How Blondin Crossed Niagara.

Blondin had instructed me what I should do. I was to put my weight on his shoulders with my arms and clasp his body about with my legs. But I could not put my weight on his legs; that would encumber his movements. I had to keep all the weight on his shoulders. In July, 1860, we went across. I took my place on Blondin's back, and he began the descent of the rope on the Canadian side. By reason of the fact that I had to bear my weight on his shoulders and had to use my arms with main strength to support myself, frequent rests were necessary. I told him when I wanted to rest, and then I dropped down on one foot and waited till my arms were relieved, when I would spring up again, using only my arms to lift and hold myself in place. There was a great crowd there. I did not see them at first. I did not remember what I thought. From my place on Blondin's back I could look out to the other shore and see below me the stunted pines thrusting their sharp points up from the edge of the foaming water ready to split us if we fell. I remember, too, that I was anxious to get over, and recall, too, that the great rope before us made swings from side to side. We afterward knew that the rope swung forty feet in the centre; I felt the necessity of preserving my self-possession and I did it. There was forty feet length between the guys on one side and those on the other that it was impossible to make steady. It was the middle span. Below us 250 feet roared the river, and over it we swung from side to side, still moving on steadily, however. Blondin never trembled. When we had gone about ten feet on this middle span somebody on the other side pulled the guy line. We afterwards found out it was done intentionally, and the rope was stopped in it swing. Blondin stopped, and his pole went from side to side in a vain effort to secure his balance. At one time it was up and down on the right side, at another, up and down on the left, and I recall with wonder that I was only curious to know whether he would succeed in getting control of himself or not. I didn't feel any fear. Failing of getting his balance he started to run across the horrible span, and we safely reached the point where the guy rope came out from the American shore. Then, to steady himself, Blondin put his foot on the guy rope and tried to stop, but the guy line broke, and with a dash of speed he ran swiftly twenty-five feet further to the next point, where the guys met the main rope. There he recovered his balance, and whispered rather than said: "Descendez vous." The perspiration stood out on his neck in great beads, and we balanced ourselves on the swaying rope. Presently he said "Allons," and I raised myself to his shoulders and we went on in safety and without incident toward the shore. It was not until we landed that I realized what had been done. Then it occurred to me that the man who pulled the guy rope was one of those who bet the feat could not be accomplished and my indignation mastered my reactionary feeling of fear. You see, many thousands of dollars were bet upon the ability of Blondin to carry a man over, and human cupidity stops at no sacrifice. Then there were the congratulations and the praise of pluck and the rest of it, so that in my foolish, boyish elation I forgot everything else. I do remember—as we approached the shore—the wonderful tableau of 100,000 people who stood gazing at us. Thousands of them turned their faces away, or half turning, cast glances over their shoulders at us. I remember their white faces—their strained positions of anxiety—women who stared, white and motionless, and men who wept, and as we drew near the bank the crowd surged toward us, and Blondin stopped, fearing they would push each other over the precipice. Then the crowd was still again, and with a quick run we came to the shore and sprang to the ground. I remember one man seizing me in his arms and lifting me high in the air, saying: "Thank God, this thing is over!"—Harry Colcord, in Chicago News.

Pointers for Advertisers.

Don't expect an advertisement to bear fruit in one night.

You can't eat enough in a week to last for a year, and you can't advertise on that plan, either.

The enterprising advertiser proves that he understands how to buy because in advertising he knows how to sell.

People who advertise only once in three months forget that most folks cannot remember anything longer than about seven days.

If you can arouse curiosity by an advertisement, it is a great point gained. The fair sex doesn't hold all the curiosity in the world.

Quitting advertising in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low. Either plan will prevent good time from ever coming.

Trying to do business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl through a pair of green goggles. You may know what you are doing, but nobody else does.

TRUE WORDS.—Truer words than the following were never uttered: "When a fast youth goes astray friends gather around him in order to restore him to the path of virtue. Gentleness and kindness are lavished upon him to restore him to manly grace. No one would ever suspect that he had sinned. But when a poor girl has been betrayed, she receives the brand of society and henceforth is driven from the ways of virtue. The betrayer is honorably received; but there is no peace for her this side of the grave. Society has no loving, helping hand for her, no smile of peace, or voice of forgiveness. There is a deep wrong in this, and fearful are the consequences. And yet, to our shame be it said, in this christian land we boast of humanity and kindness to women.

