A Kentucky breeder, who has been engaged in raising mules for thirty years, makes the following suggestions: that the most delicate stomach will bear. The raising of mules in Kentucky or the ASPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, West is not profitable unless the animais produced be of good size-say from fourteen and one-half to fifteen and one-half hands high. The best jacks for this class of mules are not less than fifteen hands. The dams are of equal importance and should be improved blooded mares. Mules from such crosses are the best seen in Kantucky and always command a good price. The most important improvement in jacks in the state of Kentucky was through the introduction of the well known Spanish jacks, Mammoth and Warror. These were imported from from Spain between the years 1835 and 1840. These jacks, at date of arrival, were valued at, and cost, $5,000 each, and were full sixteen hands high. As breeders, they were remarkably fine, and greatly improved the size of the jack stock by crossing on the common jennet of Kentucky. Later importations from the same source made additional improveabove named.

According to estimates made by the United States agricultural department, the State in which mules rate highest is New Jersey, the next highest being in Maryland. Texas had the greatest number of any State, and the animals are valued at a lower price-less than always do so. one half the average value in New Jersey, for instance. Kentucky and Missouri show up well in this industry.

The prejudice against the mule is an unjust one. For farm work and road the United States. Address, hauling it exceeds all other animals ; it is more economical, is stronger, hardier, never gets sick, and, according to old traditious, never dies.

Grains of Gold.

Ungreatfulness is the very poison of manhood.

Truth hath better deeds than words If you would be good, first believe that you are bad. The amenities of life make the true beaty of living.

Truth, like roses, often blossoms upon a thorny stem. We are as liable to be corrupted by books as by companions. And let me tell you that every misery I miss is a new blessing.

True blessedness consisteth in good life and a happy death.

Good breeding is like affection, one cannot have too much of it. The light of the understanding humility kindleth and pride coverth. Uttered out of time, or concealed in its season, good savoreth of ev.l.

The power of forgiveness is the noblest attribute in the human character. As "unkindness has no remedy at law," let its avoidance with you be a point of honor. Men's hearts ought not to be set against one another, but set with one another and all against the evil thing. But a perverse temper and a fretful disposition will, wherever they prevail, render any state of life whatsoever unhappy. It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow necked bottles; the less they have in them the more noise they are pouring out.

A Rope Walker's Coolness.

If I myself do not feel nervous, I am afraid the many persons I have carried D on my back across the rope have felt a triffie perturbed, save when they have been professional assistants. In reality there is nothing in the world for them to be afraid of. All they have to do is to sit perfectly still, refrain from cluthing me too tightly around the neck and leave the rest to me. When I am carrying any one over for the first time, I chat to him continuously on any indifferent subjects I can think about, and try in this manner to relieve his anxiety, | Iconder, Fookskill. Galescom, SS4 Water-St., N. T. City. and I always caution him against looking downward when in mid air. Samehow, though, he never seems quite happy, and I always detect a gasp of relief when the end of the rope and the platform are reached. More than once the victim has devoutly exclaimed, "Never

Waterfall Over the Earth.

It has been estimated that an average of five feet of water falls annually over the whole earth. Supposing that condensation takes place at an average height of 3,000 feet, remarks General Strachey, the force of evptoration to supply such rainfall must equal the lifting of 322 000 000 pounds of water 3 000 feet in every minute, or about 300 000,-000 horse power constantly exerted. Of this great energy a very small part is transferred to the waters that run back through rivers to the sea, and a still smaller fraction is utilized by man; the remainder is dissipated in space.

By selecting the test animals and seeds of the best plants a constant improvement will be the result. By neglecting to do so both animals and plants will degenerate. There is a tendency to always revert to the originals which can only be prevented by the careful selection of the hardiest, most perfect and best adabted to climatic influences. Every faamer in the country can assist in the work of improvement by giving attention to those matters.

