GENERAL BEAVER is personally, morally, politically and intellectually the superior of any man that has been a candidate for Governor for many years.

This is rough, very rough, on Geary, Hartranft and Hoyt, but especially on Hoyt. When a Beaver paper thus assails the personal, moral, political and intellectual standing of three Governors of the grand old party, it illustrates the truth, without perhaps knowing it, of the well-known adage, "It's a dirty bird that defends its own nest."

Attention the Philadelphia Record first made the statement that the Free Trade League of New York had sent Mr. Hessel, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, $5,000 and promised to send him $15,000 more, to assist in electing '82. Pattison, and although that paper a day or two afterwards denied the truth of this statement on the authority of Mr. Hessel, some of the Beaver papers still persist in repeating the silly charge, on the theory that a "well aimed lie is as good as the truth."

The estimates of this year's wheat crop differ very materially. The lowest statement putting it at 100,000,000 bushels and the highest at 150,000,000. The truth will be found in the end to be between these two extremes, or about 110,000,000 bushels. As it will require only about 70,000,000 bushels for home consumption, there will be a surplus for export to foreign countries of about 40,000,000 bushels, and whether or not the foreign demand will equal this large surplus is just now the all-important question with farmers in the west.

The New York Republican State convention met at Saratoga on Wednesday of last week and on the second ballot nominated Charles J. Folger, now Secretary of the Treasury, for Governor, thus defeating the present incumbent, Almon B. Cornell. Mr. Folger is a gentleman of character and ability, but as his party in New York is divided into two hostile factions, probably as it is in this State, there does not seem to be much of a chance for his election. He is regarded as President Arthur's candidate, and his nomination is attributed to the exercise of official influence by the Washington administration, which will be resented at the polls by a portion at least of the Garfield faction of the party. Several leading Republican papers refuse to support him and his defeat seems to be inevitable.

Gov. FOSTER, of Ohio, seems to be quite as embarrassed in his utterances on the tariff question as Governor St. John, of Kansas. Foster in a recent speech at Akron, Ohio, speaking of the temperance men in that State, said: "In this fight the prostitutes and saloon-keepers arrayed together against the intelligent classes," and repeated the identical phrase in an interview with a correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette. The German Republicans in Ohio, who were already in antagonism to the so-called temperance law of the Republican Legislature of that State, raised last winter and denounced unconstitutionally by the Supreme Court, are outspoken and indignant at this sweeping declaration of Gov. Foster and regard it as the best proof of the regard it has for the best class of the people.

A CONSIDERABLE HOWL is going up from the Republican press throughout the State, that the election of Pattison means death to the tariff. What has Pattison or Beaver, or Stewart, to do with the tariff question? About as much as the election of either of them would have to do with settling the question of polygamy in Utah Territory. Are the present Republican members of Congress from this State any better friends of a tariff than the present Democratic members? That the tariff ought to be amended in many of its features was confessed by the Republicans in Congress at its late session, when they assisted in passing a bill authorizing the President to appoint a commission to investigate the question and make a report at next December session. That Commission has been travelling from one point to another for several weeks taking testimony upon which to base its report, and at last seems to be in session at Saratoga, Pa. The cry that the tariff is in danger is sounded by the Republican press for political effect in the present political emergency. The only candidates on either the Democratic, Republican and Independent State tickets who seem possibly have any official connection with legislation affecting the tariff is the Congressman-at-Large, and Mortimer F. Elliott, the Democratic candidate, who would all doubt about his position on that question to a speech at Lock Haven on the 12th of the present month, an extract from which will be found elsewhere.

ROBERT E. PATTISON'S SPEECH.

It is always a great pleasure to read a speech abounding in strong, hard common sense, expressed in words so plain and simple as to be easily comprehended by the most ordinary mind. Such a speech is that of Robert E. Pattison, Democratic candidate for Governor, to be found elsewhere in our paper, which was delivered on Tuesday evening of last week, at a reception tendered him and his colleagues on the State ticket by the Commonwealth Club of Philadelphia. It is an admirable speech and almost every sentence in it shows the sincerity of his belief in the responsibility of official trust. "I do not mean to neglect the duties of one office for the purpose of being elevated to another," is his brief but comprehensive reason for not deserting his post of duty in the Controller's office and, like Beaver, rambling over the State for the purpose of showing himself at camp-meetings and county fairs. "Public office is a public trust to be executed for the benefit of the whole people, to whom alone officials are responsible, and of whose will they should be the faithful exponents," is the way in which he refers to the discharge of public duty. "To lessen the cost of government lightens the burden of labor," is his plea for economy in the administration of affairs, whether of the general, State, county, or municipal government. Mr. Pattison is a true reformer and not a man who is constantly speaking of somebody else reforming something. When the opportunity was presented to him as Controller of Philadelphia to meet the crying demand of the taxpayers for relief from the abuses in that office, he did not shrink from the task, young as he was, but boldly grappled with it and has earned a national reputation as a thorough and successful reformer. Pattison has his reform and retrenchment record to recommend him to the people for their suffrages, while Beaver has nothing to stand upon except his subservience to the political fortunes of Don Cameron.

