The proposition of Representative Springer is correct in principle and perfectly fair to every caudidate and party. Under this plan of choosing a President the people could vote directly for the candidate and every vote, whether cast in Vermont or Texas, would count. It would wipe out sectionalism as a political factor, break the solid South as well as the solid North. A Republican candidate for President would have his vote counted for him in every Southern State and the Democratic candidate imost entirely sold to distillers, while would get his proportional return in every Northern State. Under this plan there could be no "pivota! State," therefore the expenditure of immense sums of money to carry any particular State would be useless and the corruption of elections would be checked to temperance organizations in the State that extent. There is really no good reason why this proposition should not be incorporated in the federal constitution in sieu of the present elec oral plan. It is a pity, though, that Mr. Spring er has tacked on to his proposed amend ment a provision extending the presidential term to six years. He should make haste to seperate the two.