From Biting the Finger Nails. A novel accident, resulting from a habit of very common prevalence among nervous people, was brought to my notice recently. A young lady presented herself at my office, complaining of a constant irritation in her throat. Two weeks previously she had been taken with a very severe "sore throat," was treated by a neighboring physician. Under his care, she says, the inflammation quickly subsided, but there still remained a sensation of irritation. Examination revealed a small, fleshy-looking object, about the size of a kernel of wheat, adherent to the tissues posterior to the left tonsil by one end. The other parts of the throat were normal. - The little mass could not be detached by a cotton covered probe, but by the use of forceps it was easily removed. and on examination proved to be a piece of flager nail, which has become covered by a cheesy deposit. A broken piece of the nail was also removed from under the mucous membrane at the same spot by a sharp pointed probe. o' bitting her finger nails, and moreover, could remember that one day or two previous to the onset of her throat trouble a piece of nail she had bitten off had become lost in her month, but after it had caused a fit of coughing she had forgot ten about it and was reminded by my discovery.

Wooden Toothpicks. A too hpick fatory, so says the Timberman, is one of the flourishing woodworking establishments at Harbor Springs, Mich., and is one of the largest factories of the kind in the country. White birch is exclusively used in the manufacture of the toothpicks, and about 7,500,000 of the handy little splicters are turned out daily. The logs are sawed up into bolts each 28 inches in length, then thoroughly steamed and cut up into veneer. The veneer is cut into long ribbons, three inches in width, and these long streaming ribbons, eight or ten of them at a time, are run through the toothpick machinery, coming out at the other end, the perfect pieces falling into one basket, the broken pieces and refuse falling into another. The picks are packed into boxes, 1,500 in a box, by girls, mostly comely-looking young squays, and are then packed in cases and finally into big boxes, ready for shipment to all parts of the world. The white birch toothpicks are very neat and clean in appearance, sweet to the taste, and there is a wide market for them. The goods sell at the factory at $190 a case of 150,000 picks, 100 small boxes each containing 1,500, and the small boxes each containing 1,500, and the small boxes retail at five cents each. or 300 pick for one cent, at which rate almost everybody can afford to take a fresh toothpick after each meal, Concerning Smutted Wheat. It has been demonstrated over and over again that perfectly clean ground will produce a clean crop. It is with smut as with weeds of all sorts; if we have seeds we shall have weeds grow- tie trade, the finest brands of ing up as a result, but if we have no seeds there will be no weeds. So with Illimuninating : and : Lubricating : Oils, smut. Clean seed upon a clean field will result in a clean crop. Never allow a second crop to immediately follow a smutted crop of wheat. There are at least two diseases of wheat to which the name of smut is popularly 17 applied, although they can be readily distinguished by a little care in maks I. ing examination of the heads. In the LAST OPPORTUNITY! the interior of each being a black, powderly mass, the skin the grain being, however, intact. In the other case, not only are the kernels affected and entirely des royed, but the chaff is also attacked and all are reduced to a black powder, which drops to the ground upon the slightest touch or is borne away by the gentlest breeze.

IRGINIA FARMS FOR SALE.

A Danish Marriage.

