Here, There and the Other Place. For the groceries go to the Sugar Bowl. Trade dollars are now worth only seventy cents. Dwelling houses for rent are scarce in Ebensburg.

Business houses in Ebensburg are in demand. A gentleman from Armstrong county came here on Tuesday last for the purpose of buying Mr. M. Oatman, but arrived too late, Mr. Shields and Mr. Oatman having closed the bargain and sale a few hours before his arrival.

Mr. Richard L. Davis, at his Boot and Shoe store on Julian street, is constantly receiving new and fashionable goods in his line. In order to make room for new goods, he will, for a short time, dispose of a lot of misses' and children's shoes at cost.

The Ebensburg & Cresson branch was again snowed out on Saturday morning last. The crew started on their regular trip at 7:05 A. M., but stuck this side of Bradley. The gravel train ran up to this place on Saturday, opening the road, and the train is now making its regular trips.

On Monday last the Democrats of Altoona nominated the following ticket: For Mayor, S. J. Breth; for City Treasurer, W. C. Leet; for School Directors, L. B. Rolf, C. Leet, and W. S. Douglas. The ticket is said to be a fair one, and no doubts are entertained of its election.

A sleigh party from Summerhill stopped at the Mountain House, in this place, on Tuesday evening, and as the party had brought their own music, it required but a short time until they were chasing the snowflakes with flying feet, and kept it up until some one in the morning.

One day last week Josiah Grambling, of Adams township, this county, was hauling logs when one of his horses got a foot fastened between two roots. Mr. Grambling procured an axe to cut away the roots and while thus engaged made a mistake and cut the horse's foot nearly off. The animal had to be killed.

There is a curious warm spot on the farm of David Weaver, near Daytonville, Somerset county. In the morning there is seen a smoke-like vapor rising from the ground, and all day there is a constant draught of warm air rising from the spot. The snow is melted away for a rod in every direction from the spot, and grass and green weeds are seen to grow.

A great many people are taking advantage of the good sleighing and during the past week there has not been a day in which several parties were not visiting this place. It is also a fact worth noting that a great many visitors go daily to John Owens' store on High street to purchase their dry goods, dress goods, boots and shoes, groceries and provisions, where they get them at the lowest prices.

The strike of the Hungarian coke workers at Mt. Pleasant and at several other points in this vicinity still continues, with occasional riotous conduct, and not infrequently personal attacks upon individuals who are obnoxious to the strikers. Father Lambing, a well known Catholic priest, is exerting himself to the utmost to bring about a compromise between the Hungarians and their employers, with as is reported a fair prospect of success.

A young lady named Miss Riser and her escort, Mr. Marshall, were members of a skating party on the Youngstown canal near Dawson, last Wednesday week. Miss Riser, while skating alone, fell into an air hole. Her cries brought Mr. Marshall to the rescue, but the ice also broke under him and though he seized her and made valiant efforts to escape, the ice broke breaking under their combined weight until he was exhausted, when both were swept under the lee by the strong current.

Thomas Bingham died in Harrisburg, on Sunday last, aged 75 years. He was one of several brothers who, after the old Portage Railroad was completed, established a business in Harrisburg, Philadelphia and Pittsburg, which was abandoned when the State sold the canal to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Mr. Bingham attended to the business of the firm at Harrisburg and was well known here. In 1861 he went to Harrisburg and from that time until his death was Superintendent of Adams Express, to which position he was promoted by the Tyrones.

The Tyrones correspondent of the Altoona Times says that ten anonymous letters to married women were dropped into the postoffice in this place on Sunday last, and asks, "Is there any way to put a stop to this disagreeable and annoying nuisance?" There is a plain and very simple remedy. Let all the married women in Tyrones refuse to lift all letters addressed to them bearing the Tyrones postoffice stamp, and the blackguards who are addressing letters to them will stop the business, but as long as the women lift the letters out of the office the dirty work will go on. Let them try this plan and they will see how nicely it will work.

On Monday last at the shaft of Messrs. Taylor & McCoy, about half a mile from Gallitzin, while two young men named Matthew Hauser and Jacob Ganna were engaged in mining coal and were in a room together, they were suddenly without warning, crushed by a fall of coal. They were mining under the coal, and Ganna had just reached back for a pick, when the mass of coal fell, catching Hauser entirely under it and a heavily laden Ganna, who succeeded in getting out and giving the alarm to the other miners, who hurried to the scene and quickly released Hauser, who was lying on one side with his head crushed in, and just about expiring. His body was taken to his boarding house, Miss Inez Ryan, of Johnstown, was notified of the accident, and visited the mine, and he attributes it entirely to carelessness, the two men having been warned about an hour previous to its occurrence of the danger of their method of mining. Hauser was about twenty years of age, a German native, and a healthy looking man, though somewhat careless and reckless in his work.

FRANK GLASGOW. ROBBERY AT SOMERSET. A Former Resident of this Place a Heavy Loser. The ticket office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at Somerset was entered on Monday night or Tuesday morning by three men who succeeded in obtaining entrance by forcing the lock on a side door to the office.

They drilled two holes through the door of the safe into the lock, and inserted sufficient powder to blow off the door, when they returned to the contents, consisting of railroad tickets, papers, etc. They then rifled two large trunks, one of them belonging to Mr. Thomas C. Shoemaker, of this place, who had left it there the evening previous, intending to take it with him on his train for the morning. He having sold up the business of the Messrs. J. & P. Collins at that place, and was removing to 225 White Street, Philadelphia, where they have a railroad contract to complete. From his trunk the burglars took a new suit of clothes, a diamond ring with a black set stone worth about $200, and a collection of gold and silver watches, and other valuables. The trunk belonged to a Baltimore shoe drummer, who contained a collection of sample shoes, to which the burglars helped themselves liberally. They then secured a hand on each side and within about thirty minutes of Johnstown they passed them on their way to the embankment, and went to a house nearby and wanted to get in to warm up, but were refused admittance. There were three men in the party at the house.

They re-established their quarters at Johnstown, and started in that direction on their way to the city. When about four miles from Johnstown they passed them on their way to the embankment, and went to a house nearby and wanted to get in to warm up, but were refused admittance.
