

In the Senate at Washington, on Monday, the bill increasing the salaries of United States District Judges from $4,000 to $5,000 per annum was passed.

EX-GOVERNOR JAMES E. ENGLISH, of New Haven, Connecticut died at his home in that city on Sunday last, aged 78 years. Ex-Governor English was three times Governor of Connecticut and in 1867 was the only Democratic Governor in the United States.

With the approval of the constables bonds was taken up by the Court at Pittsburg, on Monday, Judge Ewing made the announcement that he and Judge Single, were of the opinion that constables elected in 1889 held office for three years; therefore, the election held this year in the townships and boroughs for constable was no election at all.

A MILE A MINUTE was made on Thursday last week by the engineer of the Central Pacific west-bound fast mail in an effort to reach the water tank at Blue Creek, thirty-three miles west of Ogden, Utah, in time to extinguish the flames devouring a very valuable through mail car, ignited en route. Six minutes could not save it, however, and the car, with its 128 sacks, was totally consumed. The passengers were greatly excited during the short, swift run.

The proposal to erect a monument to Wm. Henry Harrison, who was President for one month, says the Pittsburg Times, (Heraldism), comes rather late. His best service was rendered when he was Governor of the Great Northwest, fighting the Indians and manifesting high civil and military qualities. His grandson, the President of the United States at the present time, will or will not have a monument, as some future Congress shall determine. At present there is no such thought.

The State Revenue Commission will hold a session at Harrisburg on the 13th instant, when farmers will have an opportunity to turn out in force to make known their grievance against the present tax law. The Commission has already held a session in Philadelphia. It is a difficult matter to formulate a tax law to suit all classes of the people of this State. Perhaps a movement in the right direction is now being made to draft a bill to remove the burdens complained of by farmers and other interested parties, to be submitted to the next Legislature for its consideration.

The eventual fall of the British House of Lords is again foreshadowed in the announcement that the Government contemplates introducing once more at the next session of Parliament the black sheep bill, the object of which is to keep out of the upper House those peers who are a discredit to their order. The bill will differ from others in that it will invest a committee of the House, consisting of judicial peers and certain lay peers, with the power of penal discipline over the House of Lords. The action of the committee will be the subject of confirmation or rejection by the House itself, but if the bill is literally construed upon the lines designated the membership of the House of Lords will be materially decreased.

All the proceedings of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, says the Chicago Herald, indicate that it is the intention of the party not to diminish taxation, but to increase it to the very verge of a revolution. With the Republican taxation is a ratchet-wheel which turns only one way, and that way forward. The truth is that this sudden and exorbitant increase of taxation is absolutely necessary if the Republican policy of administering the Government is to be carried out. This policy, if it can be dignified with that name, is simply to enrich with public plunder every member of the party. In order to do this it is proposed to steal all the money now in the Treasury, and all that can be got into it during the present Administration.

People who travel will be interested in a recent decision made by the Supreme Court of Nebraska. A man who occupied a berth in a car went out to get breakfast, leaving his overcoat in his seat, and when he returned found it had been stolen. He recovered the value of the coat, the court holding that the sleeping-car company renders a service similar to that of a hotel-keeper, and is subject to the same liabilities. Articles carried by a traveler, and necessary to his comfort, when placed in the care of the company's employees are at the company's risk. The question is one that has not been passed upon in many States, but this decision will be quoted as a precedent in any future cases. It certainly seems a just protection to the traveling public.

A FIRE broke out in the Rock Tunnel of the South Wilkesbarre Colliery in Luzerne county, Pa., on Monday evening, and eight men who were working there were cut off and imprisoned. The day shift of men had just come out and the night shift was in a gangway off the tunnel, when Thomas Jameson, the driver boy, started in with his two mules to bring out their loaded cars. He had not got five hundred feet from the bottom of the shaft when the naked light he carried on his head fired a heavy blower of gas, which was escaping from a crevice in the coal. The flame was strong, and in a few minutes the dry, half-roofed timber of the sides and roof had caught fire and were in a light blaze. Jameson started to warn the men of their danger but did not get back. He with the other seven men are shut in by a wall of fire and although, rescuing parties have been at work ever since, the men have not been reached and there is very little hope of their being reached alive.

It is the intention of the Democrats in Congress to have the action of the Republicans in unseating Democratic members tested in the Courts. Mr. Pendleton, of West Virginia, who was unseated in discussing the situation on Monday said: "The action in turning me out was clearly unconstitutional. A member is unseated by the House, and the quorum consists of 166 members, not 162. There are two ways and two places in which the question of constitutionality may be brought up. Suit can either be brought in the Supreme Court or in the Court of Claims. The proceedings can be quo-warranto in nature, and based on a call to the Speaker to show cause why he prevents me from exercising the privileges of a member. A suit for salary can also be entered. In either event the question for settlement will be whether the Speaker has a right to declare a member unseated without a quorum." The Democrats say that they will not bring suit until Mr. Atkinson the member seated in place of Mr. Pendleton votes on some bill which becomes a law, and then they will make the point that it is unconstitutional.