Danish wedding vary according to the means of the bride's parents, but there are seldom less than 50 assembled, and often as many as 150; o'd and young, says the Fortnightly Review. A day or two before the wedding the various guests send their gifts, not to the bride, but to her parents, consisting generally of contributions toward the expected feast, and beyond participating in much revelry and good cheer the bride and bridegroom do not personally benefit. One friend contributes, say, eight pounds of golden butter, piled high on a platter fringed with greenery; another a score or two of eggs or some chickens. A lamb, joints of beef, or a small cask of fine old October brew follow in quick succession, and in this way the parents frequently receive more provender than can be consumed at the festivity, andtheir sole expense consists in the hiring of plates and dishes from the nearest stores in the town where the farmer sells his grain and buys his wife's groceries end ribbons. For months before the wedding the bride with her mother and sisters have been hard at work at the loom, spinning and weaving all the linen for the person as well as for the house; which store, together with a couple of young horses, a couple of cows, and a pair of sheep, invariably form a part of her marriage portion. Bridsl ornaments are not beirlooms, as in Norway. The Danish peasant girl wears a simple crown of myrtle with her national costume-varying with the district, but always charming-and pots of myrtle are carefully cherished by girlish hands through the long winterr in anticipation of the great event, Her sole heirloem is the great oaken dower chest, heavily clamped and often finely carved, that holds her goodly store of linen. At 11 o'clock on the wedding morning all the guests meet at the house of the bride, driving up in carts, and when she is ready the long procession starts for the church, headed by two outriders, who are the best men. Next follows a cart containing the band, three or four brass instruments and that standing dish, the village fiddler. After them comes the cart containing the bride alone, both parents remaining at home to put the finishing touches to the festive board already spread. Behind the bride comes the bridegroom, also alone, driven by a karle. He sits in the middle of his vehicle in all the con scious glory of a new tall hat and vast cloak with many capes, wern even in The Most Complete Newspaper Pub- and cried in disput; "That knocks the summer time, much as the lord nayor wears his robe, as lending a dignity suitable to the solemnity and as a mark of distinction. Near the church children strew flowers, as well as near the bride't old home, where there is also an archway draped with flags. Returning from church the bride and bridegroom sit together, the band preceding them, heralding their approach with a fanfare. Old Furniture.

Old furniture is so valued nowadays that housewives, who often include amateur cabinet making and repairing in their accomplishments, may find use for the following experience of a London mechanic. He recommends sawdust or raspings of hard and soft wood for filling the cracks and worm hojes in old pieces of furninure, and says that he learned their value in his young days from Oriental carpenters. You should sift it through wire gauze. Put each separately in a box with a label and you are always ready for a sudden job. For a crack, a worm eaten hole or a deep flaw prepare the proper dust, by tht admixture of brick dust in flour (also keep ready), or whiting, or other, or any required tint. Then take well cooked glue, and on a house plate stir it in slowly while hot, with sufficient powder for your work. Dab the hole or crack with your glue brush, then with a putty knife stir about the mixture on the plate, taking care you have the right color. When sure on this point, take some of the cement on the end of the knife and insert it in the desired place. Then use as much pres sure as you possibly can with the blade and keep smoothing at it. Sprinkle a little of the powder on the spot. When thoroughly dry sandpaper the surface with an old used piece, so as not to abrade the joint. You can then varnish the mending. Where weevil and woodworms have devoured the furniture, cautiously cut out the part till a sound place be reached. Poison the wood with a solution of sulphate of copper mjected into the hollow. Let it dry. Cut an angular piece of same wood from your board, and with sherp chisel make a suitable aperture for its reception. Fix it with glue. When DON'T BUY thoroughly dry, work with earving tools or rasp and glass, scraping till the Rubber Boots until new bit of work exactly matches the

A Ball of Fire at Non.

Capt. Henry, of the steamship 5'. Regulus, which arrived from Hamburg to New York, had several interests? stories to relate when he gut to his piet. During the entire voyage he consuntered most disagreeable wereher. Strong gales, at times blowing with hurricane force, towns the eleamer about, while immense was swept her decks. Sormy weather was growing paite monotonous, when it was suddeny loterruped one morning, (The steamer was then about thirty miles wouth west of Nuntucket. She was traveling very slowly, creeping through banks of dense fog. The wind and sea were quite moderate and all hands were intently peering through the fog, when their watch was suddenly interrupted. A brilliant and dezzling ball of fire came through the fog, passing over the ship from fore to uft.

The officers on deck were too much dazed at its sudden and flery apprarance to appreciate its artistic eff-ct upon their foggy surroundings until it was too late. Their minds were filled with strange delusions, and some of them thought that their veszel was domed. Capt. Henry says that the ball of fire illuminated his whole wessel and the sea for a distance around. It disappeared into the sea about three hundred. yards beyond the steamer. Capt. Heary says it was soly a meteor which mariners frequently see at this season