JOHN STEWART, the Independent Republican candidate for Governor, delivered a speech at Easton, Saturday last, in which, referring to the oft-repeated charge that Don Cameron had dictated the nominations of Beaver and his colleagues on the State ticket, he said: "And I will tell you what I have never told another assemblage, and that is that I, as an individual, was invited to be present when it (the making of the Beaver ticket) was done, and accompanying the invitation was an intimation that if I wanted it there was a position on the ticket for myself. My response to that invitation I will let Mr. Cameron give to the public if he desires." This is plain language—so plain that he who runs may read—and comes from a responsible source. It is a bold charge, publicly made, and if not true, Cameron can effectively expose Stewart to the people of the entire State by publishing Stewart's letter in reply to his invitation, which Stewart authorized him to do. There is not much danger, however, that he will take Stewart at his word, and if he does not want to be thought of Beaver's repeated details that Cameron had anything to do with his nomination, and that it was the spontaneous action of the Republican party. By the time Stewart gets through with Cameron and Beaver at the close of the campaign, the people of this State will know a great many things that they never knew before, or even suspected, about the interior workings of Cameron's political machine. Stewart having always been a Republican thoroughly under the domination of Cameron's methods and isn't a bit afraid of exposing them.

The Democratic State convention of New York met at Syracuse on Thursday last week and on the third ballot nominated Grover Cleveland, the present Mayor of Buffalo, for Governor, his principal competitors being General Slocum, of Brooklyn, and Congressman Flower, of New York City. The most perfect harmony prevailed in the convention from the beginning to the end of its proceedings. This result was brought about by the admission of thirty-four of the delegates elected by the regular New York Democracy, twenty-eight of the delegates chosen by Tammany Hall and ten Irving Hall delegates, making in all seventy-two the number to which the city is entitled. John Kelly was at the head of the Tammany delegation, and took an active part in the deliberations of the convention. The Democracy of the Empire State are thus again united in one solid, compact body, from the city of New York to Lake Erie, and when so united, can't be defeated. The convention seems to have been peculiarly fortunate in its nomination of Mr. Cleveland. He is thirteen years older than Robert E. Pattison, and the him has acquired his reputation as a thorough reformer. The New York World, in speaking of his nomination, says: "It is precisely what the nomination of Mr. Pattison is not, and the indications of public sentiment in New York are a delusion and a snare, there can be no shadow of a doubt about a sweeping Democratic victory in November."

HON. JAS. H. HOPKINS, who was Mr. Pattison's principal competitor for the nomination of Governor at the Harrisburg convention, has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Allegheny county district, now represented by Russell Errett. The district is strongly Republican, but Mr. Hopkins carried it in 1874 and has a fair chance of doing so in the present contest. Errett is not at all regarded as a strong candidate and his slavish devotion to Cameron has made him peculiarly obnoxious to the Independent Republicans in the district, enough of whom he is believed will vote for Hopkins to elect him.

THE ALLEGHENY TRIMMER derives consolation from the fact, if it be a fact, that at the recent election in Maine "Abel" voted the Democratic ticket, and his ballot for the Republican candidates. When a man lives to be ninety-eight years of age he has undoubtedly reached his "second childhood," and it is therefore not to be wondered at that old Abe Humphrey wasn't able to do anything else than cast his vote for the Republican candidates.

A Varied Performance. Many wonder how Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it is a sort of a magic. It is not so, but from many valuable ingredients which not only benefit the diseased organs.

DO YOU KNOW?

Reader, do you know that during the last twenty-one years the Radical Stalwart or Cameron party, call it what you may, has had supreme control of every department of the government, with the exception of a few years when the Democrats succeeded in getting a bare majority in one or the other House of Congress. During all this time do you know of a single act it has done on a solitary law it has enacted calculated to benefit the masses or to better the condition of the laboring men and farmers of the country? If you do, speak out like a man, and let us know it.

