, and the old man proceeded to question Kes. the nurse, about the doings of his wife while at Cresson, where he evidently had a spy to watch her movements. From the hurse he learned that on the Thursday after his wife came to Cresson her lover arrived there and was met at the depot by Mrs. N. Before his arrival Mrs. N. and the nurse and child occupied communicating rooms, but after he put in an appearance Mrs. N told the nurse, and she told that Mrs. N and the man were so constantly together at Cresson, that they were supposed to b man who was fool enough to marry a young anded to all this that Mrs. N. and the man were so constantly together at Cresson, that they were supposed to be husband and wife. Newman having heard the statement of the nurse, went up stairs to his wife's room and asked her why she had come back so soon, to which she replied that Cresson was a very duli, stupid place and that she could not endure it. Then Newman said something about the man referred to, and that brought on a regular quarrel, in which Mrs. N. struck at him with something she held in her hand, and he seized her and tried to put her out of the room, but he couldn't do it, and being in his shirt sleeves she firmly clutched them and pulled so wickedly that in the struggle his lost his entire shirt. Mrs. N. then left the house, but returned in a day or so when her husband was absent, and succeeded in sortiffing away the child, after which she made information before an Alderman against Newman, I wish never to see her again, "Is what the husband says. It declares that the pig in question, having been raised on Alderney milk, became so exact justice for any consideration! Always high-toned that it wouldn't deign to touch the milk furnished by a cow of the common breed. Mr. Piper thought to control its ap-petite by withholding the lacteal fluid, when Mr. Pig, after failing in an assault and battery on the cow, made a raid upon the spring house, where Mr. Piper and his neighbor, old Josy Weisser kept their milk together. The door was locked and the windows barred, but the spring house being built against the mountain, the roof at the rear was even with the ground, and Mr. Pig proceeded to root off the roof, crawled in the hole and let himself fall nine feet to the floor of the spring, where he feasted upon Alderney milk without ever disturbing the milk or cream of the common cow, which was in as close proximity to him. ...
