EBENSBURG, Sept. 5, 1882.

* DEAR HENRY-It is wonderful how fash-ion changes from age to age. To grow fat was a crime punished at the whipping post with the ancient Spartans. The Spartans soundly whipped those who grew too fat for military exercise and service. With modern Americans fat is a virtue, and the possessors of adipose matter are awarded with alder-man honors, seats in Congress. State Senate. man honors, seats in Congress, State Senate, United States Senate, Supreme Bench and even the Presidential Mansion. The Demo-crats of Cambria have chosen and honored a two hundred and twenty pounder as their candidate for Congress, and it is said the Republicans of Cambria will chose and honor as their candidate a two hundred and thirtyfive pounder. Thus it will be seen that the American possessors of adipose, instead of being degraded as were the Spartans, are The present American President nored. turns the scales at 225 pounds, and is as agile as Barnum's "Jumbo." His feet stand far apart and make a base so solid that he is able thing thereat is most enjoyable. It is decid-edly a new departure, and one which will be to amble off with all the rum the boys can ram into him. This adipose President-"Chet," as he is familiarly called—is a bold fisherman. He is considered, when fishing in the basking dells of the Adriondacks, an Izaak Walton. "Chet" vanguished and landed a fifty pound salmon trout on one of his fishing frolles.— He had a desire to come to the mountains of Pennevivania on a fishing frolie, but some officious mountaineer informed him that Allegheny mountain trout were seldom known to rise above twenty pounds, which disgusted him. "Chet" is no pin-book fisherman. He caught a tow-headed urchin erman. He caught a tow-neaded incluin angling for sun perch in the Potomac, and mortified the poor boy by telling of his land-ing of a fifty pound fish. It was a little mean in "Chet" to bullyrag the Potomac boy in that way. It is said that President in such that way in fishing for trout in Grant's poor luck in fishing for trout in Pennsylvania had much to do in deterring "Chet" from coming to Pennsylvania on a fishing frolic. It will be remembered that me years ago President Grant started for the headwaters of the Susquehanna on a fishing frolic, but he didn't reach the waters. Grant was being tapered off, but, according to the newspapers of that day, he laped a a new drunk on the old one, knocked the hats from the heads of sundry sober people in a Pennsylvania village, and was finally captured and put to bed in a country inn, where he was confined until he tapered off. It is much to be regretted that "Chet" who had intended to take a run in his yacht, the United States steamer Dispatch, to Block Island, had to abandon the trip on account of the crank of the Dispatch engine breaking. He has been unfortunate as far as fish catching goes during his present fish-ing frolic. So far he has failed to get the point of his hook in a sheep's head. It is ratifying, however, to know that "Chet" is aving a happy time of it. In its notice of 'Chet's" Dispatch cruiz, the Philadelphia Times' poet sings :

Trimes poet sings: King Arthur, Stalwart, full six feet, and fat, The chief born of a blood-hent hall which slow A man, was sporting at the Isnd's expense, Along our Eastern edge. And say: "Of water wa've enough and mo deed no end, Now if we had a navy!" Then they laugh And fill 'em up again.

By the way, Henry, I must chide yon for not publishing the beautiful lines on Chet's lag, which were dedicated by the New York Sun to Billy Chandler, and which are as follows :

as follows : A Fing for the President ? On the Dispatch ? Soon there'll be ribbons And garters to match! Soon we shall see The fing in its pride Wherewith his majesty Chances to hide!
