Not a man named by the ition can lay claim to anything, either as to character, ability or locality, which en-titles him to the suffrages of any man worthy to be called a Democrat. D. H. Kinkead, chairman of the County

Mr. D. H. Kinkead, of Ebensburg, also received the complement of a nomination for Sheriff by acclamation. He is the present efficient deputy under Sheriff Griffith, and that's about all there is of it. In other years he achieved notoriety as a base-ball player, but lately he has been keeping close to the home base. S. P. Morrell, of Taylor township, and W.

W. McAteer, of Loretto, were set up for Assembly. There were only three aspirants for this high position, the unfortunate third man being Frank Burgoon, of Portage township. Frank was slaughtered unmercifully, and so was his friend Bill Hayes, who wasn't even mentioned in connection with the nom-ination. Mr. Morrell is prominent solely because he was once captain of a military com-pany in this county, while as to Mr. McAteer, it may be said that he has been postmaster at Loretto for a few years. Both are clever gentlemen, however, but all the same they'll never represent Cambria county in the State and then returns to this State for the purpose of taking them to their new home i and the family refuses to accompany him, and he then mys. 'Well, I will go and live there myself: I don't care to exercise my authority as head of the family to compel my wife and children to go there when they are averse to doing so. I have purchased a property there that suits me, and I will go and re-side there and take care of the property I have bought. I will live there by myself as my family refuses to accompany me. In the meantime I will support my family in Pennsylvania, visit them when I can, but I will not reside there.' In such a case the man's intention to make Kansas his home, and his removal there in pursuance of that intention, makes Kansas his residence, although his family remains in Pennsylvania. It is a clear abandonment of his residence in Pennsylvania, and, therefore, while ordinarily a man's residence It might as well be said here as elsewhere hat Col. James Cooper's name was brought before the convention in connection with the office of Assembly, but was subsequently withdrawn. All the same, Capt. Frank Flanagan and a couple of other delegates voted for him without hesitation.

The office of Poor House Director is of lit-tle value, the salary being taken into conideration, but in general results it is thought to be extremely important. John C. Bradey, of Carroll township, is the nominee for this position. Do you think he is ahead of Rorabaugh? Take time and think.

The only office the Republicans think there is a sure show for success is that of Jury Commissioner, and for that office there were several applicants. At the end of the second ballot, John H. Vall, of Richland township, was declared the nominee. We
