Paying the Piper.

Is it not quite plain from the reports whether that little bill of $5,000 for the solids and liquids consumed by the legislators during their New York picnic is to be paid by the State or out of the Legislators' private and individual treaspeople they should hear and heed the uries. In the latter case, we would commiserate our lawmakers. In the former, the tax paying public would only have another item added to the expenses of a Legislature which has already coe; more than it comes to. From the recalcitiation in which the lawmakers indulge, however, we conclude that they have got to pay it themselves. So much kicking over a bil! which the taxpayers have got to foot would be entirely out of harmony with the legislative precedents. On that view we present our sincere condolence to our statesmen. A bill of $16 66 each for six meals, or an average of $2.75 per meal, is too rich for the legislative blood. Our Solons find themselves in the embarrassing position themselves in the embarrassing position of the man who with a slender purse and a more than correspondingly large appetite ate everything in sight at a cold in the head.
