"Where is Nellie ?" The dog looked as if he knew, and wagged his tail furiously. "Go this instant," said the mether, and find Nellie and bring her home." Out over the gate flew the dog and started down the street to a neighbor's house not far off. Nellie was playing there, inside the house, and saw the dog come and scratch at a veranda win-

"I know what he wants," said the little girl ; "he wants me to go home, but I'm not going to do it !"

The dog was not admitted, but he lingered near, like Mary's little lamb, and when two ladies called presently he brushed in past them through the door. Then, rushing up to Nellie, he seized her dress with his teeth, and began dragging her to the door. An attempt was made to drive him off, but he growled and held his place. The little girl, beginning to be frightened, gave up all resistance, and trotted home by his side, and he delivered her with an air of triumph into her mother's hands. What "instinct" would lead a dog to do that ? A suburban resident was walking at night, not long ago, across a meadow, and losing the path in the darkness, fell into a ditch. His dog, a collie, had been running about in an aimless way over the field. Gathering himself up the gentleman called the dog, and crouching over him said, sharply

"Now, see here, Mac; I want you to show me the path across this meadow. Go right ahead of me, do you hear ; and show me the path-show me the path !"

The dog obeyed to the letter. With his nose to the ground he followed the path faithfully, with his master at his heels, clear across the meadow, until he had approached to within two or three rods of the field. Then he began to waver from side to side as If looking vainly for the path, and showed great confusion, and even shame. Next day the gentleman went over the ground by daylight, and discovered that at the point where the dog began to waver the path was entirely lost in the thick grass.

SOLOMON'S JUDGMENT IN CHINA.—

"Wells' Health Renswer' restores health and vigor, cures dyspensia, impotence, sexual debility. China, so runs an ancient Chinese chronicle, each of them protesting that she was the mother of a little child they had ger and positive that the mandarin was brought with them. They were so easorely puzzled. He retired to consult with his wife, who was a wise and clev er woman, whose opinion was held in great repute in the neighborhood.

She requested five minutes in which to deliberate. At the end of that time she spoke :

"Let the servants catch me a large fish in the river, and let it be brought to me here alive." This was done.

"Bring me now the infant," she said, "but let the woman in the outer cham-

"Without doubt, she is the true mother," she declared. And the mandarin nodded his head, and thought his wife the wisest woman in the Flowery Kingdom.

Meantime, the false mother crept away. She was found out in her imposture, and the mandarin's wife forgot all about her in the occupation of dressing the little baby in the best silk she could find in her wardrobe.

THE ENGINEER'S CAT. - An engineer on the Wabash railway, whose run is between Danville and Springfield, has a cat which he would not part with for love or money. It belonged to his wife, who is now dead, and for a year past it has been his constant companion in the cab. The cat loves its life on the rail and has grown sleek and fat sniffing the prairie winds. Ordinarily it sits perched up at the cab window before its master, but occasionally it strolls out to the pilot, where it will ride for miles at a stretch, winking knowingly at the dogs which bark at the train as it thunders by the crossroads. Sometimes when the train is approaching a station the adventurous animal climbs to the top of the sandbox and camly roosts there, undeterred by the shrick of the whistle or the clang of the bell. The engine has had good luck ever since the animal became an occupant of the cab, and the trainmen look on it as a mascot against disaster,

The 'Farmer's Wife.

The head of the family has all ginds. of labor-saying machinery in his field of action, but too often it is the case that the woman of the house has to get along without the assistance of such labor-saving devices as are appropriate to her sphere, and the work she has to do. This is not as it should be. The man who seeks to save labor in the field by the use of machinery, ought to have in mind the fact that his wife has to work quite as hard in the kitchen as he has been in the habit of doing out of doors, and that it is his duty to procure for her such helps as will lighten her toil and do away, as much as possible, with the drudgery of housework. In buying machinery for himself and not for her he is guilty of that form of selfishness which is almost, if not quite a

Husband and wife are partners in the work of life, each having charge of a special department, and what each does in that department contributes to the general welfare and benefit of the "firm." Neither has he the moral right to consult his or her interests alone. The interests of both should be regarded, and the kind and thoughtful husband will not care to monopolize all the benefits resulting from the labor of both. For every machine that he buys for himself to save labor, or make work easier and more effective, he will buy one for his wife. He will furnish her a good washing-machine and wringer. There will be a good churn, and the stove will be one with all the "modern improvements." There will be a cistern, and the cistern will have a pump, and of course there will be a sewing machine, and perhaps a knitting-machine. Why not? Knitting by hand is something like going through a corn field with the old hoe. If he has a cultivator to do that work with, why should she not have a machine to do the knitting with? She can knit evenings, you say ? What will you be doing then? Reading the newspaper, or magazine, eh? Weil, perhaps she would like to read some, rather than be obliged to spend the hours until bed time in kniting. Think of it. "Put yourself in her place," and do as you would

Very Green Peas.

Men are usually the historians of a country, and their works are apt to overlook the part taken by women in making history. For years after we had become a great nation, only tradition chronicled the deeds of the women of the Revolution, or told how much they suffered to gain peace and prosperity for their children's children.

Mrs. Fremont preserves, in her "Souvenirs of my Time," one of these old traditions, which tells what the war brought to her great-graudmother, who carried to her grave "King George's mark," a long cut on the forehead from the knife thrown by an Indian in the British service.