ADMIRAL SHEPHERD, of the United States Navy, tells how the Russians are slinking territory from the Chinese; on the boundary between Siberia and China. The means of communication are so poor in China and the avenues of news are so few that it is impossible for the Chinese to keep track of the goings on in their provinces. The Russians send a regiment of Cossacks, with their families, about ten or fifteen miles into China. The regiment will settle down, take up the land and cultivate it. They take up the boundary stones as they settle down, and put them at the edge of their settlements, and the next year another regiment comes along, and takes up the land below and moves the boundary stones further on toward Peking. These encroachments have been going on for years, and the Chinese cannot understand the perpetual shrinkage of their northern frontier.

On all vital points affecting the welfare of the country the Harrison Administration, says the Albany Argus, has been a disastrous failure, and when to its malign influence is added the recklessness and extravagance of the present Congress, the situation becomes a most gloomy one, and the outlook very dark. Even the marvelous energy and progress of our country can hardly suffice against such destructive forces, and it will be providential rather than natural if we escape a panic as the result of this misgovernment. The Congressional elections in the Fall will afford the people an opportunity of recording their verdict on the Harrison Administration, and the palpable indications are that it will be a most emphatic verdict—one that will, at least, check the saturnalia of plunder now in full operation at the National Capital.

THE NEW YORK POST remarks: What does the Administration mean by appointing negroes, and "low-down" ones at that, to important positions in the South? There is not a city or town in the North which would not resent the placing of a negro in charge of the postoffice, and the Republican party has never appointed a negro to any postoffice in the North during all its long lease of power. Why are negro officials forced upon the Southern whites when Northern whites are not required to have them? Do the Republican managers think the way to build up the Republican party in the South is to appoint Dudley's in such places as America? Or have those managers "got mad" at the Southern whites because they will not vote the Republican ticket, and made up their minds to use all the powers of the Federal Government to "aggravate" them?

A SENSATIONAL shooting affair occurred at Washington, on Friday in which the principals were an ex-Congressman and a well-known newspaper man. Both are Kentuckians. W. P. Taubee, who represented a Kentucky district in the House during the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses, was the victim, and Charles Kincaid, the Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times, did the shooting. The House was engaged in its deliberations when Kincaid's pistol shot reverberated through the corridors of the Capitol. A minute later the House was almost empty and a great crowd of excited employes and others was hurrying through the corridors toward the scene of the shooting. Kincaid was at once arrested, but since then the wound of Taubee has been found to be not serious and there will likely be no prosecution.

The jury in the Leoney murder case tried at Camden, N. J., brought in a verdict on Monday not guilty. The verdict was received with applause. The case was a remarkable one. Chalkey Leoney, a well-to-do farmer, was charged with killing his niece, Anna Leoney. The trial has been in progress four weeks. Chalkey Leoney was at first considered guilty, and circumstantial evidence was strong against him. The defence, however, created a sensation at the trial by advancing the theory that the crime had been committed by two colored men, one of which assaulted the girl, then killed her to hide his crime. From the beginning to the end of the trial the jury and father of the murdered girl were firm believers in the prisoners' innocence and testified in his favor.

The Louisiana Lottery Company is making a desperate effort to retain its corporate life. It has failed to secure a charter from North Dakota, and its next move, it is said, will be an enormous bribe to the Louisiana legislature for a renewal of its present charter, which will expire two years hence. Its proposition will be to pay the entire State debt, amounting from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. The lottery is earning $250,000 a month, or $4,700,000 per annum, net. Many prominent Louisianians fear that the bribe may be accepted.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The House Committee on Ways and Means today received the bill appropriating $3,447,945 for the payment of damages sustained by persons of Pennsylvania as a result of the invasion and raids of the Confederate troops and by the operations of the federal troops during the war of rebellion. The hour of adjournment arrived before the bill was completed, and it was made the special order for Monday next.