Before this radical party went into power it was seldom you heard of a millionaire and seldom you saw a tramp. Now the former are courted by hundreds and the latter scorned and despised in droves. As the one increases the other multiplies. All the legislation of the Radical party has tended to the end.

It has given birth to and built up greedy corporate monopolies that crush out individual enterprise. It has concentrated capital in the hands of the few to the injury of the masses. It has corrupted elections and legislatures, with money wrong from the laborer in taxes, to an extent that degrades public morality and endangers republican government.

It has made the few rich beyond the hope of avarice and the many poor beyond the hope of a decent living. It has taken and used to perpetrate upon special privileges until it has grown to think its power perpetual and its authority supreme. It has made the creature greater than the maker, the public servant greater than the public master.

It has adopted systems of taxation which relieve the wealth of corporations and the investment of the opulent and load the poor with taxes. It has increased the number of corporations and the investment of the opulent and load the poor with taxes. It has increased the number of corporations and the investment of the opulent and load the poor with taxes.

NEWS AND OTHER NOTICES.

The loss of the State Fair at Pittsburg this year was over $1,000. At Raleigh, N. C., 7-10 inches of rain fell in a few hours on Saturday. Banish ill health, nervousness, vexation, fruitfulness, etc., by using Brown's Iron Bitters. A disease which in many instances has proved fatal has appeared among the horses in Dauphin county.

Mr. James Benson, of Buffalo, who had been suffering from a fever for some time, died on Thursday night, while delirious, taking her youngest child, a boy of two years, with her, and last night, when she jumped in. Both of their bodies were discovered by the family early next morning. Mrs. Benson leaves an infant and several children. The family are frantic with grief.

A cripple named Divine, living at Montgomery, Orange county, was killed by a singular death Saturday night. He was stooping over a fence to gather some catnip growing on the other side when his crutches slipped from under him and he fell with his neck wedged between two planks on the fence. He choked and died before his crutches were extricated and his lifeless body was found hanging on the fence the next day.

The Pittsburgh Fair was opened on Monday night, and it is asserted that Mr. Pattison's speech is one of the grandest expositions of State policy so far as it concerns the powers and duties of the Executive ever made in Pennsylvania. It implies the turning over of the reins of government to the hands of the redeemed Philadelphia from ruinous extravagance, oppressive taxation and ring conspiracies.

Harvey Robinson, of Greenville, O., died from the effects of melanosis, from which he had suffered for some time. He was born of white parents. His case is one of the most remarkable on record, but one which has attracted much of the public attention.

A colored man died in Philadelphia on Tuesday of last week, having been afflicted with poverty, though he owned property worth $100,000. One of the most remarkable instances on record is that of a man who was able to pay his taxes in order to secure a vote in this party. Many members should keep this before the people.

Gravely, of Bally's Cross Roads, Bucks county, has a cow which recently bore her leg. She now walks with the aid of a wooden crutch. It is a very curious case.

A woman chopped off one of her hands with a hatchet. She had been drinking and was in a very excited state. The case is one of the most remarkable on record.

INVITATION.

Strangers passing through the city are cordially invited to visit the store, and make free use of its conveniences, leaving their luggage under check at any of the doors, or in the Luggage Room in the Department of Public Comfort.

Really we meant to have this important department in full operation before everybody got back from sea and mountain. It is made for strangers; it is made for you to enjoy it so far as it has got. It consists of a free Reading Room for gentlemen, a free Resting Room for ladies, free writing-facilities in both, closets, and other little conveniences; a soda and mineral-water fountain that isn't free; and a lunch-room to be added.

We make the great public welcome there, beyond the wont of any other house, so far as we know. We think it will pay us to look after Public Comfort a little, as a means of advertising. There's nothing else or crooked about it. We want visitors to Philadelphia to have a good time, and is it our store with it.

New things are being and fall trade is already begun. New things do not come all together. They come in a steady stream from now till Christmas. And they go in the same way. They have to. You may easily believe it, when you see our house full all the time, of goods and of people taking them away. It would be hardly worth speaking of so obvious a fact, but for the moral; which is: Buy when you find what you want; for tomorrow somebody else will be after it.

New things will crowd upon us now for months every day. Only a few can get into the papers, except in the most general way. It will be fair to come, for whatever you want, and expect to find it.

New foreign wools have come. There are new coats, jersey dresses, pelisses, and other. The writer of this hasn't even seen them. He has only heard of the fact; they are going to make.

Wonderful silks have come. But we must get more about the best of them than we have time for today.

We have neither time nor knowledge today to go into particulars. This is only an early notice that the store is filling up with goods for fall.