THE WEEKLY POST

Under a Democratic National Administration.

The Will of the People Vindicated and the Great Wrong Righted.

THE PITTSBURG WEEKLY POST

congratulates its Democratic readers on the dawn of a new year, under conditions that have not existed for a quarter of a century—

"Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring out the false, ring in the true."

Cleveland and Hendricks have been elected. After the fourth of March there will be a Democratic administration at Washington, with great possibilities for the progress, prosperity and advancement of the country.

As THE POST has labored unceasingly for twenty-five years for these glorious results, so it will extend to the new administration a hearty greeting and a cordial support in the re-establishment of principles and policies vital to the public welfare, by reforming abuses, righting wrongs and asserting the supremacy of the Democratic faith. We are on the threshhold of important events and great changes. To a Democrat who aided in Cleveland's election, the future is full of interest and hope.

THE WEEKLY POST will aim to keep fully abreast of the times in everything relating to the incoming administration. Its policy at home and abroad will be intelligently discussed, generously supported or candidly and kindly criticised. No year in the history of this journal promises to be so replete with matters of interest to Democrats as the one which is now about to enter. The meeting of Congress, the declaration of the Presidential vote, the inauguration, the new Cabinet, the changes in the public service, the opening up of the books, all are of great concern. THE WEEKLY POST will furnish the earliest intelligence, with judicious comment from the old Democratic standpoint. Success will not hamper it any more than a quarter of a century of defeat impaired its energies.

The session of the Legislature, with a Reform Governor opposed to a Republican majority, promises to be fruitful of important issues and exciting incident. The coming session of Congress will be even more interesting in its broader field.

In all its varied departments, THE WEEKLY POST will run at excellence and reliability. Its literary, miscellaneous, news and local departments will be maintained in their utmost efficiency, while its market reports will be prepared with greater care and precision than ever before and made absolutely reliable.

Now the time for Democrats everywhere to take hold, cement and strengthen the party and its chosen representatives, by extending the circulation of Democratic papers. We are no longer on the defensive—we are done with apologizing—the party to day stands for a majority of the American people, and in a few weeks it will be called on to administer the general Government. Truth is mighty and has prevailed.

Hints for the Farmer.

A great mistake is sometimes made in ventilating cellars and milk houses. The object of ventilation is to keep the cellars cool and dry, but this object often fails of being accomplished by a common mistake and instead the cellar is made both warm and damp. A cool place should never be ventilated, unless the air admitted is cooler than the air within, or at least as cool as that, or a very little warmer. The warmer the air the more moisture it holds in suspension. Necessarily, the cooler the air the more this moisture is condensed and precipitated. When a cool cellar is aired on a warm day, the entering air being in motion appears cool; but as it fills the cellar, the cooler air with which it becomes mixed chills it, the moisture becomes condensed, and dew is deposited on the cold walls, and may often be seen running down them in streams. Then the cellar is damp and soon becomes mouldy. To avoid this the windows should only be opened late at night—the last thing before retiring. There is no fear that the night air is unhealthful; it is as pure as the air of midday, and is really drier. The cool air enters the apartment during the night and circulates through it. The window should be closed before sunrise in the morning and kept closed and shaded during the day. If the air of a cellar is damp it may be thoroughly dried by placing in it a peck of fresh lime in an open box. A peck of lime will absorb about seven pounds, or more than three quarts of water, and in this way a cellar or milk room may soon be dried, even in the hottest weather. A bushel of lime absorbs twenty-seven pounds of water, and still appears as a dry powder. In this condition it appears to be very useful to spread over the garden or lawn, or around fruit trees, or it may be used for whitewash. This precaution is often necessary in the dairy because of the prevalence, where the air is damp, of mildews and the various forms of mould. The orange and red kinds of mould especially, which sometimes form upon the cream, have a most injurious effect upon the buttter.—American Agriculturist.

SHELTER IN PASTURES.

