HUSE BEDS.

A carrespondent of the Household says the way to make a husk bed is to put the husks into plenty of water and spread them on the grass to dry, first spreading sheets on the grass to keep away the insects, etc., if possible, When the husks are dry draw them through a flax batchel, or split them Beveral times with a fork to make them softer. Then fill them into a bed tick. Don't put in enough to be hard, but to make a good, comfortable bed. Have a slit in the centre of the bed tick, and every day stir the husks up. A button and button hole in the bed tick will make all secure, and if you wash or scald the husks every two or three years III WLLLI they will keep sweet, and you will have a cheap and comfortable bed,
