WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, April 20, 1883.

President Cleveland, has had much handshaking as usual, to do this week, and unless some one shall soon invent and patent an automatic presidential handshaker there will be need of a deputy or assistant President to perform this duty alone. Negro delegations have predominated at the White House this week. The bishops and pastors of the African Methodist Conference called upon the President, and their foreman made an introductory address that was nearly as long as a sermon. The same day Mr. Cleveland and his Cabinet reviewed the emancipation procession of colored people, which passed before them as they stood on the front portico of the Presidential mansion. In the departments the work goes bravely on, and to those who know the past condition of the departments, this is saying a good deal. A remarkable change has come over them. They are all doing real work, and recently met with heavy losses. In one surprising everybody and especially themselves. For several years past it has been very unusual to find a department or a bureau of a department here in Washington with the current work up to date. It is not uncommon to find offices months behind, and some of them even longer than months. Whenever anything of this kind has happened little success has attended efforts to even up the business. Sometimes, it is true, this has been occasioned by much extra work imposed upon a force not quite sufficient in numbers, but generally it has been due to inwa pay-roll overshadowed completely their concer. in the work of the Government. Changes now going on indicate that this haphazard way or soing business has bad its best days. Those Deperments and Bu-reaus which are behind with user accounts and reports are to catch up with the counts business, and when that is done each day's work is to be finished each day. This is as it should be and is just what very weil-regulated house would have done by its own employes. It will necessitate, of course, a thorough overhauling of the different bureaus and the discharge of idle and incapable clerks of both sexes, who have heretofore relied upon political influence to keep them in place. It will demand the retention of good servants and the displacement of bad and the general recognition that a day's work must be given for a day's

An occasional howl of rage in the Republican morning paper announces that the offical head of a Republican worker has fallen into the place of walling and guashing of teeth, but as yet this good work has hardly begun. There will be more of it anon and if the Bepublican paper is going to howl about such a little thing as chopping off official heads, it will have to issue a double sheet and an extra edition."

Some Democrats are impatient at the delay in discharging a class of Republicans who are notoriously unfit for their places; but these should reflect that it requires time to select the proper substitutes, and consider the tremendous difficulties that confront the Administration. There are knotty legal questions to be cousidered in the matter and reasonable to stronge a full force of new stroks as to contend that we President should at once turn the Reputments out and