In some sections of the country pastures are supplied with shade trees that serve as a shelter from the rays of a scorching sun and a partial shelter from the pelting of the merciless storm. When this natural provision does not exist some sort of shelter should be provided temporarily. This may be accomplished by erecting one or two sheds without any siding—a simple roof that while affording shelter also admits a free circulation of air. This of course for early spring or late fall shelter when storms prevail would not be as suitable as an enclosed structure. When pastures are so situated as to have no open connection with the barnyard or farm buildings to which the cattle can go for shelter from storms, it would be well to erect a shed with large doors that may be thrown open in hot weather or kept closed for stormy weather. A structure of this kind need not be expensive nor so elaborate in construction but that any farmer of average capacity could erect it alone. The roof might be made of boards and replaced when worn or too badly warped. All the lumber that need be required would be two sills of the length of the building required, six by six inches, two of a length to correspond with the width of the structure; four or six posts of the same dimensions, six feet long, (as the shelter need not be high), two plates and two cross-beams, (or three if the length requires that, the middle be tied) four by six inches; a ridge pole of the length of the building; two pieces four by four inches to serve as purlin plates, with which to form the roof of the boards, putting them on up and down, and some short pieces to use for braces and to support ridge pole and purlins, and studding for the doors. The sills may be halved together, also the plates and cross-beams, and the posts cut square and spiked. Such a structure twelve by twenty feet would require about 600 feet of lumber and 1,000 feet of boards and a few pounds of nails. Is there a farmer who is unwilling to do so little for the comfort of his animals? —Germantown Telegraph.

WHERE THE NEGRO IS INDIGENOUS.—It is a common mistake to regard the term negro as synonomous with Africa. The word negro does not denote a nation, but an ideal type constituted by the assemblage of certain physical characteristics exemplified in the natives of certain portions of Africa and their descendants in America and the West Indies. As a rule, the prevalent color in Africa is that of the Arab, Indian and Australian. The true negro districts are the Senegal, the Gambia, the Niger and the intermediate rivers of the coast, parts of Sudania, Sennaar, Kardofan and Darfur. People who are certainly not negroes inhabit the whole coast of the Mediterranean, the desert, the Kaffir and Hottentot areas south of the line, Abyssinia and the middle and lower Nile. This does not leave much territory for the typical negro.

AN INEXPENSIVE HAMMOCK.—The season for hammocks is here, says a writer in an exchange, and I will tell you a comfortable one. Bring your old flour barrel from the cellar or store room, knock it to pieces and clean and paint the staves. Procure a rope four times in length of the place it is to be suspended, and in size a little larger than a clothes line. Now halve your rope, double each piece in the middle, and commencing two yards or so from the end, weave it over and under each stave about three inches from the end of each one, which will bring the rope crossed between each; do both sides the same and your hammock is complete. One end of the rope should be fastened up higher than the other. At first this may not seem firm, but when there is any weight on it the rope becomes 'taut' and secure.

A TROY editor in making out his returns is explicit to a commendable degree. For instance, such an obituary notice occurs: "Died, John Smith, aged 75 years, 3 months and 2 days, unmarried."—Harrisburg Patriot.

The Round-Up of the Gypsies.

Every year as soon as the winter snow begins to melt on nearly every road within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago, gypsy trains can be seen wending their way to the metropolis. The suburbs of Chicago are the yearly meeting-place of all the gypsy families of the West and South. Often these families, such as the Stanley and Butler tribes, number hundreds of persons. They camp conveniently near the city. Few of the Romany folks can write, and there is little exchanging of letters among kin. The time passed near the city is the visiting period when relatives learn of each other, and when matches between the gypsy youths. The Romany tenting season about Chicago usually begins in March. Camp is broken about this time. The tribes scatter, some individual families going in one direction, some in another, to meet again when a year has passed.

All winter, before coming to the city's boundaries, the men have been engaged in various country places buying up horses, and fitting them for the market. These horses are brought into the city by the gypsy vender. They are disposed of at handsome profits. The gypsy is, therefore, never poor. Invariably he has plenty of ready money. He invests his wealth in no permanent way. Seldom does he entrust it to the keeping of a bank. If he buys land with it and settles down upon a farm, even for a short time, he is no longer a Rom. Albeit, some of the youngest gypsies in America have shown a disposition within the last few years to ignore the custom of their fathers and settle themselves to the steady calling of farmers. A few are located in cities as horse dealers.

The gypsy is prodigal in his expenditures. He does not save. Everything that the market affords in the way of eatables he buys. He is especially fastidious in regard to the selection of the meats which he eats, and particular about his butter. Nothing is saved from one day's provisions for the next day's meals. Whatever remains is thrown to the dogs or to waste. Gypsy cooking is rude and often unclean, but the eatables are the best that money can buy. The gypsy is not a thief. He is no purloiner of chickens. He has no need to steal for he has a sufficiency without. He will tell you with justifiable pride that in all the length and breadth of the land not one prison shelters a gypsy.

