EBENSBURG. PA., FRIDAT, - - NOVEMBER 20, 1885.

THE Historical Society of Pennsylvanis will soon celebrate in Philadelphia the setting up of thefirst printing press in that city by William Bradford, in 1685, two hundred years ago. There will be appropriate addresses on the occasion and a gathering of the craft from all parts of the country.

IT is well known that Mahone is sustain a State nomination no matter physically a very small man and in how objectionable the candidate may be. sporting circles would be called a "light There wasn't a single delegate to the weight." Before the Virginia election State convention at which M. S. Quay he only weighed ninety-two pounds, was nominated who was not perfectly and as he has resolutely refused to go on familiar with his corrupt and rotten rethe scales since then no man knows cord, nor was there a reading and intelwhat his weight is now. But it can be ligent Republican voter in the State guessed at.

ANTHONY M. KEILY, of Virginia, who was first appointed by Mr. Cleveland United States Minister to Italy, delphia, tending in any degree to prove and afterwards Minister to Austria, both of which missions he was compelled to resign owing to the unwillingness of each of the governments named to receive him; has left Richmond and taken up his permanent residence in New York.

MR. VILAS, the Postmaster General, has abolished an office in Utah Territo-19, not because the Mormon postmaster did not give entire satisfaction to the community he served, but because that community was composed entirely of himself, his four wives and their seventeen daughters. Nobody else patronized the office, and besides this a man, under the Edmunds act of Congress, with four wives or any number beyond one, is incapable of holding a public office.

JOHN M. LAIRD, the veteran editor of the Greensburg Argus, states in his | with a may the devil-take-the hindmost paper that at the late general election he cast his ballot for the sizty-fourth time, and always for the Democratic crats and 149,110 Republicans refusing ticket. IMMEDIATELY after the late election three or four Democratic newspapers in different parts of the State undertook to hold Mr. Hensel, Chairman of the State Committee, responsible for the result, and plainly intimated that a change should be made in the headship of the Committee when the proper time arrives. Did any one of the editors of these papers expect or believe that Conrad B. Day would be elected State Treasurer? If he did we have only to say that the past history of Penusylvania politics has failed to teach him a lesson that is well understood, and that

MAHONE proposes to demonstrate by facts and figures the magnitude of the frauds by which, he says, his party was defeated at the late election in Virginia. He gave forth a very loud yelp about intimidation of the colored voters and a false count when Cleveland carried the State a year ago, although the colored preachers in Virginia, who are nearly all Republicans, declared that the election had been fairly and honestly conducted. "Mahone means well," as the Philadelphia Record remarks, " but meems unable to appreciate the fact that he is dead, and died intestate,"

With a Republican Legislature to give him a chance for the proper exercise of the veto power, he will make his mark in the next three years. One thing is certain, the politicians will make a mistake if they underrate or try to ignore David B. Hill."

ACCORDING to a dispatch in the Philadelphia Times from Portland, Maine, Mr. Frye, one of the Republican United States Senators from that State, said on Saturday last in a conversation that the appointments to office made by Mr. Cleveland ought to be considered by Republican Senators in precisely the same way as if they had been made by a Republican President, that if the man appointed is of good character and qualified for the place he should be confirmed without reference to political questions, and that if there is opposition to the confirmation in any case the burden of proof should be on those who make the objection.
