Windows should be washed with milk warm water, using soap only when necessary, then dried with linen, and polished with chamois.

Flat-irons that show a disposition to rust may, while yet a trifle warm, be rubbed on edges and face with a little tallow; when next put to heat they should, as soon as warm, have the tallow wiped off with an old cloth, when they will be found bright and smooth.

It is stated that if an outside leaf of a Cabbage plant which is infested with green worms is broken off and placed flat over the top of such plant in the afternoon, nearly all the worms in the cabbage will be found next morning congregated on this leaf, and can be easily removed and destroyed. It is said that while pea meal is a great butter producing food, it is very dangerous to feed it in large quantities. It is much worse even than finely ground corn meal for forming into balls in the stomach. The safest way to feed it is to mix it well with coarse feed or chaff, and accompany it with plenty of oil meal, new process.

Distemper in a colt takes about three weeks to run its course. All the medicine required is a slight dose of Epsom salts-say four to six ounces-and good nursing. Give warm bran mashes, oat or linseed meal gruel, keep the animal warm, and rub the legs with cloths wet with hot water. A tablespoonful of mustard in the water would be beneficial if the legs seem to be weak and numb.

An Ohio farmer says that he has tried the plan of sowing a narrow strip of wheat around the field, or one side of it, late in August or early in September, to avert the damage done by the Hessian fly, and that in every instance the plan has worked well. The fly congregates in this strip, which can be plowed under as soon as the eggs are laid, thus destroying them. The whole field can then be put into wheat, with comparative !mmunity from attack.

The Dent varieties of corn are almost exclusively cultivated at the West and South, where longer, hotter seasons will allow them to ripen. One reason is they save labor in husking. Thirty bushels is a good day's work with our small flint corn, but sixty and even eighty bushels of ears a day are common with wellcared corn of the Dent varieties. The Dent corn will also yield more grain to the bushel of ears than any other. Some of the best crops of Deut corn have been grown in New England, though of early ripening sorts.

Whistling.

If a boy is allowed to whistle, it will turn his attention in a great degree from the desire to possess a drum, and if paternal firmness be added, he can be kept satisfied about one until he gets to be sixteen years old, when he will strike the cornet period.

Shakespeare was well acquainted with the art. He makes Othello say concerning Desdemona : "If I do not prove her false, I'll whistle her off and let her down the wind a prey to fortune, e'en though her very cries were my dead heart strings.

Negroes are the best whistlers in the world. Frequently one hears a colored Improvisatore whistling the quaintest and sweetest melodies, and with the colored male in general whistling comes as natural as grunting does to a hog.

Men whistle when they are happy and they whistle when they are sad. When you see a carpenter or a house painter pushing his plane or slapping on the paint and whistling a lively air at the same time, set him down as a man who pays his debts, is cheerful at home and never whips his children.

When a man is sad he whistles in a doleful tone. Nine times out of ten
