VOLUME XVI.

H. A. McPIKE, Editor and Publisher,

That's a common expression and has a world of meaning. How much suffering is summed up in it.

The singular thing about it is, that pain in the back is occasioned by so many things. May be caused by kidney disease, liver complaint, consumption, cold, rheumatism, dyspepsia, overwork, nervous debility, &c.

Whatever the cause, don't neglect it. Something is wrong and needs prompt attention. No medicine has yet been discovered that will so quickly and surely cure such diseases as Brown's Iron Bitters, and it does this by commencing at the foundation, and making the blood pure and rich.

> Logansport, Ind. Dec. 1, 1550, For a long time I have been a sufferer from at much and kidney disease. My appetite was very poor and the very small amount I did eat and the very small amount I did eat disagreed with me. I was smoyed very much form non-retention of urine. I tried many remedies with me success, until I used Brown's Iron Bitners. Since I used that my stomach does not bother me any. My appetite is simply immense. My kidney trouble in no more, and my general health is such, that I feel like a new man. After the use of Brown's Iron Bitters for one month, I have gained twenty pounds in weight.

"Look there, sir-look; there he goes!" He was pointing toward the red danger light at the tail of the receding train, and there, sure enough, was Snap scampering after it at a pace which no one could have given a fox-terrier credit for. I began to call and whiste as loudly as I could, but my voice was drowned by the hissing whir and rattle going on. Just then another engine hove in sight on our line of rails, and we had rapidly to step back into one of the recesses or man-holes, as I believe they are called. When this second train had shot past us, there again, to our astonishment, was Snap galloping after it. He had not observed us. of course. We then walked on some little way further along the tunnel, and in a minute another up-train passed us, and there surely be run over before long." But the reason was obvious; he could not keep up with the speed of the train, and by the time it had distanced him, another probably passed in the opposite direction, when, confused by the noise and turmoil, he turned immediately and pursued that. It seemed to me simply marvelous that he had escaped the wheels even so far in these agonizing efforts to find me.

As the lights of the next engine came in view. I resolved to give the last carriage just time to pass, and then to rush out, and, if possible, to intercept my poor pet, for I expected him again to return with that. I was not mistaken, and as I slipped from the manhole in front of the dog the porter held his lantern so that its light fell full upon my form. Snap instantly recognized me, and with one bound and a breathless yelp landed on my breast, and clasping me tightly round the neck with his two fore-legs as if they had been the arms of a loving child, he rubbed hausted, and all the time uttering a plaintive little wall of delight, he lay almost motionless in this position for several minutes, while his affectionate heart beat like a small sledge hammer against mine.