HARD TIMES FOR FARMERS. The farmers of Montgomery and Berks counties have been aroused to organized action by the general depression in the "farmers' market" to the Queen was passed by the Commons at Ottawa, and the young Liberals of Toronto and Montreal passed counter-resolutions in favor of Canadian independence, and the Dominion has been quietly proceeding in this city for the establishment of an organization which will work systematically and energetically in the interest of the "farmers of the country." The project is as yet in its infancy, but its promoters, though somewhat reticent admit that it is a most important one. They say that the end in view is a patriotic one, and only peaceful and constitutional methods will be employed. A Caucus will be called in the near future, with ramifications all through the land and beyond its borders, will be formed. It will have an organ published in the English language, which will be called "1892" the date upon which it is hoped independence will have been brought about.

For the French Canadians, the League will rely for organs on several of the Liberal newspapers which have already declared for a Canadian republic. All the Liberal newspapers in the country will be so many branches under the direction of the Supreme Council in this city. It is hoped that independence clubs will be formed in every county, if not in every town and village. Literature favoring the change will be prepared and distributed abundantly. Mergers and amalgamations at every station will be asked to pledge themselves to the idea. This will be for this country. Outside an effort will be made to secure the cooperation of the independent nations of both Americas to remove "in 1892 from free America the last vestige of monarchical European domination." The date is chosen because of its being the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. Universities and colleges which favor the extension of Democratic ideas and the triumph of Democratic institutions advance the League's policy, and exert their moral influence in securing the independence of Canada. A large number of prominent politicians, especially in the West, have declared themselves in private in favor of independence.

A Pair of Female Highway Robbers. WHEELING, West Va., March 2.—A tremendous sensation has been created in the western part of this State by the arrest of two women, the wives of well-to-do farmers, for professional highway robbery. Some of their adventures were as bold as any of Jack Sheppard's or that ever figured in a romance. A series of sensational highway robberies have lately been committed in a remote part of Jackson county. On the 12th of February, a blacksmith and a to-do farmer was stopped on the road, near his home apparently by two masked men, who presented revolvers and demanded money. The farmer, who was as bold as any of Jack Sheppard's or that ever figured in a romance.

The old story LOUISVILLE, March 4.—William H. Mitchell, a teller of the Louisville City National bank, absconded on last Saturday with $60,000 of the bank's money in his possession. Nothing has since been heard of him, it is supposed that he is now in Canada. The bank will not be inconvenienced by its loss, which will amount to not more than $20,000. Mitchell carried off a gilt edged bond of $30,000. Monday morning Pope failed to appear at his desk at the usual hour. It was ascertained that he had come to the bank shortly before 9 o'clock, and in company with the cashier, Mr. William S. Parker, open the safe, take out the money and books, and arrange for the day's business. The minutes went by and still Pope did not come. "Well, he's gone to his father's home, about eight miles from town, and cannot get back owing to the high water," thought the bank officials. "He has a sister who is at the point of death, and maybe she is dead," said Mr. Parker.

View President Leech was in his private office. He sent for Mr. Parker and asked if Pope had reported. Mr. Parker sent back word that he had not. Mr. Leech went to the front and the thought flashed across his mind that possibly the teller had robbed the bank of a large sum of money. "We will open the safe and count the money," said Mr. Leech. He and two cashier went into the vault. The officers commenced to count the money and clerks began to check Pope's accounts. In a short time both were finished, and $60,000 in bank and certified State notes were found missing. It is known that Pope took the money on Saturday night for Chicago. It is not known whether Pope went to Canada or to Mexico from there. A large number of photographs and descriptions of him were mailed to all points in Canada, the United States and Mexico. His disappearance is attributed to whisky and poker.

Was he Buried Alive. ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 3.—The local press is puzzled over the case of John J. O'Connor, which is certainly a most remarkable one. It was claimed that he had died and his body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified by his wife, who had him buried in Calvary Cemetery. A few days later it was claimed that O'Connor was alive, that his wife had been mistaken, and that the man who was taken to the grave was not her husband. It now transpires that there is every reason to believe that O'Connor was not buried by proxy, but in his own person. He was buried in the Calvary cemetery in the morning, and his body was taken to a dissecting room while in a state of suspended animation, and that when the first incision was made it caused a flow of blood, which restored him to consciousness. He states that he went to a lodging house Monday evening, and that he knew nothing more until Wednesday night, when he found himself seated on the Court House steps in dazed condition, weak and sick.

The New Discovery. You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know nothing about it, but just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the more you know about it, the more you are a fan. Dr. King's New Discovery never holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any throat, lung or chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottles free at E. James', Ebensburg, and W. W. McAteer's, Loretto.