"We break no law," he will tell you. So he has in this western world, ceased to be a beggar and a thief. He has, however, persisted in being a vagabond outcast. Yet as such he has prospered. Many a gypsy who camps about Chicago has more than $100,000. Ho keeps his money in the most idle and careless fashion. It is wadded in his capacious pocket, tuckled about the crevice of his wagons, hidden in the bedding. As a horse-trader he is of necessity a cheat. But he steals nothing. It is folly to search gypsy camps for stolen goods or missing children.

Cupping and Leeching.

"I commenced the practice of cupping and leeching for the cure of many of the ills that man is heir to some sixty years ago," said Mrs. Harriet O'Connor, an octogenarian, who resides, still hale and hearty, on Fifth street below South, Philadelphia. "When I started practicing in this city there were about three hundred persons engaged in the business, and many a struggling artist earned his first dollar in painting the fancy signs that adorned the window sills or hung projecting from the front of the office of the leecher. The practice has declined within the last few years, and at present there are only twelve persons in the whole city following the profession for a livelihood."

The leeches used now are brought from Sweden and Norway, although those found in the pine districts of New Jersey are much more preferable. Foreign leeches will take from three to five times their weight in blood, six being applied for every fluid ounce of blood to be drawn. When leeches are scarce they are utilized several times before being thrown away, and to compel them to disgorge salt is thrown upon them or they are squeezed with the fingers, great care being taken not to crush them. They are imported into this country by a firm whose office is in Maiden Lane, New York, who collect orders from its customers, and make but one general importation, receiving fully 2,000,000 leeches per year. The average price is about $8 per thousand and the cost price and freight are about $2. The profit is simply enormous. The leeches are packed in moss and shipped in air tight wooden buckets, and must be kept in a cool, dark place. Attempts have been made to breed the foreign leech, but with no success. Barbers some thirty years ago were not considered proficient in their trade unless possessed of a knowledge of cupping and leeching.

Two of the most fashionable ladies in Austin were conversing a few days ago, when one of them said there was a very dangerous dog in her neighborhood.

'Has he bitten anybody?' asked one of the ladies.

'Yesterday he caught a little pig by the ear and bit it terribly.'

'Is that so? If he is that kind of a dog I'm not going to let my child play with it; I can tell you that now.'

"O, Lor' Hit 'Im Again!"

In the early days of Methodism in Scotland, a certain congregation, where there was but one rich man, desired to build a new chapel. A church meeting was held. The old rich Scotchman rose and said: "Brethren, we dinna need a new chapel; I'll give £5 for repairs."

Just then a bit of plaster falling from the ceiling hit him on the head.

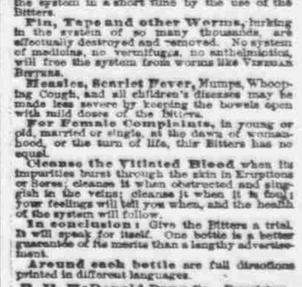
Looking up and seeing how bad it was, he said: "Brethren, its worse than I thought; I'll make it 50 pun'."

"Oh, Lord," exclaimed a devoted brother on a back seat, "hit 'im again!"

There are many human tabernacles which are in sore need of radical building over, but we putter and fuss and repair in spots without satisfactory results. It is only when we are personally alarmed at the real danger that we act independently, and do the right thing. Then it is that we most keenly regret because we did not sooner use our judgment, follow the advice born of the experience of others and jump away from our perils.

Thousands of persons who will read this paragraph are in abject misery to-day when they might be in a satisfactory condition. They are weak, lifeless, full of odd aches and pains, and every year they know they are getting worse, even though the best doctors are patching them in spots. The origin of these aches and pains is the kidneys and liver, and if they would build these all over new with Warner's safe cure as millions have done, and cease investing their money in miserable unsuccessful patchwork, they would be well and happy and would bless the day when the Lord "hit 'em" indicated the commonsense course for them to pursue.—London Press.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.



No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.
Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.
It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.
It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.
It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Restorer and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.
The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.
No person can take BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. To their treatment, a purgative, exerting powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.
There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.
Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.
It will give tone to the stomach, and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the whole mass of blood of all impurities, infusing vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system. It is easy of administration, prompt in action, and certain in its results.
Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are all overcome and relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.
Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.
Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.
Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuge, no anthelmintic, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.
Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.
For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.
In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.
Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.