One day several English officers, of the brutal Colonel Tarleton's command. rode up to her house and demanded food for themselves and their men. She politely requested them to dismount, saying it would take an hour to prepare dinner, and sent them to the bedrooms to make their toilet,

At dinner she appeared in her best damask gown and petticoat. One of the officers, a surly, ill-bred man, seeing that the peas were very green-they had been boiled with lettuce to add to their green color-rudely exclamed: "I believe, madam, you mean to poison us: that is the meaning of all your fine airs."

The lady made no reply save to send for her youngest daughter. Taking the little girl on her lap she quietly fed her with the peas. Then turning to the officers, she said with impres:ve dignity: "You may feel safe now, gentlemen. Whoever eats at my table, invited or not invited, has my best. My husband, my young sons and my brothers are all in the Rebel army, and I pray for their success and your defeat, but you will receive no harm from me."

Wife and Husband.

Women never get full honor for anything they do. It is always divided with some man who did nothing. When Jael, for the deliverance of her country, slew Sisera, the old chronicler embalms in the immortal story of the daring patriot one Heber, the Kenite-"Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite," took a nall of the tent and did thus and so. Now, what under the sun had Heber to do with it? Why should he be dragged into the story? He never did anything but marry Jael, and, while that may indicate the good taste and judgment of the man, doesn't entitle him to immortality in a patriotic story. If he must come into the narrative why should he not come down to us as "Heber, the husband of Jael?" That would sound something like. Howeyer, we are doing things somewhat better now, and there are several men in America who are known only as the husbands of their wives. In fact, that's all that some men will ever be remembered for. Brigham Young was kind o' that sort of a man, also. A St. Louis manufacturer says he has employed girls in his factory for six years, and prefers them to male help. They are discharged for only two reasons. Now and then one is found who is incorrigibly lazy, and some of them can't be cured of talking. Gossiping is the greatest trouble encountered in managing them. They will talk, even if the rules against chattering on subjects other than those connected with the business stare them in the face.

Simmons Liver Regulator removes the cause of restlessness and sleeplessness by regulating the bowels, by establishing good digertion and by quieting the nerves. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will turnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

A. L. Thomas, Cuba, N. Y., says: "My son, J. M. Thomas, had been suffering from rheumatism for several months. Athlophoros relieved him of the pain, and reduced the swelling of the joints, and the lameness entirely disappeared. I have seen those having neuralgia cured by taking one dose."

A. Beard, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., says: "I have been troubled for some time with sciatica and rheumatism, brought on by working in a damp place. I could find no remedy in medicine I was using, until I tried a bottle of Athlophoros, which gave me immediate relief." Mrs. Alfred Thurston, 42 North Main Street, Wilkesbarre, Pa., says: "I am not troubled with rheumatism now, since using Athlophoros. I believe, should it in any case fail to relieve and permanently cure, the cause would be that the directions were not faithfully followed." J. J. Savitz, Narareth, Pa., says: "I gave two bottles of Athlophoros to my sister, and she has entirely recovered. She was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism and St. Vitus' dance, and although we had two of the best doctors, she gradually grew worse. She would scream from pain night and day. I heartily recommend it. Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlo-

Advantages of the Jerseys.

The advantages of the Jerseys over other breeds, according to The Live Stock Monthly, are : 1. Jerseys make more butter annually, compared with the food they eat, than any other breed. 2. Jerseys make better butter than CARRIAGES, WAGONS & SLEIGHS any other breed-better grain and better flavor.

3. Jersey milk is the most profitable because it contains more butter per quart than that of any other breed, its cream rises quicker and its butter comes quicker. 4. Jersey butter brings from two to ten cents more a pound than any other. as a rule throughout the United States; hence, on ninety farms out of a hunbred where butter is a speciality the introduction of Jersey blood will change butter making from a dead loss to a net

5. Butter farming is more profitable, healthful and refined than truck farm- PRICES. Also, Planing, Sawing and Wood Turning, beef farming, poultry or pig rais-

6. For every cent on account of the Jersey's small carcass, there are two cents gained on account of her better butter and larger annual yield.

We want Holsteins and Ayrshires for the general cheese and milk supply; we CEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the want Shorthorns and Herefords for their beef, but the country wants the Jersey for her butter -so let us have an end to the opposition which this breed has met with for forty years. He who specializes wins. The "general parpose cow" is an impossible animal ST. FRANCIS' circumstances point to a beef, a milk or a butter breed, and choose his stock accordingly.

LAW ON THE CHICKEN QUESTION.

-The question whether or not a man has a right to raise chickens at the ex- for the Scholastic Year, $200. pense of his neighbors was determined last year in court. H. W. Klingensmith had prosecuted Frank Wagoner for shooting his chickens. The evidence showed that Klingensmith's chickens invaded the wheat field of Wagoner and destroyed considerable of the crop. Wagoner shot the chickens and also brought suit before a Justice for damages and recovered a judgment for some thirty dollars. This recovery and the shooting of his chickens so incensed Klingensmith that he, upon advice of counsel, began a criminal prosecution under the statute for killing and maiming domestic animals. The case was warmly contested on both TIN ROOFING a SPECIALTY, sides. Amongst other things His Honor laid down was that a man has no right to raise chickens to armoy his neighbors or destroy his crops, and that the killing of them under such circumstances would be justifiable in law.