INDEPENDENCE FOR CANADA. MONTREAL, March 3.—Events are shaping themselves gradually but surely for some radical change in Canada's status. Ever since the loyalist address to the Queen was passed by the Commons at Ottawa, and the young Liberals of Toronto and Montreal passed counter-resolutions in favor of Canadian independence, and the Dominion has been quietly proceeding in this city for the establishment of an organization which will work systematically and energetically in the interest of the "farmers of the country." A man named Wise created a sensation at New Brighton, Pa., on Monday evening by shooting from the steps of the Clyde House at a crowd of boys who were celebrating him. The leaden missile passed through the window of the Adams Express office, missing the agent by a hairbreadth. An effort was made to arrest the offender, but he escaped on an outgoing train.

A dispatch from Youngstown, Ohio, says: Mrs. Edward Geys, the wife of a painter, several months ago gave birth to a child, which died a few hours after. The baby was not buried, but placed in a bottle of water to preserve it. Wednesday the mother left the city on a visit, and placed the jar in the hands of a neighbor for safe keeping, who turned it over to the officers.

Just before noon at Pittsburg, on Wednesday, two workmen attempted to thaw out several stacks of frozen dynamite, and a small fire followed—a terrible explosion which killed a blacksmith and shop which they were in and instantly killed one man, named David Hayes, and another, William Snoddy, had an arm and leg broken and will die.

A 14-year-old boy living at Hookstown, Pa., went to a trap he had set for a fox and a big wild animal in it. Johnny attempted to kill the animal with a club, but it sprang at him with such rapidity that it broke the chain by which the trap was anchored, landed with its fore paws on the boy's chest, tearing the clothing away and sinking its claws in the little fellow's flesh. The boy sprang to his ground and killed the animal with a club.

John Wilson, a young farmer living near Erie, is the victim of hydrophobia. He lies in convalescence, and the case is well marked. Twenty-four years ago he was bitten through the hand by a dog. A few weeks ago he felt a numbness in his hand, and as soon as it had reached his shoulder he was seized with rabies. Neighbors held him fast with buckskin covered hands. During the lucid intervals the poor fellow begged piteously to be smothered and put out of his misery. He is a single man and is 28 years of age.

A three-year-old child whose parents were asleep in a coach of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern passenger train No. 9 walked down the aisle and fell off the platform when the train was a mile from Eckhart, Ind., on Friday, on its way to Chicago, and running at a high rate of speed. It was supposed the child had been instantly killed, but upon stopping the train and going back to the site, one was found standing in the middle of the track unharmed. Railroad men say they never heard of such a miraculous escape.

Mrs. Mart Campbell, of Manor, Westmoreland county, committed suicide Saturday night by blowing out her brains with a 32-caliber revolver. She got out of bed about 1 o'clock, dressed herself, and went out to the well, raised the small trap door, climbed part way down the well, placed the revolver close to her head and pulled the trigger. The bullet passed through the brain, and she was found by some of her neighbors, who were worried by the noise, and carried to the house, where she died. Her husband and her two married daughters, and her maid were unharmed.

NEWS AND OTHER NOTINGS. An eccentric old lady living near Dresden, Tenn., has purchased her burial robe. She is seventy years old and insists that she cannot last much longer. General Sherman confesses that he likes the bands to play "Marching through Georgia" in his honor. He was surprised by hearing the tune as a serenade when he visited Ireland, and was surprised to learn that it was an ancient Irish air. The authorities in Berlin have just discovered a cunning method devised to circumvent the law prohibiting the importation of American hogs into Germany. American hams are now taken to Holland, where they are smoked and then sent over the frontier as Dutch hams. Vagabonds driving a band of cattle to Sierra City, last month, were overtaken by the great snow storm. They knew the locality of a haystack, however, which they reached by sinking a shaft 25 feet in depth through the snow and by that means secured feed for their live stock.

Mrs. Matilda L. Case, a wealthy Brooklyn widow, has wedded George J. Bolles, aged nineteen. Bolles is leaving to be a sailor on board a training ship with a twenty-two-year old son of his bride. They were comrades, but do not speak now. Mrs. Case asserts that it was a case of true love. It is heralded from New York that Nellie Bly has severed her connection with the World over the disagreement with that paper as to the increased salary she was to receive after her return from her trip around the world. The statement is denied at the World office, where it is said that Miss Bly is on a vacation.

Edward Hart, a printer living at Bradock, was badly injured on the Pennsylvania Railroad at the place on Friday afternoon. He had just stepped from a passenger train, and, attempting to cross the track, he was struck by a freight train and thrown under the wheels. His right leg was cut off and his left arm crushed so severely that it will have to be amputated.

The new cantilever bridge across the Colorado River, 12 miles below Needles, will require 3,200,000 pounds of iron to complete it. It rests upon two massive stone piers that are 65 feet below the bed of the river, and the center span is the longest unsupported one in the world—600 feet between the cantilevers. The contractors expect have the bridge finished by May 1.
