

GENERAL HANCOCK DEAD.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, February 9.—Major General W. S. Hancock, of the United States Army, died at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was 79 years of age.

Three weeks ago Gen. Hancock started on business connected with the Department of the Atlantic to Philadelphia, where he remained two days, and then proceeded to Washington.

At 10 o'clock on Monday night before going home, Dr. Janeway found his patient in good spirits and able to assist himself, and he left him apparently improved.

When death came the three physicians and the hospital steward only were present. Mrs. Hancock was then in an adjoining room.

In his recent speech in the House of Commons Mr. Parnell referred to the loose talk that the Protestant minority in Ireland would feel the necessity of outside "protection" in the event of the rights of self-government being granted to the majority of the Irish people.

"We have been spoken to tonight about the necessity of protecting the 'loyal minority.' Well, sir, I was myself born a Protestant. I have lived a Protestant, and I hope to die a Protestant, and if in the future, after the concession of the Irish claims any danger were to arise to my Protestant fellow-countrymen, I should be the first to stand up for that liberty of speech and that liberty of conscience and liberty to live as they please."

The legal maxim that "a man's house is his castle" received a very emphatic endorsement in Judge Thayer's court in Philadelphia one day last week. One night recently a negro was discovered robbing a money drawer of a milk store.

The Johnstown Tribune says that the Democratic papers of the State are using their most subtle arguments to induce General Hartranft to enter the field for the Republican nomination for Governor.

The imputation of the Tribune against the Democratic papers of the State lacks a foundation upon which to rest. Our understanding of the matter is that a man by the name of J. Donald Cameron proposes to put up Hartranft against Beaver in the Republican State Convention.

Several inroads have been compelled to stop for want of coke, and the strike continues ten days longer, many thousands of men who work in iron and steel in their different forms will be thrown idle.

We will publish a biographical sketch of Gen. Hancock next week. He will be buried at Norristown, Montgomery county, this State, where he was born.

Mr. Randall, Chairman of the Appropriation Committee, reported the Pension bill to the House on Friday last. The bill, which includes Army and Navy pensions, appropriate over seventy-five millions, which is an increase of fifteen millions over last year.

Samuel J. Tilden was 79 years of age on Tuesday last. He is weak in body, but his mind is as bright and vigorous as it ever was.

GEN. DAVID HUNTER, who served through the Mexican war as well as through the late civil war, died at Washington last week, in the 84th year of his age.

In the House on Tuesday, Feb. 24, during the delivery of the eulogy on the late General Hunter, the most memorable military trials of the war, viz: The one that tried Fitz John Porter and also the court that tried Mrs. Surratt and others charged with complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln.

The incidents of this noble and honorable career, the story of this leader of men, has been fully depicted by loving friends, and the lesson of wisdom they teach has been eloquently enforced.

"It is fitting and proper that the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania should pay the honor of a public funeral to the memory of Thomas A. Hendricks."

Mr. Garland, Attorney General, was one of the original promoters of the Pan Electric Telephone Company. He was similarly interested in that enterprise.

On going into office Mr. Garland still retained his stock in the Bell Telephone Company, which he had obtained by fraud.

It is to the credit of the Republican press that it has not very generally encouraged this transparent assault on the honor of the late General.

Lots of dismal predictions were heard in England that Catholic emancipation would result in the destruction of Great Britain. Next it was learned that Parliamentary reform would reduce that kingdom to anarchy.

GLADSTONE ONCE MORE.

It is possible that some changes may be made before the meeting of Parliament on Thursday in the list of members attributed by cable reports to the new Gladstone Cabinet, and it would probably be best to wait until the members designated, and the no less significant purpose of the list, the relation of the Ministry to the crucial question of home rule, are known.

On the face of it the composition of the Cabinet indicates the rumor that Queen Victoria successfully attempted to impose, and that Mr. Gladstone consented to accept, none of the facts to be sure, nothing, however, to suggest that a personage who in her youth quarreled about her ladies of the bed chamber, may have tried to extort by an empty threat of abdication from the chief of the Liberals a self-satisfying private treaty with his Irish allies.
