THE Constitution of Kansas prohibits the sale of liquor, and yet the city of Leavenworth in that State has 120 liquor saloons, which suggests the familiar question, does Prohibition prohibit ?

The present summer, although only half over, has been almost phenomenal in the number and destructiveness of the harl storms that have visited all parts of the country, and especially the far West and Northwestern States .--From all sections we have reports of these sudden visitations, carrying wide spread destruction to the growing crops in their paths. Fortunately, the tracks of these storms have been neither very long not broad, and their destructive character has therefore been greatly restricted, but their frequency has made the aggregate of damage done very large in consequence.

There are nearly half a million Presbyterians and about fifty thousand Methodists in Ireland. and among these are to be found true friends of Ireland. From amongst them came the Protestant patriots who died for Ireland, many of whom were hanged, drawn and quartersd, such men as Wolf Tone, the Sheares brothers, Bagenal Harvey, and many brave dissenting ministers who went to the scaffold during the memorable rebellion of 1798.

MR. JAMES O'KELLY in his cable THE Democratic State Convention dispatch to the New York Herald recans to know that if a man in England be rich enough he can vote in twenty constituencies. This gives the Tories au enormous advantage. One Church of England parson boasted publicly that he voted at fifteen elections. Nearly all the wealthy men have at least two votes, and a considerable number half a dozen. The Tory majority was made up of these plural votes. A majority of the electors voted for Gladstone and down at 5.000,000,000 tons. Home Rule, but the plural votas defeated the popular voice- This system must come to an end. He was Lesley, of the State Geological Survey. appointed to one of the lower grade makes a little calculation of the contents, cierkships in the State Department in of a single coal bed in that quarter, the result of which is not only startling, but also highly gratifying. The Pittsburg coal field has an outspread fifty miles in length by fifty miles in breadth in the In 1852 he became Chief Clerk of the State. This is not the limit of the field by any means, as it extends westward into Ohio and southward into West created the office of Second Assistant Virginia, in neither of which States Secretary of State, President Johnson have its boundaries been accurately

The Pennsylvania section of this bed has been well enough defined to allow a tolerably accurate estimate of its contents. In the northwestern section of fixture is the Department, and was this area the workable coal is from two hree feet in thickness. It increases hickness from the east to the south there being six feet of workable cosl at Pittsburg, ten feet up the Monongahels and twelve feet on the Youghiogheny The new oil and gas borings in Washington and Greene counties show that it maintains the same ratio of thickness that direction. Professor Lesley hinks an average of eight feet for the entire district a fair one. There are 2,500 square miles of Pennsylvania tertitory underlaid by the bad. Eight feet of coal would furnish 8,000,000 tons to the square mile, or 20,000,000 tons for the entire area. Allowing one-half this area to be taken up by ravines and valleys, in which the coal has been eroded, there are still left 10,000,000,000 tons. Making the liberal allowance of fifty per cent. for pillars, bad mining and waste from all causes, the available coal from this single district may be set

The significance of these figures is heightened by the fact that the entire tis rict seems to be underlaid by extensive gas reservoirs. Just at present the gas is taking the place of the coal for ties, the natural wealth of this section seems to be practically boundless. It has been for a long time the centre of the iron, glass and steel industries of the country. In spite of the opening of new coal fields in the South and West it must still maintain its supremacy in this respect. The gas development of the last two or three years is leading to capital and plant in this section. If there was nothing but the gas to be depended on, this new outlay might be somewhat risky, as no one knows how soon the gas may be exhausted ; but with five thousand million tons of coal to fall back upon, it will not prove a serious matter if the gas does play out in a few years. Coal will keep furnaces going. and of coal there seems to be practically
